The Fascisti say that Italy's needs are not properly safeguarded a they have two great sea fronts, the Adriatic and the Mediterranean.

A sharp change in the Italian policy toward Turkey is expected to develop as Fascisti organs and statesmen already are asking "What are we getting by boosting Turkish sovereignty in Constantinople and elsewhere, which means the abandonment of our commercial and business interests there?"

There is a possibility but only a possibility that Senator Pomerene of Ohio may be elevated to the bench in case of his defeat at the forthcoming election. Both Justice Clarke, who resigned some time ago, and Justice Day who goes off the bench in two weeks, are appointed from Ohio. Chief Justice Taft was appointed from Connecticut and this would then leave the court without a member from Ohio. Pomerene is credited with being a good lawyer and of wide experience in public life. The suggestion has been made that his appointment might be considered but those in a position to judge do not think it probable.

SHIPS ON THE PACIFIC ARE ON INCREASE

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

HONOLULU (T. H.) Oct. 27.—Important problems of communication in the Pacific, trade routes and free port zones occupied the Pan-Pacific Commercial Congress today in a session devoted entirely to international communication discussion.

Henry Blackwood of Seattle presented the American angle of the general topic, "Significant Pan-Pacific Trade Problems of My Country," which also was discussed by representatives of Siam and Siberia.

Baron Y. Togo of Japan detailed the present inadequate cable facilities in the Pacific and told of the efforts of his government and of private financiers in Japan to improve them.

Capt. I. N. Hibberd of the San Francisco Chamber of Commerce delegation, handling the subject of "Ocean Trade Routes," declared that "there is no more important problem facing the commercial world today than that of so arranging overseas transportation that each nation may have its share of the business, at the same time avoiding those commercial rivalries which rob the traffic of its just profit and almost always provide the real cause of armed conflict."

GROWTH OF PACIFIC FLEET

Capt. Hibberd outlined America's shipping problem, with 100 times as many ships as she had in 1914, a problem which, he said, had an important bearing on the whole question of ocean trade routes.

As a step toward the solution of the problem, the San Francisco delegate suggested dividing the different oceans into trade zones and apportioning them among the various nations according to their geographcial positions and commercial needs.

"The principal need of the American people," said Capt. Hibbard, is to establish fast passenger and freight lines to the Orient, so as to give them a well-balanced fleet and provide dependable transportation for merchants developing markets in Far Eastern countries."

The "open door" for Japanese immigration in all of the countries bordering the Pacific Ocean was urged this afternoon in a paper read to the congress.

The paper, read by Delegate Osaka and prepared by Dr. Zensaku Sano, president of the Tokio University of Commerce, and Bungo Ishikawa, a professor in the university, proved a sensation.

WOULD OPEN TROPICS

"Japanese immigration will aid in the development of the world's natural wealth," the paper stated, "if we require the governments having extensive colonies in the tropics and semitropics to adopt the open door policy. It's not so

DENVER (Colo.) Oct. 27.—The tiny finger of his baby snuffed out the life of Fred Kraus, 35 years old, a farmer residing four miles south of Hudson, a dispatch to The News here tonight stated.

Kraus was leaning on the muzzle of a gun and talking to his wife. His 2-year-old son, playing on the floor, caught at the stock of the shotgun, his finger pulling the trigger. The shot blew off the top of Kraus' head.

Fire Destroys Shops

NASHVILLE (Tenn.) Oct. 27.—Fire, sweeping through the main shops of the Tennessee Central Railway here tonight, destroyed three adjoining buildings covering an acre of ground, five locomotives and more than thirty box cars, together with much valuable machinery. The loss was estimated at more than $400,000.

Jury Disagrees

SACRAMENTO, Oct. 27.—After having been closeted for nearly four hours, the jury in the case of ten Industrial Workers of the World charged with violating the California Criminal Syndicalism Act, disagreed tonight and was discharged. The vote stood nine to three for conviction.

BROTHER OF WILSON IS IN CUSTODY

Suspected of complicity in a number of department store burglaries throughout Southern California, Frank Wilson, 38 years old, brother of Herbert Wilson, convicted murderer, who escaped from the County Jail here less than two weeks ago and was later recaptured, was arrested last night by Detective Sergeants Bartley and Allen and Officer L. D. (Dinty) Moore.

The arresting officers declare that, when arrested, Wilson had in the place where he was staying at 1302 East Sixty-first street, a quantity of godos that were stolen from a haberdashery in Fillmore, Cal., which was recently looted of goods valued at more than $4000.

Two other major burglaries are also laid at the door of a gang that Frank Wilson is said to have been the leader. These are Cooper Underwear Company, 770 South Los Angeles street and the Goodstein Company, 711 East Fifth street. Both firms lost thousands of dollars' worth of merchandise.

Frank Wilson is the second of the three Wilson brothers to land in jail. Louis Wilson, the third, is sought on a charge of highway robbery, it being charged that he accompanied Herbert Wilson when the latter held up a mail truck at Third and Alameda streets.

DEATH VEIL TORN ASIDE IN MYSTERY

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

NEW BRUNSWICK (N. J.) Oct. 27.—The Hall-Mills murder mystery has been solved. Soon the world will know how the rector of the Church of St. John the Evangelist and his favorite choir singer met death on the night of September 14 beneath a scrubby crab-apple tree on the Phillips farm on the outskirts of the city, just over the Somerset county line.

Ex-Judge Wilbur A. Mott, special assistant Attorney-General, declared tonight that the case "is a mystery no longer."

Mott clearly indicated that he will, within a very short time, present evidence to the Somerset county grand jury on which he will ask one or more indictments.

Mrs. Jane Gibson, whose story of the fearful struggle which preceded the killing and whose identification of Mrs. Frances Stevens Hall, widow of the murdered rector, as the woman seen in De Russy's Lane a few moments before the quarrel and firing of the shots, were first published in these dispatches, will be the State's chief witness.

Judge Mott and his chief investigator, Detective James Mason, assert their belief in the statement made by Mrs. Gibson of what she saw and heard on the fatal night.

"MYSTERY NO LONGER"

For some reason, which is not explained, Judge Mott will not order an immediate arrest, though he has stated that the time has arrived to take some definite action in the case.

It is believed Mott favors the plan to delay the arrest or arrests until after the evidence gathered in the thrilling investigation has been presented to the county inquisitorial body. Judge Mott was interviewed today as follows:

Question: This is a complex mystery, isn't it?

Answer: It's complex, but it's a mystery no longer.

Q.: Do you still believe in the credibility of Mrs. Gibson's statement?

A.: I do.

Q.: Have you talked with anyone who corroborates her story?

A.: Most certainly. That was the first thing to do.

Q.: Have they corroborated it?

A.: Oh, sure.

Q.: Who are they?

A.: I don't care to say.

Q.: Do you consider it time to make an arrest?

A.: It is time to act.

GUARDED ANSWERS

Q.: Why don't you act?

A.: It's a matter of judgment.

Q.: What is your judgment?

"BISHOP OF ALL OUTDOORS" VICTIM; SLAYER A SUICIDE

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

HAVRE (Mont.) Oct. 27.—The deaths of the Rev. Leonard Jacob Christler, widely known clergyman of Montana, rector of St. Mark's Church of the Incarnation here, and Mrs. Marguerite Carleton in the Christler home early today were so plainly a case of murder and suicide by the woman that no inquest probably will be held, the Coroner and Sheriff's office announced tonight. The pistol with which the two were killed was still clasped in Mrs. Carleton's hand and her finger was still on the trigger when he arrived in response to Mrs. Christler's call, Dr. MacKenzie told the Coroner.

Unless relatives of the minister or of Mrs. Carleton, who was the wife of former Judge Frank Carleton of the District Court of Hill county, insist on an inquest, none will be held, it was announced.

After a day spent in hunting for a motive that would have induced Mrs. Carleton to kill the clergyman and herself, officers declared that they were unable to find one. It was generally believed that Mrs. Carleton must have been suffering from temporary insanity when she fired the two shots.

Investigation disclosed that before she went to the Christler home late last night, Mrs. Carleton had partly destroyed a number of letters and other papers in her room in a local hotel. All fragments of these that could be deciphered indicated that they were from her mother, daughter and husband. The latter now is in Los Angeles, Cal. A letter from her husband informed her he was sending her a sum of money.

The Rev. Mr. Christler was killed by a bullet that entered his right breast and came out through the back of his left shoulder. Mrs. Carleton was shot through the heart. Both died instantly, according to Mrs. Christler, who was in an adjoining room at the time of the shooting.

Officers tonight had been unable to discover where Mrs. Carleton obtained the pistol she held in her hand when the doctor arrived. It is known that Mrs. Carlton possessed a pistol of smaller caliber than the one used in the shooting. Failure to secure further information regarding the pistol, however, it was said, did not shake the murder and suicide theory of the officers.

WIDOW TELLS STORY

Mrs. Christler was but a few feet away when the tragedy occurred.

According to her story, the Rev. Mr. Christler held services at the church Thursday night. These were attended by a visiting minister. Afterward Mrs. Christler suggested that the two ministers, several men who were attending the services and herself go to a restaurant and have supper. She then left for the Christler home, one of the most imposing residences in Havre, to secure some keys.

Approaching her home, Mrs. Christler said she saw the house lighted and going in, discovered Mrs. Carleton tearing up a number of photographs of the Rev. Mr. Christler and burning them.

Mrs. Christler said Mrs. Carleton gave no explanation, but talked in an incoherent manner. After a while, according to the minister's wife, both women went away together, Mrs. Christler joining her husband and friends and remaining in the restaurant until late in the evening.

Returning to the Christler home with his wife, the Rev. Mr. Christler commented that he smelled smoke. Mrs. Christler declared she did not tell her husband of Mrs. Carleton's visit because they had discussed Mrs. Carleton in the past and she did not want to bring up the matter again.

The Christlers had been in the house only a short time when Mrs. Carleton entered, according to the minister's wife. The three engaged in an ordinary conversation for some time, said Mrs. Christler.

When Mrs. Carleton arose to leave the house, the Rev. Mr.

FOES OF LLOYD GEORGE JOLTED BY VOTE POLL

BY JOHN STEELE

LONDON, Oct. 27.—[By Wireless.] I am informed that a very careful estimate as to the strength of the various parties in the next Parliament, which has been made by Conservative managers, is responsible for the olive branches now being put out in various parts of the country by Conservative organizations to Lloyd George's candidates.

"Estimates have convinced the Conservatives that they will only be able to govern the vote in Parliament with the help of Mr. Lloyd George, who will have it in his power to turn them out at any time.

The new House of Commons will consist of 615 members, instead of the old number, 707, owing to the withdrawal of the Irish. The Conservatives only expect to elect about 300 members, and they estimate Mr. Lloyd George will have about 100, and labor perhaps 130, leaving sixty-five to be divided among the Asquith Liberal and the Tory independent groups.

All this, of course, is based on the assumption that the women will vote like the men, but as this is the first general election in which they have taken part, there may be some surprises.

Prime Minister Bonar Law returned from Glasgow this morning, and began trying to complete his Cabinet and attending to other routine tasks. He slipped into town almost unrecognized.

A couple of hours later Mr. Lloyd George left the same station en route to Glasgow, where he will speak tomorrow. He found a great crowd of his supporters at the station, and all along the route crowds assembled wherever the train stopped, demanding speeches and to shake his hand. He confined his speeches to a few words of thanks for the encouragement of his supporters.

MANIFESTO BY CHURCHILL

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

LONDON, Oct. 27.—An election manifesto, written from a sick bed by Winston Spencer Churchill, Secretary for the Colonies in the Lloyd George Cabinet, points out that the present is the first time since 1885 that a purely Conservative government is in power. Since that time, Mr. Churchill says, there has been a great extension of the franchise, including a gigantic extention to women, "the first conscious manifestation of which we are now about to witness."

"But whereas the Conservative government in 1885 was represented by the whole genius and wisdom of the Conservative party," Mr. Churchill continues, "the present government is short of many of the ablest and most experienced Conservative leaders. Enormous responsibility therefore has been incurred by the men who grasped office under these conditions and now are marching light heartedly to encounter the vast electorate of 20,000,000.

"Mr. Churchill declares it absurd to pretend that Andrew Bonar Law has the vitality, resourcefulness or constructive capacity superior to that which David Lloyd George possessed or that Lord Salisbury has the poise and sagacity which Lord Balfour lacked.

"When I think of the gravity of the hour, its formidable problems, its measureless uncertainties," said the manifesto, "I marvel at the temerity and presumption which have squandered away so many friendly forces and stripped the state of such serviceable experience and power."

After subjecting the new administration to sharp criticism, Mr. Churchill declares his attitude toward the government will be one of freedom and reserve, which does not necessarily mean that he will confront the government with factious opposition. Remarking that the new Premier has declared a new policy identical with the policy the coalition government was pursuing at home and abroad, Mr. Churchill asserts that if the new ministers do their duty and avoid reactionary courses, they should be accorded all reasonable support. He adds the situation is not one calling for a center party.

"I ask you," the manifesto says, "to adopt me simply as a Liberal and free trader, but if the public welfare requires it, I shall not hesitate to co-operate with the sober, patriotic and progressive Unionist element. These are no times when moderate-minded men can afford to dissipate friendship and support."

Mr. Churchill declares this stand is all the more necessary "in view of the formidable Socialist attack

REDS ENTER VLADIVOSTOK

Take Over City as Japanese Troops Evacuate; New War in Offing as Dieterichs Joins Gen. Chang

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

TOKIO, Oct. 27.—Although the general strike at Vladivostok was called off when the Reds entered the city on the heels of the departing Japanese, no dispatches have been received here from independent sources.

The latest Japanese official dispatch says there have been no disorders and the city is so quiet that 200 Japanese residents who had embarked on a transport to await developments, returned today to their homes ashore.

Japanese evacuation of Vladivostok, consummated yesterday, promises to be the signal for a new war in that territory, with Gen. Dieterichs, "die hard" leader of the Russian White Guards, aligned with Chang Tso-Lin, "uncrowned king of Manchuria," according to latest advices received here.

Gen. Dieterichs, who kept the old royalist flag of Russia flying in Vladivostok until a few days before the arrival of the Red forces, is reported to have gone to Chang's capital, Mukden, to discuss an alliance between the two and plans to attack the Reds' line of communications. Meanwhile American and other marines are guarding the foreign consulates at Vladivostok.

The Far Eastern Republic has issued a proclamation advocating a union of all the Russian factions of the territory and promising that all who comply will be free from persecution.

According to information received at the Japanese Foreign Office, the Chita government intends to set up a separate administration at Vladivostok, which will not be regarded as an adjunct of the government of the Far Eastern Republic.

The reason given for this plan is that Vladivostok, being an open port, it is necessary to have an administration there with which the powers can deal.

Gen. Koichiro Tachibana, Japanese commander at Vladivostok, who sailed away from there yesterday with ten transports loaded with his troops, is expected to reach Tokio November 1. He will be given an audience and honored at luncheon by the Emperor.

The Russian colony here is extremely anxious over the fate of fellow-countrymen in the territory evacuated by the Japanese. Many of the Russians who opposed the Reds have been unable to leave Siberia and those who have departed are scattered among Chinese and Korean ports, many being destitute.

Montana Tragedy Enacted in Wife's Hearing

Christler accompanied her into a small hall off the room in which they had been sitting. The Rev. Mr. Christler closed the door behind him. A moment later two shots were heard, according to Mrs. Christler.

The minister's wife said she opened the door and found the bodies.

Mrs. Carleton's body had fallen across that of the minister.

According to friends, Bishop Faber of Montana, more than a year ago, investigated gossip linking the names of the Rev. Mr. Christler and Mrs. Carleton and reported such gossip was untrue.

The Rev. Mr. Christler was a close friend of the Carleton family. His friends declare his interest was based on his desire to aid the Carletons as a minister.

Chief Moran said that he noticed Mrs. Carleton standing before the restaurant where the Christlers were at lunch last night, and that her peculiar actions had so impressed him that he watched her for some time. Examination today of her effects at her hotel, the Chief said, indicated that she had destroyed a large number of letters and telegrams shortly before the tragedy.

Immediately after reporting the tragedy to the police, Mrs. Christler sent telegrams concerning the shooting to relatives of her husband and of Mrs. Carleton.

Mrs. Christler also ordered the bodies taken over by an undertaker and announced that burial of her husband would be in his old home in Cayuaga county, New York, and that burial of Mrs. Carleton would be wherever relatives desired. Mrs. Christler assuming all financial arrangements in connection with both funerals.

Mrs. Christler, widow of the dead minister, is the daughter of the late Davis Wadsworth, wealthy manufacturer of Auburn, N. Y. She is the niece of U. S. Senator J. W. Wadsworth, Jr., of New York State. She married the Rev. Mr. Christler in 1914.

ROSE TO FAME

Mrs. Carleton was the daughter of Don Davenport, formerly of Helena, Mont., now living in the Imperial Valley in California. Mrs. Carleton has a grown daughter by a former marriage.

Chief of Police Moran said this afternoon he saw Mrs. Carleton standing across the street from the Christler home about midnight. The Chief went over and spoke to her, he said.

Mrs. Christler is wealthy and contributed widely to charity during the Rev. Mr. Christler's work in Northern Montana.

Rev. Mr. Christler was 46 years old. Graduating at St. Andrews Seminary, Syracuse, N. Y. in 1896, he was four years rector of Calvary Episcopal Church, Homer, N. J. He served as curate of the St. Peters Church of Auburn, N. Y., from 1900 to 1907, coming to Havre in the latter year as missionary of the Milk River Valley. He developed his field in Montana into one of the largest mission territories in the United States. It extended from Havre to the Dakota line on the east and the Glacier National Park on the west from the Canadian line on the north to the Missouri River on the south.

Through his efforts an imposing church was built at Havre and churches were established at Glasgow, Gilford and Melta, Mont. His constant traveling and work earned him the title of the "Bishop of All Outdoors." The Rev. Mr. Christler and his work have been made the subject of many articles by magazines and other publications.

much to our interest as theirs and that of all the Pacific nations.

"During the last century the tropics have been neglected. We believe there has been no visible increase in the number of white settlers in the last fifty years. Will the government, or their mother countries, fully awake to the necessity of development? If they care for the development of these rich colonies, their only course is to leave the gates open for emigrants from other lands.

"We Japanese, with superabundant population, will be glad to send our men to those sources of natural wealth. We greatly regret our emigrants have been denied access. Didn't the powers urge Japan sixty years ago, at the point of the bayonet, to open her door? We hope these restrictive enactments, of benefit to nobody and which retard the development of nature's gifts, will soon be alleviated if not entirely withdrawn."

Besides the question of immigration, the paper from Japan referred to China and expressed "discontent at the incessant political unrest there."

How closely the name of Roosevelt is linked with the growth of the American Navy was brought home to the congress, when a paper prepared by his son, Theodore Roosevelt, Assistant Secretary of the Navy, was read to the delegates attending the congress.

"Wherever practicable," said Mr. Roosevelt's statement, referring to the naval radio system, "the Navy desires to assist commerce, the press or any world plan of co-operation."

NAVY'S WIRELESS SYSTEM

Discussing the work and possible development of the Navy's wireless system, the Assistant Secretary said:

"Messages of commerce and the press are flashed over 6000 miles of the Pacific Ocean by the United States naval radio stations. Thus, the facilities of this communication service for furthering commerce and the exchange of news in the Pacific are of direct concern to every business and newspaper man interested in that area.

"The Navy is permitted to handle press matter to practically any locality at any rate, provided only that one end of the transaction is connected with American interests. This permission to handle both press and commercial traffic expires June 30, 1923. These restrictions bear directly on traffic arrangements with other radio stations in the Pacific and should be considered when the question arises of extending the Navy's authority to handle this traffic. In giving consideration to that question, the policy of keeping the government out of business would seem to be paramount.

RADIO FOR DEFENSE

"Naval radio stations have been built for national defense and consideration should be given to the following points:

"The full capacity of such stations must, in general, be in excess of their peace-time military requirements.

"Employment at full capacity is of direct benefit to the efficiency of the system.

"Full exchange of news will result in better understanding between all concerned and full exchange will result only when nominal rates are charged, which nominal rates would be too low for the profit of a commercial company.

"Transmission of press matter by the Navy would not seem to compete with commercial systems, as most of the press traffic transmitted by the Navy would not be sent at all if charged at commercial rates.

"Full exchange of news would be of direct benefit to commercial systems, as it seems reasonable to suppose that an increased flow of news between two localities would increase commerce by keeping the activities of one in the thoughts of the other."

Union labor troubles are blamed for the explosion. None of the members of the Sunny family was at home. Mr. Sunny is in New York and Mrs. Sunny is in Italy. The fact that the house was only recently completed by Landis award workers is thought to have inspired the crime.

WARNS CONSTITUENTS

Mr. Churchill warns his constituents that the labor poll will be heavy and that labor should not be underrated. Defending himself against attacks on account of his policy in Mesopotamia and Palestine, he points out that Mr. Bonar Law and Lord Curzon are equally responsible for this policy and says that should they break the promises and repudiate the obligations, "they will be repudiating their own promises and obligations."

Declaring he rejoices that he was associated with the settlement of the Irish question, Mr. Churchill declares that though the die-hards were determined to exact vengeance for a treaty which they could not forgive, now that they have obtained office, they see themselves obliged to accept that policy, and it is indeed the irony of fate that the final stages of this memorable episode should be completed by men who so long fomented the quarrel between the two islands."

Defending the coalition government's policy in the Near East the former Colonial Secretary, says:

"Throughout the United States you will find only gratitude and respect for what Great Britain has done, alone and unaided by her Allies."

In conclusion, Mr. Churchill says:

"I take my stand by Mr. Lloyd George. I was his friend before he was famous, was with him when all were at his feet. And now, today, when the men who fawned upon him, who praised even his errors, who climbed into place and Parliament upon his shoulders have cast him aside, when the free fanatics (meaning the Asquithian Liberals) think the time has come to pay off old scores, when McKenna, the political banker, emerges from his opulent seclusion to administer what he doubtless calculates is the finishing kick, I am still his friend and lieutenant."

Mr. Churchill, pleading that his inopportune illness will prevent a personal campaign, asks his friends to deal with his candidate on this basis.

TRIBUTE TO PILGRIMS

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

LONDON, Oct. 27.—Former Premier Lloyd George before a large gathering in Whitefield tabernacle last night payed glowing tribute to the great movement led by John Wesley and George Whitfield.

"A short time ago," he said, "I had the privilege of talking to John Wesley at a Methodist gathering. I pointed out the effect of the Whitfield-Wesley movement upon the political outlook of England and America, in comparison with the attitude of continental countries.

"The training is the same. How can you feel it? America responds to practically the same appeals as England does; you could see it recently in the attitude that America adopted toward the Near Eastern situation. It was the only country that was in complete sympathy with the attitude of England, and that sympathy was overwhelming and real. It was entirely attributable to the fact that the moral training of America was identical with ours—the old Pilgrim fathers reinforced by the great ideals of Whitfield and Wesley.

"I don't know the exact figures of our debt to America; I am told it is a thousand millions at the present moment; it is nothing to the debt America owes us. I should like to write the balance sheet—debit, one thousand and ninety millions; credits, John Wesley and George Whitfield."

His remarks were greeted with prolonged cheers. The remainder of his speech consisted of reminiscenses of clergymen he had known and breakfasts with them at his Downing-street residence.

RABBIT WARRENS RAIDED BY GOBS

Meat of Victims Is Chief Navy Day Diet for Sailors At Pacific Stations

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 27. Stewed, boiled and fried rabbit was the chief Navy Day item on the various bills of fare at naval stations today as a result of a raid made on the rabbit population of the Farallon Islands, twenty miles offshore from San Francisco, by a detachment of bluejackets yesterday.

The rabbits had been accused of destroying naval property after having eaten virtually all of the vegetation on the islands. The bluejackets, a few hours after landing, killed thousands of the rabbits.

TRIBUTE PAID SEA GUARDIANS

Jones. This time the whole force of Navy and Marine Corps officers turned out to share in the tribute. A jacky band, lusty of lungs, led the way with such rollocking old-time sea ditties as "Nancy Lee" to keep sea-going legs swinging. At the monument the tune changed to "Anchors Aweigh," the fighting chant of the midshipmen at Annapolis.

First among seafighters of American history, Denby said, stood John Paul Jones. The gay courage and grim determination with which he fought his sinking ship to victory, the Naval Secretary added, was the proud heritage of every man who wore the American naval uniform. It was fitting, Denby said, that Navy Day should be John Paul Jones Day, too.

While the Navy itself was thus paying homage to American valor, officials of the Navy League were busy with preparations for the banquet which concluded Washington's share in Navy Day celebrations. A host of distinguished men were present when Secretary Denby rose to make his formal speech of the day. President Harding, who, it had been announced, would speak at tonight's dinner, however, was unable to be present.

The spirit of Theodore Roosevelt walked abroad in Washington today.

Formal celebration of his birthday anniversary was claimed by the Navy for its own and there is none who would challenge the Navy's right to revel in memories of Roosevelt, to play gladly the debt of gratitude it owes to him. But, aside from all this, from the prepared addresses on Navy Day that dealt largely with his sayings and his works of the Navy, undercurrent of talk among men everywhere that bore witness to the place the dead President had made for himself in American hearts.

But it was striking that the talk of Roosevelt was not confined to the Navy or the Army or to government circles, but ran everywhere about the nation's capital. From lip to lip little, intimate, human pictures of the man were sketched as men who knew him met in clubs or on corners in the hurry of a busy day. A tale that brought quick laughter here; there a terse cutting epigram repeated or again the story of a fighting moment vividly recalled by men who shared that moment with him at a veritable unwritten legend of a great American was in the making, hour by hour.

That he has left a lasting impress of his fearless Americanism on the hearts of his countrymen for all time, none who heard the undertone of Roosevelt memories that lay beneath Washington life today could doubt.

DEBT TO NAVY

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

DES MOINES (Iowa) Oct. 27.—The United States "owes its independence and commanding position in the world's affairs largely to the achievements of its Navy," Rear-Admiral Hugh Rodman, who commanded the American battleship force with the British grand fleet in the World War, declared in a Navy Day address here today.

He urged his hearers, "as patriotic citizens," to instruct their Congressmen "to give us a 100 per cent Navy, so that the Navy will be ready to act instantly and your money will not be wasted."

LONDON, Oct. 27. — Westminster Abbey was today the scene of an impressive ceremony of the American Navy Day, when a wreath was placed upon the grave of the British unknown soldier.

The ceremony was presided over by Ambassador Harvey, who introduced Capt. Charles S. Hussey, American naval attache in London, who laid the wreath upon the grave.

RAIN DOESN'T STOP SAILORS

Navy Day Program Carried Out Despite Showers

Teams of New Mexico and Vestal Win on Gridiron

Eight Dreadnaughts Will be in Harbor Today

Rain entered into the spirit of Navy Day at Los Angeles Harbor yesterday. The first downpour of the season moistened the brightly-hued flags of the dreadnaughts' full dress, but it failed to dampen the ardor of the sailormen in putting over the first Navy's own day with a lively program.

The rain cut down the total of visitors on board the battleships during the morning, but they seemed to have saved up their holiday hours for the afternoon for record crowds watched the grid squads from the dreadnaughts New Mexico and Idaho battle in their first encounter at Trona Field, while on another corner of the big lot the elevens from the base force flagship Connecticut and the repair ship Vestal settled the 1922 title of the base force.

TWO FOOTBALL GAMES

The U.S.S. New Mexico gridders loom as a strong contender for this season's Pacific Fleet title as a result of their 20-to-0 defeat of the U.S.S. Idaho eleven, 1921 fleet champions. The "Big Ida" men were beaten at every angle of the game and their line crumpled like paper before the rushing tactics of Lieut. McReavy, New Mexico fullback, while Mezza and Zukas also played good offensive games for the winners.

The second surprise of the afternoon came in the defeat of the flagship Connecticut's bulky squad by the team representing the fleet repair ship Vestal. The Vestal's 14-to-0 victory gives her the championship of the base force and the right to meet the winning dreadnaught eleven for the all-Pacific Fleet championship on Thanksgiving Day. Tom Cobb, the Vestal's lanky fullback, played a splendid game, his kicking being the feature.

The morning's showers cut down the scheduled Navy display of the merchant fleet at the port, however, the crack coast liner, Yale, and the tankers of the Standard Oil fleet being the only merchant vessels to "dress ship" under the inclement weather. The giant tankers F. H. Hillman and J. A. Moffett sailed just before sundown, with their bright signal flags and broad pennants standing out under the westerly breeze that sprung up before sundown to drive the rain clouds inland.

DREADNAUGHTS RETURN

Like a promise for the Navy's future, the sun broke out just before it dropped behind the Palos Verdes Hills, throwing its beams on the dreadnaughts, destroyers and auxiliaries riding at anchor in Man-o'-War's Row.

The superdreadnaughts, California, flagship of Admiral Eberle, the Idaho and New Mexico, formed the entire strength of the battleship force at the home base yesterday, but by noon tomorrow eight dreadnaughts will be back at anchor. The Texas was at Venice yesterday and will return this morning, being followed tomorrow by the dreadnaughts Pennsylvania, Mississippi and Arizona, which have been at San Francisco this week. The eight R-type submarines of Division Nine are also due late today from Santa Cruz, where they carried out maneuvers during the Navy Day celebration yesterday.

Naval Carrier Pigeons Bear Day's Greetings

Bearing greetings from the Los Angeles Board of Education to the United States Naval Air Station in San Diego, a flying squadron of six carrier pigeons was launched from the Washington Park ball grounds yesterday afternoon in honor of Navy Day. The pigeons were set free between halves of the Long Beach-Polytechnic football game, and thousands of rooters watched them circle about the field and set out for the southern city.

The demonstration was arranged by the Board of Education in cooperation with the Navy as a fitting observance of the national holiday proclaimed by President Harding. Elliot Craig, chairman of the finance committee of the board, addressed the spectators through a megaphone, reminding them that the day falls on the late Theodore Roosevelt's birthday. Just before a squad of sailors from the Submarine Base launched the birds on their homeward flight.

Each pigeon carried a message packed in a tiny capsule attached to its leg. They were shipped to the Submarine Base at San Pedro yesterday from San Diego by one of the Navy's seaplanes. Gunners R. H. Ripley and Thomas Noland of the Submarine Base estimated it would take the carriers an hour and a half to reach their coops on the San Diego reservation.

Cornhusking Jobs Too Hard for Mere Man

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

AURORA (Ill.) Oct. 27.—A score of men were in the offices of the Illinois Free Employment Bureau here today when W. A. Rompf, a Sommonauk farmer, walked in and told the superintendent that he wanted to hire a couple of cornhuskers. Not a man in the room wanted the job.

"Husking corn is too tough for men," a man standing five feet eleven inches, said.

"Mrs. Raymond Dadvison, 21, weighing less than 115 pounds, was the only woman in the place looking for the job. When all the men turned down the cornhusking jobs she stepped up and said the work wasn't too hard for her. She accompanied Rompf to the farm and too her place at the side of the men huskers. Rompf is paying her 50 cents a bushel.

Farmers say it is almost impossible to hire men to husk corn.

have descriptions and a combination of numbers.

Q.: Do you know the number of the automobile parked on Easton avenue, the one Mrs. Gibson first saw?

A.: I have a combination of numbers.

Q.: Don't you think that if Henry Stevens's alibi stands up you should say so?

A.: Don't worry over justice for Henry Stevens. Don't worry over more consideration being shown him than Mrs. Hall.

Q.: Have you sent for Ralph V. M. Gorsline?

A.: I have not summoned him.

Q.: Are you following any lead but that in which the Gibson woman's story figures?

UP TO JURY

A.: I'm following every lead I have.

Q.: When in your judgment the time comes for decisive action will you order an arrest or take the case to the grand jury first?

A.: I don't know, but unless there should be some extraordinary developments, I should be inclined to take it to the grand jury.

Q.: With an eyewitness statement you have characterised as creditable, what corroboration in your judgment is necessary?

A.: None is legally necessary. Still it is open to question of persuasion before a jury of corroborative evidence.

Q.: Isn't it a fact you have been informed there was another eyewitness?

A.: No.

Q.: When you find that an alibi in this case stands up, will you make a statement naming the person?

A.: That is a hypothetical question, depending on a contingency and I don't want to answer it.

Q.: Have you any corroborative statement as to the whereabouts of James Mills on the night of September 14?

A.: No, but we are not so much interested in corroborative statements as we are in the credibility of the witnesses.

Q.: Have you any corroborative statement as to the whereabouts of Mrs. Hall between 8 p.m. and 2 a.m. the night of September 14-15?

A.: I have evidence detailing Mrs. Hall's whereabouts for a considerable period of time before 2 a.m. on the night of the murder.

Q.: Do you think Mrs. Gibson's statement was influenced by the hope of a reward?

A.: I don't believe Mrs. Gibson had any idea of a reward.

James Mason, Essex county detective, who is chief investigator for Judge Mott, is of the same opinion as his chief as to the integrity of Mrs. Gibson.

"I think Mrs. Gibson's story would stand up before any jury, and she would not be shaken on cross-examination. I believe in her," said Mason.

The grand jury is subject to call, and will take up the deliberation of the Hall-Mills case whenever Mr. Mott asks such action.

Mrs. Gibson was the only witness question by Judge Mott today. Following her interview with the head of the investigation, Mrs. Gibson was guarded in her home on the Hamilton road by State troopers, at her request.

An interview, purporting to have been granted by Mrs. Gibson, in which it was related that she had returned to the scene of the crime at 1 o'clock in the morning on September 15 and there had seen a woman weeping over the bodies of Hall and Mrs. Mills was ridiculed by the authorities.

Mrs. Gibson has declared she did not return to the Phillips farm after the firing of the shots which frightened her mule, Jennie, on whose back she was riding on the night of the mystery.

Ralph V. M. Gorsline, vestryman in Hall's church, who has been questioned several times by the authorities, was anxious today to deny that he had been near De Russy's Lane on the night of the murder.

"I was not on Easton avenue nor any closer to De Russy's Lane than Senior street and College avenue," he declared, and detailed his own movements that night.

Gorsline denied that he had ever paid attention to Mrs. Mills or that the choir singer had ever ridden in his car.

It became known today that Mr. Mott had a .32-caliber pistol which the authorities believe was used by the murderer. They refuse to state how and where it was found.

BANQUET OF DEATH FOR EX-SOLDIER

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

EAST ORANGE (N. J.) Oct. 27. The story of a farewell dinner given by a dying soldier to twenty-five buddies became known today.

The soldier is Percy Evans, one of the first New Jerseymen to enlist in the World War and one of the last to return. The feast was held last night.

Believing that not many more days on earth remained for him, Evans, suffering from tuberculosis after having been gassed, rose from his sick-bed, taxied to the Washington Society clubhouse, and, propped up on pillows, presided over the affair.

"Sing all you want, boys; make all the noise you want, fight if you want, but please do not wreck the place," he told them.

"I won't be with you much longer. I have arranged this little dinner to show my regard for you, my boyhood companions and many friends of later life.

"Fellows, I have only a few thoughts to give you. One is the feeling of a fellow on his back when a friend visits him.

"I have been that way. It is surely a wonderful thing. I know that the church bell down the street will soon toll for me. I have always cherished the association of my friends and I wanted in this way to attest my regard for them."

Evans's voice broke at this point and his friends sat silently by while he recovered his composure and called on a trio to sing.

BRYAN SLAMS BEER ISSUES

Commoner Says Light Wines Can't Come Back

Only Hope House Cuts Down Enforcement Fund

Points Out Women Will Guard Prohibition Law

The light wines and beer movement was tripped of its raiment of so-called constitutional rights, tarred and feathered from the pots of infamy and chicanery and branded as a most gigantic fraud by William Jennings Bryan in his speech yesterday afternoon to the Women's Law Enforcement League of Ten Thousand in the Philharmonic Auditorium.

When Bryan's name flared across the political firmament nearly thirty years ago as "the Boy Orater of the Platte," it is doubtful if the speech which won for him that title was any more impassioned than was his address yesterday in behalf of the Wright Enforcement Act. With the two subjects dearest to his heart—woman suffrage and prohibition—as his theme, Mr. Bryan was merciless in his arraignment of those who "would insult a man's intelligence by trying to make him believe that light wines and beer can come back."

HOPE DIES OUT

The liquor interests and their cohorts have no hope that the wines and beer movement can ever be crammed down the throat of the American voter, Mr. Bryan asserted. With thirty-three States already dry by their own acts before the passage of the Volstead Act or the enactment of the Eighteenth Amendment, brewers and distillers have abandoned the idea that a majority of "wet" members can be elected to the United States Senate.

There is but one chance for a victory by the "wets," Mr. Bryan declared, and that is for them to so disguise their intent that a gullible people will give them a majority, even though it be but one, in the House of Representatives.

"Immediately then," Mr. Bryan said, "the House would fail to make an appropriation for the enforcement of the Eighteenth Amendment and there would issue a period of law evasion and crime with which civic and State authorities could not deal. Liquor interests would triumph for the arm of the law would be paralyzed and powerless for lack of funds to carry on the struggle."

BAIT DANGLED

The light wine and beer bait is constantly dangled before the eyes of the voter, said the speaker, to blind him to the real danger. Mr. Bryan recalled the recent act by which beer was refused recognition as a medicine.

"If you cannot get it by the spoonful," he pointed out, how can you hope to get it by the barrel.

"All that is needed is for the good people to have as much sense as have the bad."

Mr. Bryan frequently aroused his auditors to bursts of applause by his apt and witty expressions. In pointing out that the Eighteenth Amendment was brought about before more than a small majority of women were voting, he told them that "the men brought prohibition and the women will keep it here."

His was cheered when he said "Uncle Sam has been taken out of the bootlegging business and the seas are as dry as the land."

URGES LARGE VOTE

In closing his address Mr. Bryan urged a bit of wisdom which his long years as a politician have taught him.

"Get out the vote," he told his hearers. "This meeting reminds me of a prayer service. The very people who need the preacher's prayers are not here. But they will be at the polls on election day. Every man with a thirst will be there. You should be there, too. This should be a 100 per cent meeting at the polls."

Failure to pass the Wright Enforcement Act would make California the mecca of the drunkard and the evil doer, he cautioned.

California's first rain of the season delayed the arrival of many in the audience and, foreseeing this, an entertaining musical program was arranged to take up the first part of the meeting. Mrs. Chester Ashley presided as chairman. Mr. Raymond Harmon sang several selections as did Mrs. Maud F. Bollman, accompanied by Miss Ivy Mae Traevis.

OTHER SPEAKERS

Mrs. Eva C. Wheeler, State president of the Women's Christian Temperance Union, Mrs. Susan M. Dorsey, superintendent of the Los Angeles public schools, Mrs. Josiah Evans Cowles, past president of the General Federation of Women's Clubs, and Miss Rita Kissen, a nationally known social worker and lecturer, spoke upon the necessity of prohibition enforcement and the dangers that await failure to enact to Wright Act.

W.C.T.U. WARS ON WOOLWINE

Women Denounce "Wet" Canddaite; Plead for His Defeat

By a unanimous vote of the Los Angeles county executive of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union, it was resolved that "because Thomas Lee Woolwine has come out openly for beer and wine, in fact, is making this one of the greatest issues in his campaign to secure votes for Governor because his attitude defies the Constitution of the United States, and law enforcement in general, and because we believe his election would be a calamity to our State, we not only denounce such destructive disloyalty, but in the name of righteousness and of devotion to everything pertaining to the welfare of the State and posterity, we pledge ourselves to do our utmost to overwhelmingly defeat him."

The letter was signed by Mrs. Marie M. Yeoman, president, and Mrs. J. Victoria Bannister, secretary.

PUTS LIGHT ON SUPPLY BUYING

Mayor Cryer Will Refuse to Approve Contract

Much Dissatisfaction With Council's Methods

Motor Trucks and Fire Hose Start Trouble

The spotlight at City Hall was directed yesterday by Mayor Cryer on the purchasing of supplies for the city government, which, as a result of the discussion and dissatisfaction that followed the recent awarding by Council of an order for sixty motor trucks involving the expenditure of $207,-$21.17, and of a contract for 18,-000 feet of hose for the fire department at $1 a foot. In neither of these cases was the contracts given to the lowest bidders.

The truck contract was divided equally between the Moreland, Garford and General Motors companies, and the hose contract was given to Boston Woven Hose and Rubber Company.

Under the city charter department requests for all purchases amounting to over $500 each are referred to Council's Supply Committee, of which Councilman Sparks is chairman. This committee makes a report as to whether the purchases are necessary. Council then asks for bids and opens them, the bids are referred to the committee for examination and report, and the final awarding of the contract is in the hands of Council.

WILL DECLINE TO SIGN

Contracts approved must then be signed by the Mayor. In the case of the truck contracts, Mayor Cryer has plainly indicated that he will refuse to sign them, and that when the hose contract reaches him, the Mayor said yesterday, he will conduct a thorough investigation before deciding whether or not to sign it or to also return it to Council without his approval. Under the charter, Council has the power to authorize the president of Council to sign the contract on behalf of the city. This procedure will undoubtedly be followed in the truck purchase.

As a result of the increase in the activities of the city government, due to the growth of the city, municipal purchases now amount to about $1,500,000 annually, and may exceed that amount this calender year if the truck contract goes through. During the past year Council has purchased more than $60,000 worth of automobiles for the police department. In view of the dissatisfaction among bidders and business man generally over the handling of the purchases of supplies and equipment by Council, it is expected that when the movement for a new city charter gets under way within the next few months, and the Board of Freeholders begins its sessions, changes in the methods of handling purchases will be proposed for incorporation in the new charter.

HOSE CONTRACT

The fire hose contract is the latest in a long list of troubles the Council's Supply Committee has had this past year. Fifteen bids for the fire hose were received, the offers ranging from 27½ cents a foot for the two and one-half-inch hose, to $1.25 a foot. Several of the bidders represented Southern California manufacturers, the products of which are made from Imperial Valley cotton and made up in local factories.

The bid of at least one of these local companies — the American Rubber Company—was lower than that of the successful bidder, the Boston Woven Hose and Rubber Company, the factory of which is located at Cambridge, Mass. In a formal communication to Council, Fire Chief Scott stated that in connection with the hose purchase that he made no recommendation to the Supply Committee as which bid should be accepted.

MINIATURE GOLF LINKS ATTRACT

Three-Hole Course Built and Used by Taxi Drivers

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

CEDARHURST (L. I.) Oct. 27.—Passengers riding to and from Far Rockaway during the daytime have an opportunity while passing through this village of observing one of the smallest golf courses on Long Island.

The course is less than fifty yards in length and about six yards in width and contains but three holes. It was laid out by taxicab drivers who park their cars at the Cedarhurst station, near which it is located. According to Judge Lewis M. Raisig, while waiting for trains to come in the taxi men engage in a game of golf on a small scale.

Boys residing in the village frequently are seen on the course participating in the game also.

Wife Dies and Husband Faces Murder Charge

Following the death yesterday in the California Hospital of Mrs Carlotta Cargona, her husband John Cargona, in the City Jail, was charged with murder.

Cargona, according to Detective Sergts. Cline, Craig and Schofield, shot his wife in their home at 660 Lamar street September 23, last. Soon after the shooting he was arrested on a charge of assault with a deadly weapon.

According to the detectives, Cargona, while in the City Jail, made two attempts to end his life, first by jumping from a high sink to the concrete floor, and second by hanging himself with a strip torn from his bed clothing.

BID FOR NEAR EAST PARLEY DELAYED

ITALY FAILS TO INSTRUCT EMBASSY TO PRESENT INVITATION

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Oct. 27.—Delay on the part of one of the three embassies in the receipt of formal instructions from its government to extend to the United States an invitation to participate in the approaching conference of the Allies at Lausanne, Switzerland, to consider conditions for peace in the Near East, prevented the carrying out of plans to deliver today the invitation to Secretary Hughes, at the State Department.

The British Ambassador, Sir Auckland Geddes, had received instructions from Downing street and Count De Chambrun, Charge of the French Embassy, also had heard from the Quay d'Orsay. Charge Russo, however, had not heard from the Italian government, probably on account of the disturbed state of the cables from Italy.

It was the wish of the Allied governments that the invitation to the Washington government should be presented jointly through their diplomatic representatives here, but it was decided that the diplomats would wait overnight for the missing instructions from Rome. It is the understanding of the three embassies, however, that the desire of their home governments in this instance would permit of no great delay in the matter of presentation and it was understood the British and French officials would present the invitation to Secretary Hughes tomorrow, even though the Italian communication had not been received at that time.

It is understood that the three embassies which have kept in close touch with policies of the Washington government, believe that unqualified acceptance of the invitation cannot be expected. At the same time, however, they are said to hold that the presentation is necessary to give this government an opportunity to participate in the consultations of the Allies upon issues growing out of the war.

SHIP CONSTRUCTION OF WORLD DECLINES

AMERICAN TONNAGE BEING BUILT STILL EXCEEDS PREWAR AVERAGE

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Oct. 27. — A continued steady decline in world ship construction during the quarter ended last September 30, is shown by an analysis of returns for that period made public today by the transportation division of the Department of Commerce. The total tonnage under way during the quarter was 2,072,556, as compared with 2,235,430, on last June 30, and 3,679,622 on last March 31.

Of the total decrease of 500,-000 tons from the preceding quarter, 300,000 tons was accounted for by the decline in British shipyards. American plants had the same tonnage on hand on September 30 as at the end of the preceding quarter, 150,623, an increase of 9 per cent over the total at the end of the first quarter.

Tonnage under construction in American yards in 1922 was 35 per cent of the 1921 figure, but 14 per cent higher than the prewar average over a period of five years. World construction was 49 per cent of the 1921 total, but 15 per cent higher than the prewar average.

British construction during the past quarter was 1,617,045 tons, while that in all other countries, exclusive of the United States, was 934,888 tons. New construction started during the period for all countries was 187,527 tons, while in the same period 476,070 tons were launched.

No new witnesses were placed on the stand by the defense this morning. The day was occupied with argument in both sides and rebuttal. The I.W.W. was bitterly denounced by Asst. Dist.-Atty. Martin Johnson in the closing arguments. Attorneys Austin Lewis and S. Luke Howe offered argument for the defense.

BOY SEEKS TO ESCAPE ANSWERING

Newsy Held for Trial in Court Appeals to Higher Tribunal for Stay

Back of the formally worded petition for a writ of prohibition to escape trial in the Superior Court on a felony charge, filed yesterday in the State Supreme Court by attorneys for Mike Hinshaw, newsboy, lurks material which, handled on a vigorous typewriter, would produce a worthy successor to the "Six-second Smith" series.

It was in April last, according to the legal record, that Mike, who sold papers every afternoon at Fifth and Hill streets, let fly a fist which crashed against the jaw of Robert Ritter, a rival "newsy." Trouble had been brewing for several weeks. There had been threats and warnings on both sides previous to the fistic encounter, following which the injured urchin went to the Receiving Hospital, where his face was bandaged. Then he caused the arrest of Mike on a battery charge.

Hinshaw pleaded not guilty, but in the face of aditional information the justice decided assault had been committed, and held Mike for trial in Judge Avery's court on November 28 next, bail being fixed at $2500. Counsel for the newsboy petitioned the District Court of Appeal for a writ of prohibition on the ground that not a felony but simple battery had been committed. The Appellate Court denied the appeal, and the petition to the Supreme Court followed. In the meantime Mike is in jail.

SUFFERING FROM FALL IN PLANE

Buron Fitts in Considerable Pain; Determine Injuries Today

Buron Fitts lies in the St. Francis Hospital, Santa Barbara, in considerable pain from injuries received Thursday night when the airplane in which he was a passenger fell at Carpenteria Beach. A dispatch last night from Santa Barbara also said physicians would not be able to determine the nature or seriousness of his injuries until today. The superficial examination showed a leg, injured in the war, had been hurt and that internal injuries probably had resulted from the fall.

The past State commander of the American Legion was making a tour in interest of soldier welfare legislation. He was riding in an airplane driven by Lieut. John D. Patrick. The aviator was thrown clear of the wreckage and was not hurt. Lieut. Patrick was making a forced landing in the fog.

Woman Seeks Damages for Blighted Love

Samuel O. Imsland, said to be worth $100,000 and to have an income of $1200 a month, is charged by Myrtle Ashley with breach of promise in a suit filed yesterday for $35,000 damages.

The complaint, prepared by Attorneys Turnbull, Heffron and Kelly, states that the plaintiff is 22 years old and the defendant 35 years old. The purported promise to marry her was made in Denver, August 12, last, according to the woman. In Los Angeles Imsland told her he would make the promise good, she says. But recently he told her he did not intend to marry her. The plaintiff avers she left Colorado and came to Los Angeles relying on his promise to marry her. His refusal shamed and humiliated her, she says.

DEADLOCK OF FILIPINO LEGISLATORS BROKEN

COLLECTIVISTA FOLLOWER OF QUEZON IS CHOSEN AS SPEAKER

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

MANILA, Oct. 27.—The deadlock which has existed in the House of Representatives for more than a week over the choice of a Speaker was broken last night when the first ballot taken at the adjourned session, resulted in the election of Manuel Roxas, Collectivista member and follower of Manuel Quezon, to the post. The election was made possible by a combination of Collectivista and Nacionalista votes against the Democrata party.

When it was apparent that the Quezon and Sergio Osmena parties had reached an agreement, the Democrata members abstained from voting and Roxas was chosen on a ballot that gave him two more than a majority of the house.

If present plans are carried out, the split in the Nacionalista party, which resulted a year ago in a defection of a large percentage of its membership and the formation of the new Collectivista party, soon will be healed.

A convention of the two parties will be held in the near future when their amalgamation is to be discussed and the struggle between Osmena and Quezon ended.

Speaker Roxas, addressing the House of Representatives, urged the free use of the English language in the body's debates and proceedings. Senor Roxas was educated in the public schools of the islands, where only English is taught.

RUSSIA BITTER AGAINST JAPAN

Reds Predict Emperor Will Lose Throne

Say Troops Were Taking Up Bolshevism

Nipponese Accused of Theft of Many Things

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

MOSCOW, Oct. 27.—The Russo-Japanese relations have been severely strained by the Vladivostok incident. One indication of how angry Russia is is today's official press, which calls Japanese "robbers and cutthroats," and the press predicts that the Japanese Emperor will lose his crown shortly, and his head may be in it when it falls.

Mingled with bitterness comes the proud announcement that Japan was forced to withdraw her troops from many parts of Russia, because the Japanese army was becoming infected with Bolshevism.

In Russian official circles American sympathy is sought on account of the Vladivostok and Sakhalin relations. M. Tchitcherin declared today that Japan can not keep Sakhalin because of pressure from other governments, notably America, to whom Japan's encroachment on the mainland is not acceptable.

Coupled with the desire for American help is the intensified Russo-Chinese rapprochement.

Most disquieting reports continue to pour into the Foreign Office, the latest of which says that Eborevitch, commanding the Far Eastern Republic's Red army, who was forced by the Japanese to remain outside the zone the Japanese had drawn around Vladivostok, refused to permit disarmament of the Red forces. Gen. Eborevitch declares he did not capture the city because he wished to prevent bloodshed. Now the Russians accuse the Japanese of causing bloodshed and "stealing ships, mail, door knobs and in fact everything not nailed down."

Working Women Not Supporting Labor's Ticket

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

LONDON, Oct. 27.—Workingmen will fail to support wholeheartedly Labor's candidates in the general election if they follow the dictates which influenced their fellows at Newport when by surprising returns a Unionist defeated a Labor candidate.

The voting in that constituency has been analyzed by competent men and your correspondent has obtained the result from a neutral source. It shows that approximately two-thirds of the trade unionists voted for Labor and one-third split between the other two candidates. The important thing, and the one which may throw the whole election into a worse mix-up than it is now, is that two thirds of the female independent trade unionists did not support the Labor candidate. It is estimated the majority of them went to the Unionists.

Political sharpers believe they must have figured this way. Labor leaders have called many strikes in the last few years bringing distress into the home; the coalition government was in power when housing was bad and prices high while the Unionists promise to extend their efforts toward the resumption of industry. Therefore, while the head of the house maintained his good union status by voting for Labor, the women took it upon themselves to vote the way they believed would keep the head of the house working.

CORPORATION DENIES CONSPIRACY IN DYES

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WILMINGTON (Del.) Oct. 27.—Sweeping denial of the charges of conspiracy and monopoly made by the United States government in its suit for dissolution of the Chemical Foundation and Reclamation of the German patents conveyed to it by former Alien Property Custodian A. Mitchell Palmer was made by the foundation in an answer filed in Federal Court here today. The government not only knew the details of the proposed organization of a great holding corporation for German patents, the answer sets forth, but formally approved the plan by action of former President Wilson.

The answer asks that the government's suit be dismissed and that the corporation be allowed to keep the dye and chemical patents sold to it by Mr. Palmer.

NEED DEFINITE POLICY FOR ROAD BUILDING

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Oct. 27.—American highway construction is in pressing need of a definite financial policy, today's session of the conference of the Highway Education Board was told by A. J. Brosseau of New York, financial authority of the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce.

Preparation of a "construction budget" by every State, estimating the cost of primary and secondary roads to be built in the next ten years, was recommended a sthe first step toward such a program.

The decree stated that the California property must be sold in one lot under such terms as may be fixed by the California court for not less than $200,000.

The court decision was the result of a plan of reorganization accepted by a majority in amount of stockholders.

OUR AMERICAN ADVENTURE

BY SIR ARTHUR CONAN DOYLE

[Copyright, 1922, by Sir Arthur Conan Doyle for the United States and Great Britain. Released by the North American Newspaper Alliance.]

In which Sir Arthur Continues His Account of the Remarkable Seance at the Home of Ada Besinnet at Toledo.

Then the faces began. They glimmer up out of the darkness, a glow comes beside them and then they vanish. Our first one, seen equally by both of us, was a truly angelic female face, so pure and sweet that no great master has ever painted such a Madonna. It had the psychic arch over the brow. Then came others with a certain suggestion of various friends on the other side but none so clear that I could positively swear to it. Capt. Widdecombe had the same experience, many faces but none surely recognizable. Mr Keedick was more fortunate. I suddenly heard him cry, with the gasping note of extreme surprise and emotion, "Shackleton!" The great explorer, who had been an intimate friend, had suddenly appeared with his face as clear as life and within a few inches of his own. Those who know Mr. Keedick will be aware that he is a strong-nerved, practical man, and the very last to imagine such an incident.

At the end of the seance a considerable apparition was built up before us representing a woman down to her waist, with drapery over her head, the whole forming an absolute copy of the Katie King photograph which I am in the habit of showing in my lectures. My wife cried out, "It is the same face, the same dress, the same drapery—it is Katie King!" Three loud raps in or on the table at once assented. A moment later an elderly man, with very well marked nose, appeared before me, and Mr. Keedick also saw him. Mr. Keedick described him as having an imperial, but the lower part of the face was vague as I saw it. It was certainly very like Sir William Crookes, who might be expected to manifest in connection with Katie King, but I could not absolutely affirm it. Katie King was, of course, the materialized spirit who, for two years manifested, in Crookes's own study in Mornington Road in 1872-1873, as detailed by him in the Quarterly Journal of Science. It is one of the misfortunes and reproaches of spiritualism that such valuable literary and evidential documents as Crookes's own account of this all-important episode should get out of print and be inaccessible. An American publisher, Doran, has now consented to republish it on condition that I write a preface, which I have promised, though I am ashamed of the number of prefaces to psychic books which I have already turned out.

The seance ended by a letter for each of us, written in the dark, and presumably by the direct hand of the entranced medium. Mine was from my son and was in the highest degree evidential. He wrote: "Oscar and Uncle Willy are both here with you." These are father and son, both upon the other side, of whose existence or relation to my boy the medium had no possible means of knowing. "Uncle Willy" was only by marriage, and yet my son always called him by that name. Altogether, if I had not proved this matter a hundred times before this sitting alone would have brought me conviction. I only hope that the pure and beautiful mediumship of Miss Besinnet will remain fresh and uncontaminated, so that she may continue to be the very special instrument of God which she now is.

DEFENDS TOLEDO MEDIUM

A committee in connection with the Psychic College in London reported upon Miss Besinnet's mediumship and came to the conclusion that the faces were always built up upon her own by psychic means—that is to say, that her control forms an ectoplasmic mark upon her own face. I am convinced that when the power is weak this is what actually occurs, and I have myself, as I have said, clearly seen the medium's features. Controls often take short cuts to produce their effects and so expose the innocent and unconscious medium to unjust suspicions. But Miss Besinnet's health was bad and her powers were proportionately low at the time when the London committee reported upon her, and I am convinced that Mr. Hewat McKenzie, who drew up the report, did her a serious injustice. I have not only my own clear observations to support me and those of my friends, but I have had access to a number of detailed reports from close observers in Toledo which show results which could in no way be accounted for by a mere ectoplasmic transfiguration of the medium's face. Thus Mr. Sudborough of Bristol, in a careful and detailed report, says: "The spirit of a powerfully built Indian chief suddenly stood in our midst — on his head a war bonnet made of eagle feathers and 'round his neck a necklace of grizzly bear claws. The figure came so close to us that we could have touched it had we dared. It remained in evidence for about two minutes and then slowly faded away." This form was no doubt that of the laconic Indian control.

One lady whose husband had become blind before passing over says: "The first materialization I had was that of the nerve and of the congested eyeball. Then came his eyes, big, blue and beautiful, as they used to be." It will be admitted that this at least must have been an independent materialization. Another, in describing a spirit, says: "The light was so strong as to show the seated form of the medium behind the figure." Another says: "I have distinctly seen the form rise up from the center of the table." Another says: "Dan materialized in uniform and stood at salute." On several occasions a mother holding a baby had appeared. I have so keen a sense of the good work which Mr. Hewat McKenzie has done for psychic science that it is repugnant to me to disagree with him, but I am convinced that he has argued too much from temporary and personal experiences and not given sufficient weight to general evidence, and that in so doing he has done a serious injustice to one of the greatest mediums that the world has ever known. Toledo seems to be a rich psychic center, for there is a second medium, a Mr. Johnson, who is said to have exceptional powers of materialization; but he was in California at the time of our visit, and so it was impossible to test him.

It seems that during our Beasinnet seance four enterprising old ladies in a Ford car drove up to the house and stationed themselves under the window of the seance room. As it was pouring rain and as the proceedings lasted several hours, they certainly deserved whatever they got—whether information of rheumatism.

DISCUSSES FRAUDS

I have spoken of the possible shortcircuiting of the control during trance, which lays the unfortunate medium under suspicion of fraud. It may be the control or it may be the half-automatic instinct of the medium herself acting independently of the higher centers which are out of action, being possessed by an outside entity. You will find mediums do silly and obvious things which are quite unnecessary, and clearly bogus. Then the next moment you may see some really psychic manipulation, quite beyond all possibility of fraud. I fancy that every student of the occult has had such experiences. Paladino, for example, with whom I have never sat, would think nothing of kicking the leg of the table to produce sounds, or putting up her hand to weigh down a pair of scales. Such obvious tricks disconcerted Hodgson and others who pronounced her to be a cheat at Cambridge, and yet the small committee, Feilding, Carrington and Baggaley, which followed her to Naples found ample proofs of her real powers. Yet, even while indorsing her, Feilding says: She does silly little tricks by slipping one hand or one foot, or kicking you, or pulling the curtain—all absolutely unlike the real thing. Even then she is in a real trance, is, I am sure, unaware of having cheated when she wakes up." I have already mentioned Howard Thurston's similar experience with the same medium: It is an important matter, for it illustrates the pitfalls of psychic research and emphasizes the fact that so long as you get positive results which are certain, you can afford to regard the negative ones as of no consequence. The present method is to concentrate upon the negative ones and imagine that they entirely do away with everything positive.

BOARDS INTERLOCK, CHARGE AT HEARING

GOVERNMENT CASE AGAINST FIR CORPORATION CONTINUED IN BAY CITY

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 27.—An effort to show that the Douglas Fir Exploitation and Export Company, the West Coast Lumbermen's Association and the Pacific Lumber Inspection Bureau were virtually one and the same was made today in a hearing by the Federal Trade Commission into asserted unfair trade practices on the part of the fir corporation. The directorates of the three organizations were so closely interlocked that when they met they merely considered the business of each of the organizations in turn, according to a showing made by counsel for the commission.

A. A. Baxter, former general manager of the fir company, testified that it was formed in 1913 in Seattle by five prominent lumbermen, one of them E. G. Ames, a witness in the present inquiry. An attempt was made to show that the company was particularly active in a monopolistic way between 1913 and 1916, but Baxter said that it did little business of any sort before 1916, in which year he took charge.

In October of that year, he testified, the company opened offices in San Francisco, Portland and Seattle and took in thirty-seven mills along the Coast.

DESTITUTE YANKS COMING BACK HOME

AMERICANS BROKE IN EUROPE TO BE CARED FOR BY GOVERNMENT

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

PARIS, Oct. 27.—The first group of American citizens which the Shipping Board has promised to take back to the United States probably will leave Saturday on the President Polk, if the official order arrives in Paris in time. If not they will return on the next boat which leaves Thursday. Although there are 126 scheduled to go on the first boat there is a possibility that others will have difficulty in getting over on account of shortage of funds to pay their board en route.

Passage is free, but each passenger is to pay his other expenses. A fund has been raised by the American Aid Society to help those who cannot pay. There are about 2000 in all. Many can pay for their own food, but the majority are broke and destitute in foreign countries from Spain to Austria. It was stated today that the money must be forthcoming before the remaining Americans can be sent home.

HUSBAND OF SUICIDE LOS ANGELES LAWYER

Frank E. Carleton, husband of Mrs. Margaret Carleton, came to this city from Havre, Mont., during the spring of this year and opened a law office in the Union Oil Building a short time later, after having been admitted to the bar. He also established a home at 1119 Heliotrope Drive.

Yesterday it was learned at Mr. Carleton's office that he had left the city by automobile for San Diego before the reports of the murder of Rev. Christler and the suicide of his wife had reached this city. Friends located late yesterday afternoon stated that he probably will return as soon as notified of the eastern tragedy.

VALLEY AGAINST PROPOSED ACT

Chamber Referendum Shows Power Bill Opposed

Measure Swamped Under by Large Majority

Campaign to Beat Proposal is Under Way

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

HOLTVILLE, Oct. 27.—The Associated Chambers of Commerce of Imperial Valley expressed themselves here tonight as being actively opposed to the State Water and Power Act to be voted on at the coming election in November.

A referendum vote was taken recently of the individual members in regard to this bill. Each member was mailed a sample ballot with printed arguments for and against the bill. The result announced here tonight showed an overwhelming majority against the act. The Associated Chambers of Commerce has a membership of 839, and answers were received from 221, slightly better than one-fourth. There were 159 members opposed to the bill and only sixty-two favoring it. While only a small portion of the membership voted, the results were so positive that a resolution was offered and adopted by the Associated Chambers here that this vote should be the basis of the Associated Chambers' stand on the amendment.

EXPRESSES SENTIMENT

This practically expresses the sentiment of Imperial Valley as a whole. Streng effort has been put forth here to defeat the measure. Prominent business men and officials nearly a month ago organized a valley protective club for the purpose of fighting the bill. Since that time they have carried on the work of spreading literature and propaganda against the bill.

At the meeting tonight, Cecil Conrtney, El Centro High School lad, was presented with the silver cup offered by the chambers of commerce for the Imperial Valley high school students winning the stock judging contest at the recent Riverside fair.

FARM ADVISER SPEAKS

Vern De Tar, assistant farm adviser of Imperial county, gave an interesting talk on the progress and the benefits to be derived from the County Cow Testing Association to be organized November 1. Mr. De Tar has been an active and tireless worker here in the interests of this work of which he has direct charge. He recently finished a complete survey of dairying conditions in Imperial county which revealed some astonishing facts regarding the true condition of the industry here.

Clark Adair, of Seeley, chairman of the soil fertility committee from the Farm Bureau, gave a detailed report on the progess of the committee work and recited further interesting facts in relation to the proposed new program of work by the committee for the coming year. Clover crops for restoring the fertility of the soil, grown each year after the regular crop harvest, has been strongly advocated by Mr. Adair.

STRIKERS NOW KNOW HOW SENATOR STANDS

POINDEXTER TELLS TACOMA HECKLERS EVERY MAN HAS RIGHT TO WORK

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

TACOMA, Oct. 27.—An unsympathetic audience of striking shopmen attempted to heckle Senator Miles Poindexter, who spoke in South Tacoma this morning, and as a result no doubt was left in the minds of the audience as to where the Senator stands on various questions.

"You have the right to quit work," the Senator said, "and any other man has the right to go to work, with the full protection of the government."

The Senator said he did not believe in class government and that this government is not for the workingman alone or for the capitalist alone, but stands for justice to every citizen.

When a striking shopman demanded wether Poindexter supported the use of the Army in case of strikes, Mr. Poindexter answered: "If it is necessary to use the Army to prevent violence, I am for it. I believe in using the full force of the government to assure justice to one and all."

BUSINESS NEWS OF BUSY MARTS

Up-State Farmers Welcome Return of Prosperity

Bond Market of Absorbing Interest at Present

Cost of Living Declines from Year Ago

Agriculturists in the Santa Maria and Lompoc valleys and in the region contiguous to Oxnard, in Ventura county, are beginning to discern greater prosperity, according to E. H. Tucker, director of research of the First National Bank, who has returned from a survey of business and agricultural conditions along the Coast. The prices prevailing for the bean and walnut crops are the chief instruments that compel the agricultural public to take an optimistic outlook, and business men and banks are experiencing a natural reaction from this tendency in an increased volume of sales and growing deposits.

The bean crop, although short of normal, is better than that of 1921. Prices for all varieties are sufficient to leave the grower a substantial margin of profit. With large white beans selling at $6.25 per 100 pounds in carload lots and Henderson bush limas quoted at $9.50, the return to the producer reaches substantial proportions and largely returns to him the loss of purchasing power suffered in the recent depression. This recovery is depicted tangibly in the business being done by merchants in these valleys, who report a steady increase of sales, despite the loss of heavy oil company pay rolls occasioned by the cessation of operations in the Santa Maria field. Rents are mounting as business expands, and bank deposits are growing from both agricultural and commercial sources.

Irrigation is coming into general use in the bean-growing section, according to Mr. Tucker, who relates the instance of one grower who paid for two-thirds of the cost of his well in the first year from the increased yield of his crop. As yet, irrigation projects involving large sums of money are not contemplated.

Walnut growers are moving their crop at favorable prices, and have been fortunate in not meeting with serious shortage of cars. The growers have been especially benefited by the tariff rate on walnut importations, and are in a strong position.

The rich Lompoc Valley, in addition to its other crops, is the largest producer of mustard in the world, growing 90 per cent of the total crop. This region has been opened recently by the construction of a new highway, and in Mr. Tucker's opinion, it should evidence renewed growth through this improvement in transportation means.

BOND PRICES

Fluctuations in the bond market during the past two weeks have been of absorbing interest to holders of investment securities, and have caused an appreciable volume of bonds to be liquidated in the fear that the market reached its top. Opinion of financial analysts writing for eastern economic services does not concur in this view, however, the majority taking the stand that fundamental factors are still conducive to a rise in bond values.

The weakness present in the market at this time is due to technical reasons primarily, and secondarily, to the appearance of the new government 4 1-4 per cent bonds in the market. As business expands, many large holders of investment securities have been forced to sell their holdings to supply working capital for their enterprises, while speculative owners of bonds have emptied their safe deposit boxes in the belief that the market had reached its top. As a culminating influence, banks have been large sellers in the market as they have been called upon by depositors for loans to meet the needs of expanding business. The net result has been a concerted dumping of securities on the bond market, and as a consequence, prices have broken.

The issuance of the long-term tax-exempt government bonds at a higher rate than was expected attracted a large number of investment buyers, and induced them to sell their corporation and municipals and invest in the new issue. This development took place on a large scale, and in spite of the fact that the bonds were a refunding issue and intended as an exchange for outstanding government obligations. Such liquidation was an additional weakening influence in the market, although the reasons for the general selling revealed a strong undertone in the investment market, which in itself is an important bullish factor for a continuance of the upward movement.

The money and credit conditions in the country are more than adequate to care for present requirements in business. Banking reserves are still considerably in excess of legal requirements, indicating that ample funds are available for use in the investment market. Interest rates give every evidence of continuing on a low level for some time, the present firmness being caused by the crop-moving demands. With substantial amounts of money waiting for opportunities to work, the bond market is in no immediate danger of a major bear movement.

Among the possible bearish factors that may cause a halt in the progress of the bond market is one cited by a leading economic service. This authority places emphasis on the tendency of the indices of commodity prices to rise during the past few months, and offers the opinion that if this advance continues for the succeeding two or three months bonds will cease to move higher. As commodity prices rise, the purchasing power of the dollar declines, and more dollars will be used in business transactions. Such an eventuality will demand the use of funds that are now employed in investment channels, which will automatically withdraw heavy support from the market, and at the same time induce selling.

Authorities, however, generally favor the viewpoint that the market will climb to higher levels before the long downward trend begins.

COST OF LIVING

Cost of living in the United States as indicated by the index number compiled by National Industrial Conference Board is 7 points below the August, 1921, index. The last index number published is for August, showing the cost of living, including the items of food, shelter, clothing, fuel and light and sundries stands at 155, against 162 for the same month in 1921. The August index is 1 point under the July number of 156. The decrease from July to August was caused by drops in food and clothing, while fuel and light rose considerably.

Improvement in the position of the agricultural population is shown by the Bureau of Census index number of all crops, depicting a gain of 6 points from August of last year. The index of agricultural products for August, 1922, is 15 points ahead of the same month of the previous year, indicating the material betterment in the purchasing power of the farmer's dollar.

DAILY TRADE TALK

California Products Gain in Popularity in Markets of Great Britain

Reginald Brinsmead is in London studying market conditions for California products in British and European markets. His dtaa are being gathered from the larger importers and receivers; the retail trade; government officials of various colonies engaged in trade deyolpment work; shipowners and brokers engaged in the produce cafrying trade, as well as English fruit growers, exporters of general merchandise, etc.

Mr. Brinsmead is well equipped for the survey he is undertaking, and his deductions made for The Times are carefully grounded upon well digested facts. "There is no question," he writes, "but that California can meet all competition. The more data one gathers, the more certain it is that our industries are better organized in every way and produce articles superior to any found in other parts of the world.

"Opportunities for greatly increasing the sale of California products on the London market were never better than they promise for the immediate future; for, largely basing their efforts upon the profitable expansion of this market alone the Commonwealth governments of South Africa and Australia are making every effort to build up great fruit shipping industries along similiar lines to those of California—in dried, green and canned fruits. The demand is here and but requires to be increased by the supply of adequate quantities of fruit; California, with her well-organized industries and established reputation, can fill the demand, and can profitably produce, and lay down on the English markets fully as cheaply as either South Africa or Australia.

"Oranges, grapefruit, peaches, pears, apricots, apples; dried peaches, raisins, dried apricots; canned fruits and jams; all are being produced in rapidly increasing quantities in both Australia and in South Africa; but both of these countries have complex problems and troubles to surmount; lessons to learn and work out which have been solved and become matters of course in California and which serve to even more than equalize costs of production and marketing.

COMPETITION BRISK

At the present time Australian and Cape oranges are much in evidence on the fruit stands, standard California cases or boxes jobbing on Covent Garden market at 18 to 20 shillings, roughly $4.50 to $5 a case. Both Australia and South Africa are shipping Washington navel oranges but the quality and condition of the fruit hardly compare with the best California brands. The package is far from attractive as a rule, grading uneven, and many consignments covered with red scale. Late consignments have been reported dry and soft. The larger receivers over here claim that given regular and moderate supplies, especially in the case of the Washington navel, California fruit would control the fancy fruit trade.

"The small packages, or cartons, of Sun-Maid raisins, are much in evidence these days, both in London and in the provinces; they promise to win their way rapidly to favor, now that they have been on the market long enough for people to become better acquainted with them, but the Englishman is conservative and this is the first time he has seen raisins put out like these. California dried fruits have a splendid reputation on the markets throughout Europe, and as the supply rapidly increases in the home markets increasing demand can be created over here for them.

CANNED FRUITS

"So with California canned fruits, they have a big market and a reputation second to none. At this time, however, owing to a case of botulism a short time ago in some canned meat, and within the last few days another case of poisoning from canned tomatoes, the canned fruit business has been hit pretty hard. The English consumer has always been hard to convince that canned foods are perfectly safe and wholesome, and the experience which the California canned olive industry went through a year or so back, where but one or two cans in a year's output went wrong, is now being duplicated over here.

"The two factors which promise to be the hardest to overcome in increasing sales on this market are (1) the movement toward intra-empire trading, together with the production of all foods and raw products within the empire, and (2) the undoubted feeling among English business circles that they can do without American products so long as the United States shuts out theirs.

"The new tariff has, of course, greatly accentuated this feeling. British exporters are largely expanding their colonial trade; the governments of the various colonies are devoting much energy to building up the production of raw material and food required by the home country, which they can trade for manufactured goods. In line with this we see the interest now being focused upon the fruit-growing industries of South Africa and Australia. The British Empire is to be made self-sustaining and self-sufficing. Only the superior quality of her shipments will enable California in the long run to overcome these two factors, and investigation into the producing, marketing and shipping conditions to be met with in South Africa and Australia, unquestionably points to the continued supremacy of California for many years to come.

MARKET SURVEY

"A brief survey of the conditions and costs of production, packing, marketing, shipping of those items coming into competition with California on the British markets will but confirm the belief that there is no doubt but that it can and will be successfully met; and this is essentially a market where money counts. California will give better money value for the money expended on her products. Competition from European producers is different from that now coming from South Africa and from Australia, for the latter are modeling their industries upon those of California and thus planning the production of similar products; all of which are making bids for the fancy trade, the demand for lower grades remaining to be filled from the Mediterranean, etc. An analysis of trade conditions will show that the outlets are quite distinct, that the trade using the Mediterranean products is not the trade taking those from California."

This San Francisco industrial school plan may play an important part in labor matters. It is sure to spread the country over.

MEN AND BUSINESS

BY RICHARD SPILLANE

(Copyright, 1922, Public Ledger.)

San Francisco, once one of the greatest strongholds of union labor in America, seems definitely to have turned to the open shop. This affects not alone San Francisco but practically the whole West Coast territory.

In this column some months ago account was given of the establishment of an apprentice school by the Industrial Association of San Francisco in an effort to break the strangle hold unions had on various crafts. This school was followed by others until the trades were pretty well covered. Today, according to the bulletin of the Industrial Association, there are about 400 open shop plumbers, apprentices and helpers as against seventy-five union apprentices while in the plasterers' school, painters' school, etc., young men are receiving training and tuition and being paid while they are in the industrial schools.

There have been strikes this year but it appears the unions have won none of them and there are some strikes on now but they are petering out.

Attendant on these strikes there have been queer developments. For instance: Taxicab drivers struck. They lost. The open shop (American plan is what the employers call it) was established. Within two months taxi rates were reduced 25 per cent by the taxi companies.

Lithographers struck. The struggle stretched out over more than six months. Then the union advised the strikers to return. Meanwhile 100 apprentices had been trained by the employers. Such strikers as were taken back were accepted as individuals, not as union men.

The apprentices have spirit and ambition. They are not tied down for years before they are permitted to get out of the apprentice class. Another big factor is that they get paid; not much, but enough to help toward covering living expenses—while they are learning a trade.

LONDON MARKET WEAK, SLUGGISH

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

LONDON, Oct. 27.—The stock exchange opened weak today due to memorial services; at the opening there was little business and later on the demand became sluggish. In consequence an irregular tendency obtained among leading securities. British funds on the gilt-edge market, after opening easier were inclined to be firming. In the foreign bonds Fre..ch issues were somewhat better although the franc still was erratic. Prices were strength.. Home rails were firm at the start but stimulated later and showed moderate losses all around. Dollar rails good and foreign rails were fractionally higher.

The industrial market was without much feature. Iron, steel and engineering shares hardened slightly. Oils suffered from Paris liquidation. Mexican Eagle, 2%; Shell, 4¼; Royal Dutch, 2½. Africas Mininga opened better but closings proved small and an easier tendency set in. Americas issues were active and improved. Leasable stocks was more comfortable and Kaffirs were unchangeable at 1⅛. Fixtures were renewed at the same price. Bar silver rose to 24⅞, and 89⅝ for spot and forward delivery. Foreign exchange: New York, 4.44⅝ on 4.45; Paris, 84.30 to 84.40; Berlin, 17,400 to 18,900.

TRADING IN WOOL SHOWS DIMINUTION

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

BOSTON, Oct. 27.—The Commercial Bulletin will say tomorrow:

"The wool market has been a bit less active this week, due rather to the lack of suitable stocks than to any diminution of interest on the part of mills. Prices are very firm and in some instances have shown further straight advance. The cloth market is very healthy and a good demand for clothing is reported both at retail and wholesale."

EUROPE SENDS SPECIALISTS

United States Invaded by Academicians

Attempt to Leaven World With United States

Talk of Visitors Declared to be Superficial

BY C. B. EVANS

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

[Copyright, 1922, Public Ledger.]

CHICAGO, Oct. 27.—The invasion of the United States by Europe now in progress is welcome to the victims of the attack, who smile as the attempt is made to draw their blood. We have had a number of military generals and civilian generals, one noted financial strategist is now here, and Chicago awaits the eloquent voice and the vigorous gesture of Clemenceau—but what are they giving us?

This is not an academic period of history, but an exceedingly practical one. Nor need we be told about the present condition of Europe. We know all about it. We want to know what Europe is going to do for herself.

If Europe should come over here and offer a pig for sale, we should want to be told about the pedigree of the animal, its present condition of health and the reasons for tendering the squealer to us. The thing they are offering us now looks much like a razorback.

Or they might offer us the city of Ctesiphon, but we should have no use for it and we could be of no help to the people of that part of the world by undertaking the administration of its affairs. Perhaps the University of Pennsylvania or the University of Chicago might make a bid, but only in the interest of the curiosity shops of archaeology.

The fact is, Europe has not done anything for itself through the long series of conferences, its wars since the great war and its manufacture of hayrick loads of paper money, not to mention its increases in funded debt.

What would be the use of dumping a little thing like the United States into the great mass of the world? We are only about 6 or 8 per cent of the whole thing and we would be wasted.

There is a way, but the enlightened men of Europe have not found it. On this side of the water we think that the expenses of government in the Old World should be reduced, that currencies should be defiated and that a rigid determination no longer to covet other people's lands should be adopted.

Enlightened Americans appreciate the difficulty of making such a change, but unless it is made any help from this country would be a drop in the bucket, though it were in the billions of dollars.

The current talk of our visitors is most superficial. What is the good of criticising our tariff? It is a fact and it will remain such indefinitely. Processes now gong on in Europe are of vastly more harm than anything America is doing or can do.

So the average American looks on with an air of indifference, though any normal person, American or other, would have an impulse to help if there were any chance, just as he has to rush to a neighbor's house on fire. From conference with intelligent people in this city one gets the idea that the European situation is nearly ignored, save as to the most sensitive markets or with reference to some of the commodities which we export on a large scale. The talk of the European orators in this country seems like the patter of rain.

Something must be done in Europe before that part of the world will command acute attention. Much admiration is expressed at the boldness and honesty with which Lloyd George and other British statesmen have declared the obligation of the intergovernment debt and along with it the hope that the time will come when this country will offer cancellation to such debtors as place their affairs in a condition where wealth from any quarter will not be wasted.

The spirit of the market for securities today is one of doubt in this city. Of course, the European situation has something to do with it, but in the main it is a question whether securities have not advanced too far into the region of uncertainty. It is admitted that the action of the Pennsylvania and the Norfolk and Western railroad companies on their dividends, justified as it is by their finances, is a highly encouraging sign, while many of the industrial properties are making excellent headway, but even under the best circumstances the prices of stocks may go too high, for the money rate always has something important to say on the subject. Among issues of local interest the improvement in the hide and leather market is an important element. The collapse in that class of commodities in 1921 was one of the severest trials to the packing industry. Such foreign countries as South America are objects of more tender solicitude In that quarter, it is to be feared, than afflicted Europe.

WHOLESALE COTTON PRICES ADVANCE

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

CHICAGO, Oct. 27.—Wholesale prices on more staple lines of cotton goods advanced here generally 2 to 10 per cent this week, following advances my many first-hand factors, and reflect growing strength at primary sources. They were widely spread and brands yet unrevised are expected to move up presently. All sellers have complained for some time about inability to keep pace with replacement or raw material costs, but, as Dry Goods Reporter points out, the better distribution afforded the opening, which presumably will continue at least until the year ends, due to placing of deferred order wants almost at the opening of the retail selling season. Great care is imperative, least demand be curtailed. Memories of speculations not so long past call for caution.

Purchasing for spot delivery in seasonable lines is brisk, with stocks generally representative. Offerings in lines for spring are rather spotty, some receiving less attention than a year ago, others more, but there appears greater willingness to operate for the future.

Promptly and Without Interruption

Pacific Power & Light Company

THE Pacific Power & Light Company was incorporated in 1910 and since that time has regularly paid dividends on its preferred stock promptly and without a break. There are several reasons for such a dependable dividend record.

The company covers a large territory and is not dependent upon any particular line of industry or business for its revenues. Because of this diversity it is very little affected by financial depression, crop failures, etc.

This company is engaged in a business far removed from the experimental stage. Electricity has become a commodity vital and essential to the every-day life of people.

Another reason for such a good statement of uninterrupted dividends is the good management of this company, which has demonstrated its ability and efficiency over many years.

This 7% Cumulative Preferred Stock is preferred as to assets and also as to dividends over the common stock. It is redeemable at 115% of par plus accrued dividend.

The attractiveness of this investment is further enhanced by the fact that the dividends are exempt from individual Normal Federal Income Tax.

We recommend Pacific Power & Light Company 7% Cumulative Preferred Stock as an investment in a business substantial and permanently established with a good record of dividends. Price 100 and accrued dividend.

THE COUNTRY OVER

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

PITTSBURG, Oct. 27.—An indication of the reaction in the coal situation in this district is shown in the prices of coke. This product, which two weeks ago sold at $12 a ton, is now offered at $8 without takers. Run of the mine coal is selling for $3 a ton. The improvement in coal production and betterment of transportation has put mills and factories in a position to increase outputs. Iron production has increased to a greater extent than steel. The expected advance of 10 per cent in window and plate glass prices has taken place and the industry is experiencing unusual prosperity.

ST. PAUL, Oct. 27.—The number of workers employed in this district is normal, and railroad shops need hundreds of machinists. Farmers are unable to obtain enough help and hundreds of woodsmen and mill workers are in demand. Candy factories are working overtime and shoe machinery, printing, milling and other industries expect to continue full time operation throughout the winter. There is a surplus of clerical workers. Prospects of trade for the mail order houses are poorer than they have been because of the slow recovery of farmer buying power. Retail and wholesale trade in the Twin Cities, however, is well ahead of a year ago.

CHICAGO, Oct. 27.—Railroads in Middle West territory are still ordering cars. The Pere Marquette road is in the market for more rolling stock. Rock Island and the St. Paul lines are to place orders for steel totaling more than 100,000 tons. The leading steel producer in this territory is operating fifteen out of twenty-seven furnaces, and no further increase in production is expected until coal and cars are more plentiful. Dry goods jobbers report an excellent business, with holiday buying of novelties the feature.

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 27.—The southern farmer is on his feet again as a result of the money received from that part of the cotton crop which has been marketed. It is estimated by the best posted authorities that more than half the cotton crop has been marketed and considerably more than $10,000,000 distributed among producers. The farmers' debts have nearly all been paid out of the proceeds of early sales and there is a disposition among those who have not sold all their crop to hold for higher prices. The spread of this movement is regarded here as largely responsible for the upheaval in the cotton market in the last two weeks. The general improvement in every line of business in the South is due to the improved conditions of the farmers.

MEXICO CITY, Oct. 27.—The Bank Eulallo Roman, which has thousands of depositors in this city and Vera Cruz, where it has a branch, has been declared bankrupt. Most of the depositors are of the middle and lower classes. The failure of the bank promises to bring misery to a large number of small traders. Its liabilities are several million dollars.

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 27.—Striking shopmen of the Terminal Railroad Association began returning to work yesterday as a result of a settlement of the strike which began July 1. The terms call for the re-employment of 75 per cent of the men who went out, the remaining 25 per cent to be placed on the waiting list.

TRADE TREND STILL TOWARD PROGRESS

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW YORK, Oct. 27.—Bradstreet's tomorrow will say:

"Weather irregularities are responsible for what lack of uniformity is visible in the general trade and industrial survey. In wholesale and jobbing trade and industry the trend is still in the direction of progress, reports in fact being the best since the late spring of 1920, and collections are the best since a year ago. Bradstreet's weekly food index has again advanced and in commodities as a whole, advances still outnumber declines. Mail-order trade comparisons are improving.

"While reports as to jobbing trade are the best for at least two years and the general outlook is still quite uniformly favorable, there are enough contrasts in volume and scope of buying to deserve notice. Thus, in the wide scope of buying and strength of prices, the textiles—cotton, wool and silk and their finished products, vastly lead and the readiness with which buyers pay prices asked is regarded as testimony to the low level of stocks in final distributors' hands and the stimulating effects of recent tariff legislation."

NEW YORK STOCK EXCHANGE

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW YORK, Oct. 28.—Good recovery was made by most stocks in today's market, but the averages were still well under the high levels of the week.

Most of today's rise undoubtedly was due to short covering influenced by the more effective resistance shown at the lower levels and the apparent halt in forced liquidation as revealed in the volume of offerings. Trading on the whole was lighter than usual.

Mexican Petroleum showed the best recovery of the active stocks, registering a net gain of 6⅝ points. Pan-American A and B rose 3 and 2⅛ points, respectively, and Houston was up 2. Standard Oil of New Jersey continued under pressure, however, yielding 3⅛ points on a turnover of less than 10,000 shares. Fisher Body was the outstanding individual feature, jumping 13½ points to 151½, a new high record for the year, on reports of heavily increased earnings.

Baldwin and Studebaker also staged a fair comeback, rising 1¼ and 2⅝ points, respectively, heavy buying of the latter again reviving reports of an extra dividend at next week's meeting. Speculative expectation that the quarterly report of the United States Steel Corporation next week will show up more favorably than those of independent companies, found expression in a point rise in that stock, which again crossed 104.

Railroad shares generally were higher, but the gains were less than those in industrials, presumably because the short interest was not extensive. Reading was one of the most active, gaining a point, while New York Central, Lehigh Valley, Atlantic Coast Line and Southern Pacific registered advances of substantial fractions.

Some of the individual strong spots were Corn Products, General American Tank Car, American Locomotive, Allis Chalmers, Lima Locomotive, Lorillard Tobacco, National Biscuit, U. S. Industrial Alcohol and Virginia-Carolina Chemical, all up 1¾ to 5 points.

American Express, People's Gas, Chicago Pneumatic Tool, Railway Steel Springs, Norfolk & Western preferred and U. S. Rubber first preferred were heavy.

Call money opened and renewed at 5½ per cent, but eased off to 5 in the early afternoon and held at that figure until the close. The demand for time money was brisk, with no change in rates. The commercial paper market was quietly firm.

A much improved tone was noted in the foreign exchange market, local banks and dealers again determining the course of prices. Demand sterling rose from 4.44¾ to 4.46, and French checks, which had fallen to 6.84 earlier in the week, again crossed 7.00 cents. Other continental rates advanced from 2 to 14 points, with the exception of the Polish rate, which dropped to a new low record at .007 cents a mark, but rallied somewhat.

Morning session:

BOND QUOTATIONS

U. S. Bonds Fall

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW YORK, Oct. 27.—Corporation issues showed better undertone today to the continued liquidation of United States government bonds, the effect of which sold in the neighborhood of 98¾ or below. Recessions from the previous steadiness ranged from 22 to 56 cents per $100 bond in the older liens, while the new 4¼s dropped 74 cents to $98.90, the lowest figure yet reached. Reasons for the throwing over of what are commonly regarded as gentlemen prices for the government's issues continued to be somewhat of a mystery. Fortnightly demands for funds in connection with commercial pursuits by banking institutions and individuals are explained in a measure the presence of offerings but it is also conceivable that considerable selling came from speculative interests who were disappointed in not finding an immediate higher market for their purchases at par.

While the tone of the market showed early hesitation with some large sales recorded at lower quotations, the late trend was uniformly upward, in sympathy with the buoyant rally in the United States government bonds which followed them. Opportunity to a party with yesterday's final prices.

Fluctuations either way in the general market were so pronounced as to constitute but little departure from the previous day's closing. Pacific Gas & Elec. 1st 5s declined 2¾, Lake Shore 1st 4 points and Del. Lack. & Western 1st 2 points, while Pere Marquette, Reading, Jersey Central collateral 4s, Electric Storage Battery 5s, Computing, Tabulating, Recording Corporation 6s, Consolidated 4s, Brooklyn Rapid Transit refundings 5 and the Stamford Water 5s declined 1 point. Closing of the Marines ensemble here as a prominent feature of a political decision favoring Hillquit by the Socialist Party executive committee, led to some selling of Morrison, Montague & Lawrence 6s, the resulting price, 98, being the lowest to which the issue has declined to the extent of a point.

On the other hand, some substantial advances were registered in the railroad mortgages, Pennsylvania consolidated 4½s rising 1¾, and Delaware & Hudson gold 4s, Rock Island refunding 4s and General 4s, Texas & Pacific 1st 5s, New York, Westchester and Western 4½s and Wabash 1st 5s, a portion of yesterday's loss, selling 1¾ higher. Interest of Treasury certificates following the settlement to-morrow was brought out in the improvement of about 7 points.

Rate-cutting of 10 points in foreign exchange rates were shown in a higher average of sterling, the French francs, with Denmark 8s and 8s, the Finnish 8s and Belgians 8s all moving upward a point or more.

EMBEZZLED CASH, SAYS GRAND JURY

San Bernardino Auditor Suspended and Deputy is Facing Charges

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

SAN BERNARDINO, Oct. 27. — With the suspending of County Auditor S. G. Berger by the San Bernardino County Grand Jury early this afternoon, a warrant charging embezzlement of $2000 of county funds was issued against J. I. Cole, Deputy Auditor, at the request of County Treas. M. W. H. Williams. Cole has not been arrested.

Auditor Berger, of Ontario, retired independently from his office, as did Deputies Ernest Hammer and Cole. A public accountant was placed in charge of the county office.

Dep. Auditor Cole is specifically charged with the theft of tax moneys received in payment of lands sold for delinquent taxes.

The inquisitorial body adjourned late today without returning indictments, although it is authentically rumored that charges of corruptness in the office will follow. No charges have been directed toward Auditor Berger. Treas. Williams said that audit of the records revealed that nearly $12,000 was embezzled during the 1921-1922 fiscal year.

MEXICO CLOSES ITS CONSULATE

Dispute With New Yorkers Leads to Order

State Court Violated Rule, is Statement

Exporters in Trouble Over Action Taken

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Oct. 27. — The Mexican Consulate in New York City was ordered closed, it was said today at the Mexican Embassy, because of the decision of the New York State Supreme Court in the Oliver Trading Corporation case, which, it was contended, was in violation of both the principles of civil and of international law. Mexican officials in New York also, it was added, had no facilities with which to carry on their duties, inasmuch as the funds and furniture of the consulate had been attached. For these reasons, it was said, the consulate would remain closed until the questions at issue had been satisfactorily adjusted.

American officials here said they had asked the State Department to take action in the case, but at the department comment was withheld. It was learned, however, that the matter had been taken up directly with New York State officials by the department. Until a reply is received from Gov. Miller it is understood that the State Department will make no reply to the Mexican representations.

VIOLATION OF RULES

Commenting upon the case, Manuel C. Telles, Charge d'Affaires of Mexico, said that the action of the New York court was in violation of the immunity extended to the consular representatives all over the world.

"The consulate in New York," he continued, "is supposed to be established to foster and help the interests of the American commerce, which occupies today the first place in our trade, with nearly 70 per cent of our total imports. If the American authorities in New York do not extend to us not only facilities to that mission, but elemental rights conceded by international law, we can only close the consulate, much to our regret. This is what has happened in the case of the Oliver Trading Corporation, and therefore we will not reopen the consulate until the writ of attachment is suspended."

As explained by the Mexican embassy, the Oliver American Trading Corporation case had its origin in a contract entered into by the Mexican government with that company two years ago, granting them certain privileges to operate their own rolling stock on Mexican lines and permitting them to collect fifty per cent increased rates. At the termination of the contract the company was notified to pay the right-of-way duty established for all cars running on Mexican lines, and in default of payment the government placed an embargo on the rolling stock. Embassy officials maintained that, according to Mexican laws, if any action was to be taken, it should have been before Mexican tribunals.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW YORK, Oct. 27. — New York exporters doing business with Mexico found themselves greatly hampered in their business today by the closing of the Mexican consulate. Many of them had goods aboard steamers already sailing for Mexico and were unable to obtain consular invoices for them.

Lacking these invoices the American exporter will be forced to pay triple duty upon his goods if they are allowed to enter Mexico. Many of the merchants were planning to ship their goods by way of other ports where Mexican consular offices still are open.

Although it had been reported from Mexico City that the Mexican government financial agency's office, and that of the Mexican National Railways here had been ordered closed, both of them were open today. It was said that no orders to close had been received.

AMERICAS IN CLOSER BOND

Secretary Hughes's Efforts Bearing Fruit

Chile and Peru in Accord, Haiti Given Boost

Cuba Being Rehabilitated by Our Aid

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WASHINGTON, Oct. 27.—Improvement in the relations of the United States and South and Central America, which have received the personal attention of Secretary Hughes of the State department since adjournment of the arms conference, is beginning to develop. With the settlement of Pacific problems by the conference, the government started investigation of the possibilities of co-operation with Europe and a better understanding with South and Central America.

Among the outstanding accomplishments of the last few months are the following:

The Tacna-Arica arbitration agreement between Chile and Peru, which awaits ratification of the protocol by Chile to insure peaceful settlement of that long-standing controversy.

BIG LOAN FOR HAITI

Establishment in Santo Domingo of a provisional government to take over the affairs of that country, which is to be followed by final withdrawal of American forces of occupation.

Negotiation of a $16,000,000 loan for Haiti, agreement for the funding of the foreign debt which necessitated American intervention in Haitian affairs and complete reorganization of Haitian finances and customs, together with an arrangement for development of Haitian resources and commerce.

The Crowder mission to Cuba, which has reached virtual agreement with the Havana government looking to rehabilitation of the finances of Cuba, balancing of its budget and a substantial loan to wipe out the existing deficit and place Cuba upon a solid foundation.

Determination to negotiate a treaty with Panama. The relations with Panama are governed by the Taft agreement, and legislation by Congress is necessary as a prelude to negotiation of a treaty.

Invitation to Nicaragua, San Salvador, Honduras, Costa Rica and Guatemala to meet in Washington this fall for renewal of their agreement of 1907, and for the further purpose of discussing reduction of land armaments.

Mr. Hughes's visit to the Brazilian exposition, which further cemented the strong ties which have always existed between Brazil and the United States.

The suggestion that the Central American republics initiate the land disarmament action is not only highly complimentary to them but results may form a precedent for extension of the land disarmament issue on a world basis as soon as Europeaa conditions permit.

This government is losing no opportunity to press for land disarmament. While the armies of the Central American republics are comparatively inconsequential in numbers, the principle involved is of the utmost importance.

CLARA CHOKED VICTIM, SAYS PEGGY CAFFEE

Cursed Dying Woman, Witness Tells Court; Mrs. Phillips "Breaks" During Story

Additional damaging evidence against Clara Phillips, charged with the murder of Alberta Meadows, was drawn unintentionally from Peggy Caffee late yesterday afternoon by Clara's defense attorney.

Peggy had been on the witness stand since early morning. She had told her story of the murder in her examination by the prosecution. Attorney Herrington, counsel for the defense, was cross-examining the eyewitness to the hammer slaying when he accidentally wrested from Peggy several statements of a damaging nature to Clara's defense.

"CLARA CHOKED HER—"

"Clara choked her and said, 'Die, you ——!' "

Peggy had never made this statement to the grand jury or at the Coroner's inquest. Attorney Herrington quickly shifted his questions to another phase of the case.

In the course of the cross-examination of Peggy, who had occupied the witness chair for five and a half hours, Attorney Herrington attempted to prove there were many discrepancies in her story. Several times the witness was on the verge of a collapse, but was revived by liberal drinks of ice water.

Earlier in the day Clara injected a tense dramatic touch to the questioning of Peggy Caffee. At that point in her testimony when Peggy declared Mrs. Phillips had purchased the hammer that slew Mrs. Meadows, Clara almost leaped from her chair and shouted:

"Peggy Caffee—tell the truth! You bought that hammer!"

At the opening of the afternoon session Clara's open remark resulted in a tilt between defense and prosecution. The court reporter had written Clara's statement in the transcript as follows:

"Peggy Caffee—tell the truth! Who purchased that hammer?"

Dep. Dist.-Atty. Fricke maintained that Clara had said "you" instead of "who." Attorney Herrington declared the questioned word was "who" and not "you." The word "who" was permitted to remain in the transcript.

"Call Peggy Caffee," Deputy Dist.-Atty. Fricke announced. The clock on the wall, its ticking heard above the pattering of rain on the courtroom windows, indicated 10:40 a. m. An ominous hush hush hung over the crowded courtroom. Clara straightened in her chair. She breathed heavier than usual. Her thin lips were pressed tightly together.

Peggy Caffee walked down the aisle and ascended to the witness chair. Clara glowered at the witness, but Peggy evaded her gaze.

"Do you know the defendant, Mrs. Phillips?"

Peggy glanced quickly at Clara. She said she knew her. She had first met Clara two years and three months ago when they had danced in the same chorus in a Broadway theater. They had danced together for four weeks.

Peggy did not meet Clara Phillips again until July 6, 1922. She met Clara and the defendant's mother downtown.

DAY BEFORE MURDER

"The next time I saw her was the day before the murder," Peggy continued, "at 11:30 in the morning at Tenth and Main streets. Clara had called me on the phone and asked me to go shopping with her. Clara fixed the meeting place."

But Clara did not go shopping, according to Peggy. She changed her mind and she said she was going home to see her husband. Peggy walked with her to Mercantile Place and they hired a taxicab. Before that they had gone to a parking station.

"I heard Clara tell one of the men at the parking station that she wanted to use Mrs. Meadows car. She had taken the keys from Mrs. Meadows car. Then she put the keys back and said she had decided she wouldn't use the car.

The two girls, the accused and the accuser, then went to Peggy's apartment at 1:20 p. m.

"We went shopping," Peggy said. "Clara purchased a pair of slippers, a silk shirt, a pair of hose—and a hammer."

CLARA THE ACCUSER

At this moment of Peggy's testimony, Clara Phillips almost leaped from her chair. She jumped quickly forward, grasped the edges of the counsel table. A terrifying expression passed like a flash across her pallid face. Then she shouted, her voice resounding through the hushed courtroom:

"Peggy Caffee—tell the truth! You bought that hammer!"

Clara's attorney toyed with his spectacles. Muttering arose in the courtroom. Deputy Sheriff Dewar rapped loudly for order.

CLARA BOUGHT HAMMER

Peggy shuddered, then she braced herself, gripping the arms of the witness chair, and shouted back:

"Clara Phillips bought that hammer!"

Clara sank back in her chair, pressed her handkerchief to her mouth, rocked in her chair. Her bosom was rising and falling spasmodically.

Peggy resumed her story. She had later visited the 5 and 10-cent store with Deputy Sheriff Dewar.

"That was where we purchased —where she purchased the hammer."

Attorney Herrington asked that this statement be re-read to the court.

"Did Mrs. Phillips say anything when she bought the hammer?" Dep. Dist.-Atty. Fricke asked.

"She said she was looking for a large hammer." Peggy replied, "a hammer with claws on it, one that would take out tacks. I walked over to her, asked her as soon as she purchased the hammer to come over to the music counter."

STRING IDENTIFIED

Clara had a package under her arm when she left the store. It was wrapped in brown paper and bound with blue string. Peggy identified a blue piece of string—People's Exhibit No. 8—as the string that had bound the package.

Peggy was shown a hammer, purchased by Deputy Sheriff Frank Dewar at the same counter where, it is charged, Clara bought her 15-cent hammer. Peggy said it was like the one Clara had purchased.

"It looks the same to me," she said.

"We then went to Mr. Dick Covington's room in a hotel on Tenth street. Clara said she wanted to get a drink. Mr. Covington was a stage hand. Clara asked him for a drink, but he didn't have any. We were there only about five minutes."

Then they went to Peggy's apartment. Clara was going to stay with Peggy that night. From Peggy's apartment they went to the apartment-house where Alberta Meadows lived.

TELLS OF GOSSIP

"Clara said she wanted to go to a girl friend's apartment. We took a taxi from Pico street and Grand avenue. On our way out to Alberta's place Clara told me she had heard from neighbors that her husband had been going with a girl. She told me her husband had scolded her, and she just knew her husband was going with a girl."

She Taught Clara to Dance

Victoria Cross

FRIEND STICKS BY CLARA

Girl Who Led Chorus of Which Accused Slayer Was Member Throws Light on Her Past Life

A little woman dressed in black and wearing a bright red hat walked down the aisle in Judge Houser's criminal court yesterday, where Clara Phillips is staging the fight for her life. For three days she has been sitting in the courtroom in the same seat, big tears rolling down her face hidden by the black fur wrapped high around her neck.

But yesterday—she walked down the aisle, inside of the railing, and into the arms of Clara Phillips. She is Victoria Cross, who led the chorus in Bob Albright's Broadway Pantages Follies in which Peggy Caffee and Clara both danced.

Out of the multitude of persons who have pointed the accusing finger at Clara, Victoria has been the first to reach out with a friendly hand and say: "Clara, I'm still your friend and will stick by you until the end."

Clara trembled and was on the verge of breaking down and Victoria placed her arms about her. Tears welled up in the eyes of the girl called "The Tiger Woman" when she said:

"Hello, honey. How's my little girl? Gee, but I'm glad to see someone I know."

SHOWS EMOTION

This was the first real emotion Clara has shown since she was brought back from her flight to Tucson. The stoicism, the marble-like pose, the immobility of expression were forgotten, as the fellowship of "the backstage" world was renewed.

"Have you gone back on me like all the others have?" Clara asked Victoria as they held hands.

"No, Clara, I'm still your friend and I'll stick by you until the end."

Then Victoria Cross told Clara she had read of her plight while dancing in a cabaret in Eureka

ACTRESS'S SUIT TANGLED

Court to Decide Desertion Question in Divorce Action of Carmel Myers

An interesting legal question, perhaps untouched by the statutes of this State, stepped between Carmel Meyers, film actress, and a divorce decree yesterday. Known in private life as Carmel M. Kornblum, the actress sought a divorce from Isidore I. Kornblum, lawyer and song writer. She charged that her left her, not once but twice. The first desertion was condoned by Mrs. Kornblum. That was July 20, 1920. The second desertion occurred May 9, last. A year must elapse before a decree can be granted.

CONDONATION INVALID

Philip Cohen, attorney for Mrs. Kornblum contended that after she had taken back her husband and condoned his purported desertion, he failed to keep his promise to refrain from insisting that she give up her film work and be a housewife. Hence, the condonation was wipe out by Mr. Kornblum's acts and the desertion of July 23, 1920 stood, being within the legal period.

Judge Summerfield asked for authorities on the point, and continued the case for ten days. Apparently this case furnishes a precedent.

"It was perfectly understood before our marriage that I should not give up my work," said Mrs. Kornblum. "He thought my place ought to be at home. I would not give up my work. In that case, he said he was through. He left our home in the afternoon and registered at a downtown hotel. At 11 o'clock that night he called me up, expressed sorrow and I took him back on his promise that our ante-nuptial understanding should continue.

LEAVES AGAIN

"He did not carry out his promise and May 9 last, he left me again."

Mrs. Kornblum was corroborated by her mother and her brother, Zion Myers.

But for the legal question, it seemed like a clear cut case, but Judge Summerfield inclined to the belief that the second desertion, not the first prevailed. Mr. Cohen assured the court he felt the first desertion stood, and agreed to submit briefs.

The first rainfall of the season visited Los Angeles and Southern California yesterday. In the city the fall was recorded as .24 of an inch. Last year at this time three light showers had made the total 1.21.

The storm came from the north, where considerable rain fell on Thursday afternoon and night, and caused a rapid drop in temperature. A seaward low pressure area was responsible for the precipitation, according to Weather Bureau officials. At San Francisco .20 of an inch was recorded; at Eureka, 1:10; Red Bluff, .20; Sacramento, .10; San Jose, .34; Santa Rosa, .26, and at Stockton, .18.

DOWNFALL GENERAL

In the San Joaquin Valley a slight downfall was general, averaging about half an inch. Livestock men were pleased, for the reason that it livened green feed for the cattle. Grape growers are losers, because at least 50 per cent of the crop is in the field on account of the car shortage and unless the shower is followed closely by sun and wind, many grapes will be ruined by mildew. At Bishop no rain had fallen, although fresh snow was visible on the mountain tops.

Lowering clouds were present all day yesterday in the Imperial Valley, but no rain fell. A strong west wind promised showers early today.

The greatest good from the showers in the southern part of the State was recorded in the vicinity of San Bernardino, where forest fires burning for six days and which last night swept across the crest of the San Bernardino Mountains, threatening the $2,000,000 resort project at Lake Arrowhead and the entire pine forest on the rim fo hte world, were halted early this morning by heavy rains.

PUTS FIRE OUT

Burning fiercely, the flames headed toward Holcomb Valley today, missing Lake Arrowhead by a scant mile. Three hundred and fifty weary fire fighters prayed for rain when clouds gathered shortly after dawn.

It was near noon when rain began to fall. At 3 o'clock Supt. R. H. Charlton, superintendent of the Angeles National Forest, directing the fire fighters, sent a call for trucks to remove 150 men.

"The fire's out," he said. The message spread to all parts of the valley.

Miles of big pines were burned by the flames as they crossed the fire breaks near midnight last night, after burning in City Creek Canyon for five days.

RAINS HALT SPREAD OF FOREST FIRE

Men in Flame-Ridden Area Are Aided by Fall; Three Blazes Quenched

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE]

SAN BERNARDINO, Oct. 27.—Rain, just before noon today, brought relief to the men fighting a forest fire which has for several days been eating its way along the crest of the San Bernardino Mountains near here. Shifting winds earlier in the day diverted the course of the flames from the Lake Arrowhead resort district, when it had eaten into the pines a mile and a half from the lake.

The flames are driving northward, but changing weather conditions and a new backfire started by a large crew give hopes of bringing the fire under control. It is in the Angeles National Forest.

The rains of yesterday ended one of the greatest fire hazards of the season, it was stated at the offices of County Forester Flintham here last night. For days fires have raged in the mountains to the north and west of Los Angeles and it was feared until the rains began yesterday that they would continue.

The blazes in Sullivan, Rustic and Mandeville canyons were all quenched by the rains and it was stated that further fires are improbable this season.

Deputies from the forestry office are investigating the fires of the last week and it was stated last night that arrests would result.

TESTIMONY IN BURCH TRIAL CUT

Mrs. Besanty's Evidence Quickly Given; Story of Package Begun

During the short time Mrs. Elizabeth Besanty was on the stand yesterday in Judge Shenk's court in the trial of Arthur C. Burch for the murder of J. Belton Kennedy on August 5, 1921, she told of her impressions on the night of the slaying of the broker, of hearing shots in front of her house, and in the direction of the Kennedy cottage in Beverly Glen.

"And then I heard a voice saying, 'I got him,' " she testified.

With this testimony Dep. Dist.-Atty.-Clark turned to defense attorneys Richard Kittrelle and Leo Silverstein and told them to cross-examine the witness. The action created a surprise, as Mrs. Besanty in the other trials was on the stand four days. Only two questions relating to the slaying were asked the witness by Mr. Clark.

Charles Reimer, an investigator for the District Attorney's office, testified to lay a foundation for the reading of testimony in the first trial of A. B. Niles, former clerk in the Russell Hotel. This testimony related to Niles permitting Burch to take a woman, said to have been Mrs. Madalynne Obenchain, his codefendant, to his room in the Russell Hotel, across the street from the office of Belton Kennedy. Testimony of Niles also told of his seeing Burch with a package in his arm a few hours before the slaying and of seeing Burch return to the hotel after midnight without the package. This package, it is charged by the prosecution, contained the shotgun said to have been used in the slaying.

Deputy Sheriff Johnson and Motorcycle Officer Frank Liebhart of Beverly Hills were the other witnesses of the day. The trial will be resumed on Monday.

POSTAL MEN ARRIVE FOR INSPECTION

High Officials to be Guests of Chamber of Commerce During Visit

Second Assistant Postmaster-General Paul Henderson and a delegation of postoffice officials arrived in Los Angeles last night to make an inspection tour of this district. The party, including W. H. Riddell, general superintendent; J. H. Edwards, solicitor of the Postoffice Department; Edwin McGrath, superintendent of the eighth division, and John H. Edwards, registered at the Alexandria Hotel.

The delegation was not expected to reach the city until this morning. The Chamber of Commerce and local postoffice officials will be hosts during the party's stay.

They will be entertained at a noonday luncheon at Beverly Hills, and this afternoon will be taken for an auto ride as guests of the chamber.

The chamber committee which will assist in the entertainment of the party consists of W. T. Bishop, F. P. McComas, J. P. Burke, M. De Brabant, Morris M. Rathbun, Motley H. Flint, Charles Bayer, Guy Adams and Frank Walsh. Postmaster P. P. O'Brien and other postoffice officials will join in extending courtesies to the visitors.

NEW SCHOOL HOUSES TO BE RUSHED

Bond Issue Approved and $2,000,000 Building Program Will be Started

Erection of $2,000,000 worth of school building will begin within the next month, it was learned yesterday, when informal notice was given the Board of Education that the recent bond issue had been tentatively approved by a New York bond house. Architects have been appointed and are now drawing plans for the buildings, it was stated.

September 11, the Board of Supervisors approved the sale of the bonds to the highest bidders, Drake, Riley and Thomas, with the understanding that the sale would not be completed until the counsel for the brokers had approved the validity of the bonds. Yesterday word was received from New York that the sale was approved. As soon as they can be engraved, which will be two weeks, building will start.

Of the first sale, $1,000,000 will be used for high schools and $1,000,000 for elementary schools. Sites have already been selected for the buildings.

Aged Man First Victim of Rain; Hip Fractured

The first accident due to the rain was recorded yesterday at the Receiving Hospital late in the day when George Maxwell, aged 71 years, railroad conductor and for thirty-seven years an employee of the Santa Fe and Salt Lake Railroads, was given emergency treatment for a fractured right hip.

Mr. Maxwell had just left 1950 East First street, where he was employed as an elevator operator, when he fell on the slippery sidewalk. His home is at 1961 East Second street.

OAKS PRAISES PENSION PLAN

Simple Justice to Municipal Employees Asked

Amendment Urged to Baffle Hostile Politics

Benefit to Taxpayers Will Result, Says Chief

BY LOUIS J. OAKS,
Chief of the Los Angeles Police Department

All citizens of Los Angeles should be glad to work for the success on November 7 of charter amendment 8A, by which it is proposed to change certain features of the present system of pensioning the fire and police departments and establish it as a permanent part of our city charter. It is a matter of simple justice that faithful municipal employees should have pension protection in their declining years, after long and exacting service, and that their dependents should be safeguarded by definite provision against the need of charity.

The provisions of this proposed measure are such as may be approved by any open-minded citizen without reservation. This becomes clear to any unprejudiced person who examines its provisions. The draft was prepared after a careful study of pension systems established in the principal larger American cities that have proven economical and satisfactory.

The fire and police departments are anxious to have their pension status established as a part of the city charter and not left, as at present, to a Council ordinance. As long as this clearly objectionable fault in the existing plan remains uncorrected there will be anxiety and uncertainty in the ranks of both departments. To continue to work up to a high standard of efficiency—which is only possible in the absence of such anxiety—men of any calling must know that the future is secure.

FIGURES PRESENTED

Arguments are heard from time to time against the idea of pensioning municipal employees, but generally they are weak and are not based on a thoughtful consideration of the subject. In fact, the tendency throughout the country, in both public and private employments, strongly favors this safeguard against a dependent old age and where the family breadwinner has been sacrificed. Long ago wisely managed corporations entered the field of pension protection for their faithful employees, with the result that today we find that concerns like Swift & Co., Armour & Co., the Pullman Company, the principal American railroads, banking institutions and even department stores have established adequate pension systems on an accepted part of their organization.

Figures which recently came to my attention from Swift & Co.'s year book showed that this corporation has paid out in seven years approximately $2,500,000 in sick disability and death benefits to employees under a regular pension plan. This approximated $357,142 a year in such benefits. The company's gross revenue from all sources in 1920 amounted to approximately $1,100,000,000, which shows that the cost of one year's pension benefits to the employees was less than one-third of 1 per cent. Certainly this does not indicate a high cost for protection that probably saved this company the enormous outlay that would have been necessary to offset the labor overturn which the pension system undoubtedly prevented.

WOULD APPLY PLAN

If this company and many others engaged in purely profit-making enterprises can see wisdom and economy in guaranteeing pension protection for their faithful employees, certainly the same thought can be applied with equal force to a great community like Los Angeles.

It is high time that we looked upon the pension merely as just future compensation for service rendered ungrudgingly and loyally under conditions the very arduous and hazardous character of which makes that service no longer possible. As regards our fire and police departments, it should be remembered that their members are required to protect the lives and property of a community of approximately 800,000 persons, living in a territory larger than any municipality in the country with the single exception of New York, and with real and personal property valued at more than $2,000,000,000. This is the task of approximately 2000 men, who are today receiving on the average smaller salaries than are paid in the fire and police departments of practically all the larger American cities.

On their slender wages our firemen and policemen must maintain a good living standard, pay for their uniforms and make satisfactory provision for their families. Most of them are family men and are struggling to acquire homes of their own, and thus meet their own part in the taxation necessary for our municipal upkeep. They are ever ready to make personal sacrifices—this being clearly indicated in the fact that from their slender funds the dependents of some thirty-nine firemen and policemen who have died in line of duty are being supported—and that they make the excellent showing that they do is entirely to their credit.

An understanding and an appreciation of the qualities in our firemen and police are, I believe, largely prevalent among our Los Angeles citizens, and this explains why the pension charter amendment has already received the endorsement of so many thousands, regardless of how they may view other measures on the November ballot. This is exactly as it should be, because this measure not only strongly appeals to a reasoning person's sense of right and justice but it is purely civic in its intent and its only political significance is that, by approving it, the people will be seizing a long awaited opportunity to take the fire and police departments out of the reach of unfriendly politics.

REPROVES REPORTER

I took care to be duly presented myself. Her recognition of me was superb, gracious, condescension. She assumed a polite weary little smile, infinitely bored. And she turned to gently reprove a reporter who, she said, seemed bent upon hanging her.

"Do you read all the papers?" I asked.

"Oh, yes, I do," she answered with that insouciant manner that implied a shrug of the shoulders. "Wouldn't you?"

And I decided then and there that the reporters had better leave town if Clara is acquitted. There was infinite scorn in her caustic little smile. Clara is possessed of a motion-picture sort of a lawyer. He has a thunderous voice and duly "registers" magnificence on set occasions. He holds his hand in the small of his back when presenting some of poor little Peggy Caffee's former testimony for her confounding and looks down at her from pompous heights.

But as far as I could see, he only made Peggy confess that she hadn't confessed about the trip to Long Beach for the pint of whisky before the grand jury. I was conscious of distinct sympathy with Peggy over this "intentional error" (so characterized by Clara's lawyer, who likes large phrases, and says them in a large voice.)

band, leaned forward to obtain a closer view of Peggy. He frowned.

"I told Clara not to believe everything she had heard."

Peggy said she asked Clara to go with her to Long Beach on the following day. Peggy wanted to see her husband, who worked in the oil fields. Then they arrived at Alberta's apartment.

PEEKS THROUGH KEYHOLE

"Clara walked up the hallway and looked through the keyhole into Alberta Meadows's apartment. She came back and said it was dark."

The two girls returned to Peggy's apartment. They slept together that night.

"In bed Clara told me she had had told her mother that she had sent her packages home. But she hadn't. They were at my apartment that night, on my bureau."

EAGER FOR DRINK

After breakfast on the morning of July 12, Peggy and Clara went to the Pacific Electric depot. They were going to Long Beach. Then Clara telephoned to Dick Covington. She was still on the trail of a little drink. The drink was not to be had and they went to Long Beach.

"In Long Beach we went to a friend of mine—I mean a friend of my husband's. He said he could not get a drink for Clara. Another boy in the Long Beach apartment house said he could get a drink. Clara went with him and they were gone an hour and a half." When they returned they brought back a pint bottle of whisky.

"I had one drink of it. We all had a drink, but the boys drank most of it. A little drink was left and Clara asked for it. She took the bottle with her. It was wrapped in paper and she carried it. I last saw that bottle when Clara, at the parking station later, asked Mrs. Meadows to take us out in the auto."

When "the boys" left the two girls, Peggy and Clara walked to the parking station. Up to this time Peggy had never seen Alberta Meadows, the witness said.

ASK FOR RIDE

Clara asked Mrs. Meadows if she would take them out to Clara's sister's house. They climbed into Alberta's coupe. Clara said she would direct the way and sat in the middle. They drove out Broadway, and Peggy believes they went through a tunnel.

They were riding along a car track. At the end of the car line Clara directed Alberta to turn to the right and up a winding dirt road.

"How was it that the automobile was stopped on this road?" Peggy was asked.

"Clara said she wanted to speak to Mrs. Meadows—just a little before we stopped. And when we got to the place, Clara said, 'stop here.'

"Clara stepped out of the auto first when it stopped. Alberta got out next and I followed her. I walked up a little ways.

"Then Clara said:

ACCUSATION AND BLOW

"'My husband purchased you those large tires and that steering-wheel!'

"'Why, no, Mrs. Phillips,' Alberta said, 'I purchased them myself.'

"Just then Clara struck Mrs. Meadows on the head!"

Clara again was leaning forward in her chair, poking her attorney in the ribs with gentle jabs of her hand. With the other hand she was pressing a handkerchief to her mouth. All eyes in the courtroom were turned toward Mrs. Phillips. They expected to see her leap across the counsel table toward Peggy Caffee. A deputy sheriff stood over Clara's husband, watching him intently. The bailiff kept vigil over Fred Tremaine, the slain girl's father.

"What did she strike Mrs. Meadows with?"

"A—a hammer!"

Clara again leaned forward and clutched the arms of her chair. Then she smiled cynically.

PEGGY THREATENED

"She struck her with the iron and — and Alberta ran down the hill, screaming. I ran up the hill. Alberta's hat fell off when Clara struck her. Then Clara turned on me.

"'Damn you—get away or I'll kill you!' she said.

"I was running. I thought I heard her coming after me. I got so I could go no further. I turned —and saw this hand going up and down—Clara was kneeling over the body—my knees were weak—I could go no further. I don't remember after that. I must have fainted."

Clara's face, as she watched every quiver of Peggy's lips, was like the mask of a ghost. She was chewing on her handkerchief.

COVERED WITH BLOOD

"When I next saw Clara she was in the auto, tooting the horn. She was driving the car down the hill. She said: 'Get in!' and I did. Her face was covered with blood. Her dress and her hands were all bloody.

"She had Mrs. Meadows's handbag. The hammer head was on the floor of the car. She asked me for my gloves to cover her bloody arms. While I put one of my gloves on one of her hands she steered the car with her other hand."

DRINK REFUSED

"When and where did Mrs. Phillips offer a drink to Mrs. Meadows?" Dep. Dist.-Atty. Fricke asked Peggy.

"While we were at the parking station. Mrs. Meadows said she did not care for any."

The questioning was directed back to the scene of the murder. Peggy said Clara took off her blood-stained rings and dropped them in Alberta's handbag, which Clara had taken. And as Clara and Peggy, fleeing from the body in the road, were driving down the hill, Mrs. Phillips said to Peggy, "You will remember that Mrs. Meadows got these from my husband." But Peggy said she did not reply to the remark, for she knew Mr. Phillips had not given the rings to Alberta.

CONSCIENCE CLEAR

"Returning to town I didn't have much to say to Clara, but I asked her how she could go home and if her conscience was clear. She said it was clear, that she could kill any woman who took her husband away from her. Clara didn't seem excited, but she had fire in her eyes."

"From what you saw and observed, did she appear angry?"

"No—she seemed calm. I was still afraid of her—afraid she was going to do something to me. She mentioned that my face was pale, and said:

"'Remember, don't tell your husband or I'll kill you!'

Peggy was trembling in the witness stand. Clara, staring at her, was smiling. A glass of water was brought to the witness and she gulped it down.

"We drove down to the car line, then along several different streets. I got out of the auto at Pico and Figueroa and by then she had told me two or three times—she threatened to kill me."

"How did you come to go to the police station on the following day?"

"I told my husband."

CLARA RELIEVED

Attorney Herrington then cross-examined Peggy Caffee. Clara, whose bosom had been falling and rising heavily, sank back in her chair as if greatly relieved.

"On the evening of July 13, after getting out of the auto, you went to your apartment?" the defense attorney asked her.

She had, and then she went to Long Beach. Les Adkins and a Mr. Gentry drove her to the beach city. The two men had been waiting at her apartment for her. They drove her to Long Beach and left her near the street where her husband lived.

On the day before—July 11—when she and Clara had gone to Long Beach, the two girls had visited the apartment of Les Adkins.

Attorney Herrington wanted to know why she had phoned to Mr. Adkins instead of to her husband upon her arrival in that city. She said she had called him because Clara wanted a drink. Mr. Gentry and Clara went in quest of the liquor. Mr. Adkins departed to search for Peggy's husband. Peggy remained alone in the youth's apartment.

"Before they returned did you meet another man?"

"No, sir!"

"Mrs. Phillips wanted the liquor—not Mrs. Caffee?"

"Yes, sir."

When the party convened in the apartment again they all drank some of the whisky. Peggy said she was sick and didn't want more than one drink, and after fifteen minutes the party disbanded.

"The real motive of your trip to Long Beach was to get a drink for your friend?"

"No sir, I went there to see my husband."

"Did you tell Clara any other reason for going to Long Beach other than to see your husband?"

"No sir."

"Did you not tell Clara you knew some associates of your husband from whom you wanted to learn something about your husband?

"No sir."

HUSBAND DISPLEASED

Peggy's husband was sitting among the spectators. His countenance displayed displeasure at hearing these insinuations from the defense attorney and he frowned at his wife in the witness chair.

"Were you at the First National Bank at any time?"

"No sir."

"Were you or Clara at the First National Bank on the day of the crime between 1 and 3 o'clock?"

DISCREPANCY SHOWN

This reply established one discrepancy in the prosecution's case. Bank employees testified on Thursday that they had seen Clara in the bank on that day, and that she was waiting for Mrs. Meadows.

"Were you continuously with Clara on Tuesday and Wednesday?"

"Yes sir. Clara called me on the phone on Tuesday, about 11 a.m. and we were together until after the murder."

The bank employees had also testified that Clara, on her visit to the bank, wore a light suit. Peggy said that on Tuesday and Wednesday Mrs. Phillips was wearing dark clothes.

But these admissions from the prosecution witness did not disturb the prosecutors. Dep. Dist. Atty. Fricke later explained that the bank employees may have been mistaken in the day on which they had seen Mrs. Phillips at the bank.

Peggy told Attorney Herrington she did not understand why she had accompanied Mrs. Phillips to Alberta Meadows's apartment on the night before the murder.

"Tell the jury what was the first time Mrs. Phillips said anything about her husband's interest in another girl."

"Tuesday afternoon," Peggy replied. "Clara said she had heard her husband was going out with some one two, who last saw each other in a dressing room, talked of old times—the days of the chorus. "Vic," as Clara calls "the one friend of them all," tried to make the woman on trial forget. It was useless, however.

"It was a memory, very dear to me, to see my little girl Vic," Clara said shortly after she had dried the tears with her powder puff.

CLARA'S "LITTLE GIRL"

"Clara always called me her little girl," Victoria explained after she had said good-by to the one on trial. "It seemed Clara always looked after me, and when I was sick she cared for me. I was just her little girl and when I saw she was in trouble I came to her. I would have spent my last cent to come and pledge my friendship.

"She meant a lot to me in the old days of the chorus and she still does. Nothing could change my love for her. I am sorry this terrible thing has happened but I know tonight that Clara would gladly exchange places with Alberta Meadows."

Victoria, yesterday, for the first time, told a story of the ill-fate that has followed members of that chorus in which Clara danced as a "medium"—second row of the chorus.

"It seems a terrible jinx was on that bunch of girls. It was a bad day, a bad fate for us all when we went down for a try-out at 119½ South Spring street. There were about 200 of us who tried out for places. Ill fortune has followed only the ones who were taken as dancers, I think."

The chorus girls to whom fate has brought tragedy are:

Phyllis Haverty, 19-year-old dancer, who was a "pony" died a week after the show had played in San Francisco in 1920. An officer of the Navy, aboard a United States destroyer, who was to have married Phyllis, was killed in the war.

FIANCE KILLED IN WAR

Victoria Cross was to have married her childhood sweetheart on Feb. 10, 1918, her birthday but the war took his life three days before the wedding bells were to have rung. He was a lieutenant in the Navy.

Billy Desly, a chorus girl, was held for days pending investigation of the mysterious death of Al Stein, a motion-picture director.

Frankie Lee and several others of the chorus suffered, their marital careers going on the rocks.

Others of the chorus who have recently been ushered into the limelight of tragedy are Clara Phillips and Peggy Caffee.

"It was only yesterday, it seems that the whole bunch of us were celebrating Clara's birthday backstage in the theater up in San Francisco," Victoria said yesterday.

"Peggy and Clara were good friends. I remember on Clara's birthday Peggy went up to Clara and said: 'You know I love you, but I haven't a thing I can give you so I'm going to give you a great big kiss.'

"A few minutes later Clara came into my dressing room and cried. She was awfully human. She told me Peggy had kissed her and it sure did make her feel good to know that someone loved her and cared for her.

EAGER TO LEARN

"When we were on the road Clara and I used to room together. At night I would teach some of the harder dance steps to Clara. She was already a good dancer but she was always eager to learn more.

"Every night she wrote her husband. It seemed she had an unbelievable love for him.

"I used to be broke a whole lot because I was sending money home all the time, and though I never told Clara I was up against it, she seemed always to know. When I'd get in a pinch she helped me out. Once I remember one of the girls, Frankie Lee, was going to sell me her old hat for $5. Clara went to Frankie and told her it wasn't worth that much. Said it was only worth $2, so the girl sold it to me for that.

WIND TEARS DOWN WALLS

Freak Gale Does Damages to Two Buildings, While Others Narrowly Escape

A terrific gust of wind, described by workmen as a miniature cyclone, yesterday afternoon tore out the north and south walls of a building under construction at 1600 East Washington street and raised the roof of the E. B. Hatten Door and Panel Company building two feet into the air.

The roof settled again, with serious damage to only one corner. No other buildings or houses in the vicinity were damaged.

The inverted cone of wind, common in Kansas, but rare here, swept in a northeasterly direction. It struck the corner of Compton avenue and East Washington street shortly before 2 p.m., throwing the front brick wall of the Hatten annex into Washington street, ripping out girders and stripping tar paper from the roof.

The Hatten Company Building is on the southeast corner of Compton avenue at Washington street, and the one-story annex adjoins it on the east. Workmen of the Long Beach Brick Company, contractors, finished the walls at noon and left for the day, planning to put on the roof this morning. Mr. Hatten estimated the damage at $1500 to $2000.

GIRL'S TRIAL SORDID MESS

After all, in these prohibition days, a pint of whisky is often more utterly culpable than a mere murder. Such a short time ago that pint might have been so guiltless!

However, Peggy somewhat restored her sinful reputation when she said the bottle was not quite full; that possibly three drinks had been taken out of it—at least half an inch of liquor was missing. Three drinks to half an inch of a short pint sounded like truly well-bred nips.

Poor little Peggy—just a little chorus girl in a frightful red hat encircled in crown-like feathers. A very unhappy little girl, who mentioned her husband as often as possible in the testimony—clutching at a slim, but respectable straw. And all the time with that scornful, poiseful, unblinking gaze of Clara searching her very soul.

I felt that Peggy was telling the truth, trying very hard to remember the confused details of that dreadful day—and quivering wretchedly as she told how Clara had said, "If you tell your husband, I will kill you."

KEPT HER MIND

But all the same, Peggy was not too flustered to mildly correct the pompous lawyer when he said:

"She told you, you were going to the apartment of the girl who was going with her husband."

"No, sir. With the girl who she thought was going with her husband," corrected Peggy—inspiring prompt gratitude in the hearts of Alberta Meadows's unhappy relatives.

But Peggy was suffering under her dreadful hat. Clara was suffering under her aristocratic poise. Clara's sister was suffering. Alberta Meadows's father, sister, sweetheart, all were suffering. And all because of a robust, awkward looking young mechanic in a preposterous tie, with smugly waving hair, a ready-made suit of clothes, a large Adam's apple and a rapidly developing ego.

Such a silly, cheap sordid little mess.

GIRL TELLS OF CLARA'S PAST

and had come to Los Angeles to help her if she was able. Clara thanked her and cried aloud.

Then the two, who last saw each other in a dressing room, talked of old times—the days of the chorus. "Vic," as Clara calls "the one friend of them all," tried to make the woman on trial forget. It was useless, however.

"It was a memory, very dear to me, to see my little girl Vic," Clara said shortly after she had dried the tears with her powder puff.

AT LONG RANGE
Even if a man can swim three miles, it begins to look as if it will do him no good.

DRAWING PAY
Some of the actors in German films draw as much as 30 cents a day. A wage scale like that would put Hollywood on a prune basis.

INTERNAL ECONOMIES
Supervisors in one of the leading counties in Michigan have pulled the pay of the Sheriff down to $2000 a year and fixed the limit on meals for prisoners at 15 cents. Looks as if that would not be a very nice jail in which to spend the summer.

CUTTING THE COST
When gasoline drops a cent people make more fuss about it than they do when shoes come down $1. Possibly it is because gasoline has become the prime necessity of life. Here in Southern California a fellow can go barefooted—but he must ride.

OFF WITH THE DANCE
Dances in the college set at Berkeley are supposed to be over by 8:30. Down this way it would be supposed that 8:30 in the morning was meant. We have heard of tango parties that stayed up until the milkman came around the second time. The co-eds at Berkeley must be under restraint.

SPEED AND FUSS
The race-horse Henry Ford has been winning some good purses and there's a speedy sailboat of the name that has been winning honors on the deep. Some day somebody will name a cuckoo after Henry Ford that will be able to make a louder noise than any bird in captivity. Were the world to be made peaceful and slow Henry should have been chloroformed when he was a kid.

WELL WORTH WHILE
The industrial court in Kansas is objectionable to union labor and to many employers, but that is no sign that it is not a fine thing for the people. It is said that in a majority of cases that have been before it the rulings have been against the employers, but the fact that it assures arbitration and forbids strikes in essential industries commends the law to the masses. It is far from being a perfect solution of labor problems, but the Kansas law is a pronounced step in a worthy direction.

LOVE AND LIARS
Juveniles who rush off to Santa Ana and lie about their ages in order to obtain marriage licenses may be piling up misery for themselves in more ways than one. While the courts may provide an annulment where one or both of the parties to a union are under age there is now a disposition to meet the situation with criminal proceedings. To swear falsely as to one's age in securing the license is perjury and perjury is now being extensively punished. The judge, in setting the marriage aside, is passing the matter on to the District Attorney to determine if perchance a more serious charge may not lie. Youngsters will find it best to tell the truth and wait until they have cut their eyeteeth before steering for the matrimonial rocks.

THE SPEED LIMIT
Judgment of airmen is that 220 miles an hour is as fast as any human being will care to go. Beyond that speed becomes oppressive and the jar upon the nerves is maddening. It will be a fine thing if the birdmen can themselves prove that speed has its limitations. Even the fact that they have found it to be far beyond the ken of most men should not impair the value of the thought. The spirit of grandpa, who whirled through space behind Dobbin at the rate of nine miles an hour, would be joyed to know that the grandson cannot go a lap faster than 220 miles an hour without losing his breath. First thing we know we will be tacking signs on the clouds—when we have any—notifying passing airmen that the speed limit is 200 miles.

VERY EMBARRASSING
Bandits in Kansas City are becoming inexpressibly vicious. On a recent night two different men in different parts of the city were robbed of all their possessions. They were stripped to the bone. One victim, who explained to the highwayman that he was a tenderfoot, was permitted to retain his socks in honor of the joke, but the other had only a mantle of passionate thoughts when found by the police. The fact that one of the victims had been in the army did not help. He was not even suffered to retain his union suit. He was cleaned from his collar button to his garters. When a man is relieved of every shred of clothing he feels uncommonly helpless. He can hardly fight back if he finds opportunity. To be left wholly unblanketed on the streets of some of these northern cities on a November night would be a painful experience. It wouldn't be so bad in Los Angeles, but it is hoped that none of our hold-up men will be mean enough to emulate the example of their Kansas City kin.

SMUDGING THE "WHITE SPOT"
It is due in a large measure to the progressive and rapid development of its natural resources that Southern California has been able to fend back from its frontiers the great industrial depression and business stagnation that followed in the wake of the World War. Undeveloped, these resources could have afforded no protection, could have offered no defense. Natural resources plus individual initiative, human energy and industrial freedom equal prosperity.

This power of Southern California to stand fast and even forge ahead when all the other industrial communities of America and Europe were being forced steadily backward was freely and favorably commented on at the recent convention of the Investment Bankers' Association at Del Monte. It was a desire to study the conditions in California that brought the investment bankers to the Pacific Coast.

What Southern California has done since 1918, and is continuing to do, in so many lines of economic and social development is a matter of national information; but only those engaged in financial enterprise knew the extent or the magnitude of the development of the State's resources, especially those in the Southern California area.

Some of the facts recounted during the session were in the nature of revelations to those living here, in the very midst of things and knowing nothing about them. But the investment bankers were well informed, as it is their business to be. They are the men who are intrusted with the investment of other people's money, who find placements for capital that has been accumulated on the shores of the seven seas.

Security and the prospect of a profit are the absolute essentials to such investment. California has been able to fulfill these conditions in the past; and it is for this reason that the greater part of the funds invested in the development, alike of our industrial enterprises and of our natural resources, has come from east of the Mississippi.

At this convention it was shown that more than $70,000,000 would be expended during the current year by private companies engaged in the development of water and electrical power; and that plans formulated for the future called for the additional investment of $1,000,000,000 during the next ten years.

These figures are of such magnitude that they dwarf all that took place before the World War. That was the period when the American people began to think in billions; then began the assembling of the power and wealth of America in a concrete, visible form. The results of this vast expenditure of money, labor and energy can hardly be visualized by the lay mind; but we were informed by the investment bankers that no other community in the world is making such rapid strides toward the fullest development of a resource that lies at the very foundation of public well-being.

But the investment bankers also voiced a note of warning: the people of California must not commit the blunder of killing the goose that was laying the golden eggs—private initiative under State regulation. They displayed a lively interest in the proposed water-and-power amendment to the State Constitution. They considered it, pronounced it a Communistic experiment and said frankly that the people of California must not expect eastern investors to risk their capital in a State that was drifting toward Communism.

California needs that $1,000,000,000 for the further development of its natural resources, needs it badly. Such an investment has wonderful possibilities. The effect will extend to every phase and condition of our economic, social and industrial life. It will have a decisive influence on our affairs, not only for the immediate future, but extending over generations.

But this development is menaced by the proposal to amend the State Constitution creating an indebtedness of $500,000,000 "to develop, conserve and sell" water and electric power. The propagandist, the agitator and the prophet are in our midst broadcasting their views from the soap box, the street corners and through the radical press. If they win, the people lose.

Fifteen years ago Los Angeles was confronted by a somewhat analogous situation. The same voices that are now raised for this water-and-power amendment succeeded in wheedling the electorate of Los Angeles into writing an amendment into the city charter limiting the life of all railway franchises to twenty-one years. Shortly after it was passed the Harriman interests, having just taken over the Pacific Electric lines, proposed to build a subway system in Los Angeles. The right of way was purchased for the first line, running from Hill street to the western city limits, and the money for the initial construction was actually deposited in a Los Angeles bank. Then the agitators, led by John R. Haynes and W. B. Mathews, raised the contention that the limitation of franchises applied to the earth under the streets, as well as to the streets themselves. The subways would cross under the streets, so the franchises must be limited to twenty-one years.

Mr. Harriman announced that he could not finance the project on such short-term bonds, and the whole scheme was abandoned. Too late, the people passed another amendment, repealing the twenty-one-year limit; but Harriman was dead and the congestion in our present city streets is the result.

Just as we lost an improvement whose value we saw too late we are destined to lose the investment of that $1,000,000,000 if we adopt the Communistic scheme of putting the State into the electric light and power business. True, it is a prospect of profit that lures the eastern investor; but it is a profit which we ourselves shall limit. For the rates that may be charged for electric and power service are fixed by the State Railroad Commission. The people of California, and not the eastern investors, will decide what is a reasonable profit.

The proponents of the water-and-power act will respond that the money will be invested, anyhow, that the investment bankers are only bluffing. One has but to turn back in the files of The Times and the other Los Angeles papers to find Haynes, Mathews et al. saying the same thing about the subways. "If Harriman does not build them the city will," they boasted. But Harriman did not build them, the city did not build them and we now have as a result one of the worst congested business and shopping districts of any city in the United States.

Thinking persons will not take that warning of the investment bankers lightly. We have the right to adopt or reject the water-and-power act. Remember that it is not an amendment approved after due discussion and deliberation by the State Legislature and submitted to the people for approval, but an initiative amendment, drafted by politicians and government-ownership propagandists. It is radically extreme, as such measures prepared by a group of zealots and considered by no judicial or legislative body generally are. It is very thinly veiled Communism. We have the right to decide whether it shall be adopted; but we cannot escape from the consequences of that conclusion. It is significant that it was not submitted to the Legislature, but sprung through an initiative amendment. There was a reason for evading a full and free discussion of its terms, with probable amendment, as would take place in a legislative body.

In view of the warning sounded by the investment bankers, as well as by chambers of commerce, the State Assessors' Association and a score of other civic and industrial associations, it surely would be the part of wisdom to reject this amendment and let the whole question of water and power come up for discussion in the regular way in the Legislature in January.

Vote no on amendment No. 19. Do not kill the goose that is laying our golden eggs.

CZECHO-SLOVAKIA
Today Czecho-Slovakia celebrates its fourth anniversary. Under the able guidance of President Masaryk the young republic has made an unusual record for post-war Europe in welding the Czech, Slav, Magyar and German elements in its mixed population into a composite nation. Its big brother across the Atlantic wishes it many happy returns of the day.

Certainly Czecho-Slovakia has made an auspicious start. It has already attained order and work at home and peace and stability abroad. It is a leading member of the Little Entente. It has commercial treaties, either made or making, with Rumania, Jugo-Slavia, Austria, Poland and Russia.

Hungary alone refuses the proferred hand of friendship, smarting for territory it lost under the Versailles Treaty. But Czecho-Slovakia is still striving to conclude a commercial treaty with Hungary and, with the aid of Austria, may yet be able to bring this about.

One of the features that has placed the new republic in so advantageous a position compared with other European states is her consistent refusal to inflate her currency. Thus the rate of exchange of the Czecho-Slovak crown maintains an upward tendency.

Czecho-Slovakia has started right and is already going ahead. She has a great name to live up to. We believe she will succeed in doing so.

DREADNAUGHTS OF THE AIR
Frenchmen naturally are hailing with delight the successful tests made at Villacoublay of their new giant armored airplanes.

Britishers, just as naturally, are viewing the same experiments with intense interest. One sky dreadnaught threatens to be more deadly than a flock of "Zeps." There is already talk of a closer renewal of the Entente Cordiale.

Army and navy men in the United States are following the reports on this new sinew of war with the closest attention. They may have a vital bearing on the armaments of the future.

For, beyond a doubt, France has added a formidable weapon to the national arsenal. For the first time heavy artillery has acquired wings.

This superplane carries a "75" and 200 shells, is made of gun steel and hardened aluminum, the wings and planes are impervious to machine-gun bullets, it has a radio and new scientific devices for aiming the gun and can fly at the rate of 125 miles an hour.

By acquiring a fleet of these flying dreadnaughts France expects to make herself undisputed mistress of the air. Unless the nations start a new competition in airplane construction there seems little doubt but she will get her wish.

A steel monster whirling through the air at 100 miles an hour, armed with a "75" firing thirty shots a minute, is a foeman to command respect. With a whole fleet of them at her disposal France wouldn't need any channel tunnel to do away with England's sea defenses. Nor could England any longer urge her sea defense as a reason for opposing the boring of the tunnel.

In fact, these dreadnaughts of the air may make a lot of other problems look different.

WATCHING THE ANIMALS
The new zoological gardens in Chicago are to be the finest in the world. As an attraction they will rock the stockyards to sleep. The grounds will cover more than 300 acres lying along the Desplaines River. The land was provided by Mrs. Edith Rockefeller McCormick and the landscaping is being done under her projection. It will be a taming of the wild. The animals will be apparently in the open and will have surroundings and conditions as nearly in accord with the old home as possible. They will be separated from visitors by a moat filled with running water. There will be sand and jungle for the lions and tigers; rocks and trees for the bears and mountains for the deer and antelope. They will be so protected that they cannot prey upon one another and the whole will be arranged so that all its wonders may be seen as readily from an automobile as on foot. Neither will pedestrians and motorists get in one another's way. The completed zoo is intended to mark the peak of construction possibilities in this line and it is also intended to have the most varied representation of animal life that conditions will permit. From the menagerie standpoint it will be the greatest show on earth. It would be possible to equal or excel it right here in Griffith Park and some day, when Los Angeles gets around to it, the city will have a zoo worth the attention of the country. The zoo may not rank high from a humanitarian viewpoint. Other public enterprises may be voted worthier, but as a municipal attraction it ranks high and its educational value is notable.

THE PEOPLE'S MONEY
The next Governor of California has promised to present to the Assembly a budget which shall be some $12,000,000 less than the $91,000,000 affair which was turned out by the present administration. It will be strange if some of the legislators do not drop dead under the excitement of the moment. A budget which shows a shrinkage from previous efforts should cause Sacramento to curl up in amazement. The odd part of it is that Friend Richardson says he will not need to disturb any efficient or necessary worker now in State employ. Neither will he impair the work of the schools or hamper those actually caring for the wards of the State. He does say, however, that those who hold jobs for political reasons or whose work is not essential to a just administration of the business of the State had better resign. Whether we have been afflicted with $12,000,000 worth of these fellows remains to be seen. It will have to be through them that the next Governor will effect his promised economies. Some of the healers who have been holding their political jobs for years may embarrass the administration by going crazy and thus continue to be wards of the State.

Another Little Worry

RIPPLING RHYMES

NO PEACE

Sweet peace is what we're needing, it's what we're yearning for; all talk of scraps and bleeding the people now abhor; but still the captains thunder and tear their shirts asunder, and they would crush us under an avalanche of war. The world is all exhausted, the debt-worn nations reel, their feet are badly frosted, their wounds are slow to heal; the people, sick of bleeding, would turn to plowing, seeding, to raise the wheat they're needing and still the captains spiel. When Europe's hosts were thronging and death was on the blast, we said, in bitter longing, "This war will be the last; the future king who's yearning to see the red fires burning will presently be learning a lesson fierce and vast.
Of guns and swords and sabers we'll manufacture hoes, and man, in useful labors, will all his hours dispose; and any skate declaring that nations should be faring to battles grim and wearing, will have a broken nose." But all our hopes were phony, our forecast was a fraud; the captain, on his pony, is evermore abroad; he casts his bloodshot glims on the sward we're singing hymns on and he would dye with crimson

MEN IN THE NEWS

BY RANDOLPH LEIGH

Adolf Paul.
Francis Packard.
Severell Sitwell.

Nietzsche has come to life in Germany, this time on the stage and in the person of Adolf Paul, whose one-act play, "The Language of the Birds," has enough superman vigor in it to interest the most languid. The drama unfolds, through the agency of Solomon, his most beautiful concubine, his friend, a negro headsman and a cat-o'-nine-tails—the last for the purpose of "bringing quick conviction to the feminine mind."

Solomon is so fond of Sabud that he tells his friend one day, in a moment of sardonic playfulness, that he is going to make him two priceless presents. In the first place he will give him his most beautiful concubine. Then, having given him something which he feels sure will leave nothing more desirable for him to request, he will require Sabud to ask a favor of him "so great that no other would dare to ask it." Whatever that favor is, it must involve something of gigantic worth. If he fails to make a big enough request—but Solomon merely shrugs his shoulders at the thought and looks in the direction of the black headsman, who grins and seems to appreciate the joke.

Sabud is terrified at the situation in which he finds himself. He confides in the woman, who at first can give him no advice. He visits Solomon's court and hopes, by his observations there, to get a hint as to what he should ask for, but in vain. Solomon, however, makes him another present to be used on the woman, lest she betray him into making some foolish request.

Sabud considers asking Solomon to take the woman back, thinking thereby to prove his devotion to his king and his wisdom in ridding himself of the menace of her possession. But he begins to like her and cannot use the whip on her as the king had advised. He finally, against his own instinct, adopts her suggestion and decides to ask Solomon to give him his wisdom, typified in his power to converse with all men and creatures, particularly the birds. Now Solomon was a bluff and had no such talents.

On the appointed day Sabud appears and he and the king begin an exchange of thoughts. It dawns on him for the first time that the king is not wise at all, but boundlessly cruel and strong. Still, thinking flattery may avail, he makes his request: "Sire, I ask for thy wisdom." Solomon laughs fiendishly. Another one has accepted the universal delusion! The joke is too good! He, the roughneck, is wise! "Off with his head!" slave. Curtain.

Francis Packard, too, has gone back for his literary hero, but this time to a real intellectual giant—Ambroise Pare, the French surgeon whom the modern world owes such a tremendous debt.

The biography opens with the "wizard of the knife" going about his tasks in the midst of the terrible sufferings following the massacre of St. Bartholomew's. Desperate men and women are grinding bones for sustenance; grass is worth more than its weight in gold; the earth has been dug up at amazing depths below the houses in the hope that a few rats might be found.

A thankful mother stops him to tell of the miracle he has worked in operating on her wounded son, now on his way to recovery. Then the modest reply of one of the ablest of scientists: "Je le pansay et Dieu le gaurist." ("I dressed him; God healed him.")

Pare was hated and persecuted. It was charged against him that he had poisoned one king and was planning to take the life of another—for, in addition to his work among the poor, he was physician to the king. It was said that he was a blasphemer—for had he not protested against massacres conducted in the name of God!

But he lived to be past 80 years of age and contributed to his time an example of fearless intelligence, ennobled by modesty and public-spiritedness. Three of his contributions to surgery have been of inestimable value to humanity: First, he insisted upon the study of anatomy as the basis for surgery and perfected the existing methods of trepanning; second, he dispelled the popular notion that gunshot wounds were always poisoned and needed to be treated with heat, red hot irons and boiling oil being used in amputations in such cases, with frightful torture; third, he taught surgeons to tie severed blood vessels in open wounds, thereby helping to save millions of lives. Yet he is hardly known today, having been too poor or too benighted to employ a press agent.

Not so Severell Sitwell, who has just come out with his "Hundred and One Harlequins," a collection of verse showing the blended influence of Blake and Keats.

Sitwell has the gift of letting his unconscious mind write his poetry and his conscious mind write his reviews. The result is that the lines written about him are generally more interesting than those that he formally puts out under his own name.

It may not be that he writes the reviews of his works, but certainly they are sufficiently overprejudiced in his favor to warrant the suspicion—once a comparison has been made between what he says and what he makes a reviewer think he says. He has the other-world dreams of Blake, but they do not make the reader feel that he has left home at all. He goes, Keats-like, in quest of clouds and nightingales, but he has lead on his feet.

May See Their First Movie Show

Very few explorers have been able to get into the city of Lhassa, the Forbidden City of Thibet, and even these were not able to get very far or see very much. In very recent times it has opened up a little and now it is proposed to take a moving-picture machine into the ancient town and give an exhibition to the powers that be. It is hoped in this way to enlist their interest and probably permission will be granted to photograph some of the sights of the sacred city.

Her Dress Prescribed by Law

The Mussulman women in Turkey have of recent years thrown aside the "feredje" and the "yashmak" and have adopted the European style of dressing, exposing the face, arms and shoulders, but, as in most cases, they have swung to the other extreme and it has been found necessary to appoint a commission to decide upon the matter of woman's dress in the street. In the house she may do as she pleases, but in public she must conform with certain restrictions. This commission has prepared models which are exhibited for the purpose of informing the women of the country on this subject. A special garb has been designed for students.

AMERICA'S RIVAL TO CHEOPS

The statement has been made that the Great Mound at Cahokia, Ill., exceeds in cubic contents any of the Egyptian pyramids. This is a mistake. The Pyramid of Cheops is about 450 feet high; its base measures thirteen acres. The Cahokia mound is 104 feet high, its base is sixteen acres. It is, therefore, evident that the pyramid has at least twice the cubical content of the Illinois mound. The stone in the Great Pyramid would suffice to build a wall around France five feet high and eighteen inches thick, following every indentation and irregularity of the coasts and frontiers.

Some Choice Table Delicacies

Chickens' tongues and unhatched chickens are Chinese delicacies; lamb wine, which is described as being very strong and having a disagreeable smell, is drunk by the Tartars; sloth is eaten in Demerara; a pale-blue mole and two mice were the tasty supper that Livingstone's guide gave him one night after crossing the Kasai. Mice are eaten more in Africa than elsewhere; they are a favorite dish of the Mabari, in Borotse Valley; Liberia is a country where they are eaten frequently.

American Mule in Favor Abroad

The American mule was introduced into Armenia about two years ago and is in great favor. Taking all things into consideration they represent more than twice the efficiency of oxen and they make a better showing when compared with the Caucasian horse. There are about 300 of these animals in the service of the Near East Relief and the attempt is about to be made to raise the animals on an extensive scale.

The queen bee produces in the course of the season more than 100 times her own weight of eggs.

Careful observations show that storm waves sometimes attain a vertical height of forty feet and "tidal" waves a height of from sixty to eighty feet. The smashing force of such stupendous waves can be judged from the fact that seas only twenty feet high exert a pressure of 2000 pounds on every square foot opposed to them.

No Place for a "Has-Been"

In Africa among the native tribes there is no place for an ex-king. The minute a chief shows any sign of weakness or sickness he must go off and commit suicide.

THIS IS THE DAY

The battle of White Plains, N. Y., was fought in the year 1776 Gen. Howe's British army, numbering 4000, attacked Washington's small defense force of 1400 men and drove them from Chatterton Hill, twenty-five miles north of what is now the Grand Central Station in New York. This gave the British a temporary advantage, but their general campaign was a failure.

Bartholdi's colossal Statue of Liberty, presented by France to the United States, was unveiled on Bedloe's Island in New York Harbor in the year 1886. The statue is 151 feet high and stands on a granite pedestal 155 feet high. Chauncey M. Depew was the orator of the day at this historic unveiling.

"WAS JESUS A MYSTIC?" FIRST UNIVERSALIST

Were the power and influence of Jesus dependent upon his understanding and use of mystical, hidden forces? Is the Christian religion distinctly mystical? "TIME CLOCK" WRECKS HOME

Wife's Refusal to Sign Wealthy Pasadenan's "Rules" Brings Her Divorce After 25-Year Wedlock

A home run on a set of rules promulgated by the husband. A violation of some of the rules by him. Verbal abuse. These were the straws that made life unhappy for Mrs. Ivy Smith, who yesterday won a divorce from Callo F. Smith in Judge Summerfield's court.

Mr. Smith resides at 119 Garfield street, Pasadena. He is a wealthy flavoring extract man. Mrs. Smith said she declined to sign the rules laid down by her husband.

"I am a home girl," she declared. She did not care to "punch the clock." A life to be lived on schedule did not appeal to her. So the break came after twenty-five years of married life.

One day Mr. Smith presented the rules of conduct, under this prelude:

"In behalf of the highest welfare and best interests of our home—the peace and unity thereof—and the development of true joy and happiness of each and all members therein, as well as those who may be or may become associated therewith, it is agreed that the father and husband be considered, consulted and respected as such in the mutual and full co-operative performance of the following schedule therein.

The conditions were: Religious, social, financial. A regular and established time for Bible reading and prayer, study and teaching sacred and classical music and attendance at public service were ordered.

Social associations, attendances and connections were to be by permission and mutual agreement. The rules further provided for disallowance of social evils and tendencies and their influences; proper regulation of physical duties and habits, such as retiring not later than 10 p.m., and rising by 6 a.m.; prompt, regular and mutual performance of manual and business duties in and around the home, proper and agreed use of the automobiles; all social problems to be governed by religious laws and principles.

PROPERTY SETTLEMENT

Financial rules covered unity in all purse and business dealings and transactions; co-operation and promptness in performance of business duties and obligations; economy in living and business expenses; a liberal and agreed percentage of income set apart and used for religious and charitable work; all financial problem to be controlled by religious principles and regulations.

By a property settlement the home place, worth $15,000, will be sold and the proceeds divided. The minor children, who were given to the custody of Mrs. Smith, may at the age of 14 elect to reside with either party. Virgil, under the agreement, goes to Mr. Smith.

Mrs. Smith charged her husband with mental cruelty and with breaking his own rules.

MISS EATUMS IS ENGAGED!

Mother Fedwell Teaches Bride-to-Be Cookery

Meal Plan for Two Great Help to Evelyn

Prospective Benedict Won't Starve Now

BY WINIFRED STUART GIBBS, Food Specialist

"Mother, you'll never guess what's happened! It's too thrilling! I just can't eat any dinner, thanks," this last by way of perfunctory acknowledgment of Mother Fedwell's urgent suggestion that Florence get ready for dinner.

Now Mother Fedwell was too seasoned a housemother to become excited over any "thrills" that might temporarily be affecting any of her brood. A houseful of children provided her with thrills of her own aplenty, and she was wont to take these very calmly indeed. So she merely smiled at Florence and said:

"Well, dear, you will have a fine chance to tell us all about it at dinner."

Florence took the hint, and a half hour later she was enjoying the undivided attention of the family as she told her news.

"Evelyn Eatums is engaged! That infant!"

"Gee!" remonstrated Fred, "is that all! I thought it was something about the team! Girls are funny! Such a fuss over a little thing like that!" And Fred returned to undivided consideration of his chop and spinach.

Mother Fedewell was more sympathetic.

"Tell us about it, Flo. It isn't Billy, is it?"

NOT BILLY

"Mercy, no! That's the thrilling part! Eve thought she was crazy about Billy and I was helping her try to make him jealous and everything. And here she is walking off with a cousin of that man from New York, after seeing him just three times!"

"Don't let that worry you, Flo," remarked Father Fedwell, mildly, "I had seen your mother just once when I asked her to marry me, and I leave it to you as to whether I made a mistake."

"Dear Daddy! I should think not, but there's only one of Mother in the whole world."

"But what I'm really getting at is to know whether Mums will show her how to cook for two!

Mrs. Eatums says she has cooked for seven for so long that she'd feel like playing dolls to come down to two. Will you, Mother?"

"Of course, dear. Tell Eve to come over Saturday morning and, as she is going West so soon we must begin at once. I haven't forgotten how to cook for two, and it really does take a little knack to plan so as not to waste things."

So the following Saturday morning found Evelyn hard at work in Mother Fedwell's hospitable kitchen. Florence stood by the 'get copy,' as she grandly called it, for her cookery note book.

LEAVES OUT THEORY

"In the first place, Evelyn, I think I'll leave out most of the theory, such as you have had in school, and come down to "brass tacks" as the boys would call it. What do you say to having each lesson take the form of three meals for a day, cooking only just the difficult things and making notes about the plan as a whole, so that you can try the suggestions later?"

"That will be fine, Mrs. Fedwell. To tell the honest truth, I need to learn about quantities more than the actual cooking, for mother has taught me a lot about that."

"Well, I'll give you a meal plan for just one day and show you how to make the plans for the other days of the week from that. As this is October, we must think first of the right kind of foods to serve in the fall. Here's a day's plan for you to begin on. The quantities of things are very important, for if you learn to plan for two you not only will avoid waste but you will have the basis of knowledge that will help you to plan for any number, simply by multiplying portions.

"Breakfast — Wheatena with cream, shirred eggs, cornmeal muffins, coffee.

"Luncheon—Cheese fondue, apple sauce, wafers, glass of milk.

"Dinner—Braised Hamburg roll, baked sweet potatoes, stewed celery, banana whip, demitasse.

GROUP REPRESENTED

"Separating these meals into their various foods we have representatives of all the food groups, so that if we make a note of the necessary quantities for these we shall have a good idea of how to buy almost any foods, and next week we can use this same plan as a basis for some other points you may wish to study.

"I should go through each meal plan in this way, picking out each food or dish and carefully noting the amounts needed, storing the information away and using it to build future plans.

"All this may seem so simple as to be hardly new, but the test of efficient work in cooking, as in most other occupations, is to have one's information so organized as to be instantly ready for use. Learn to think in terms of food for two and the rest will come easily.

"Beginning with the meat, a pound of Hamburg steak will serve two persons and leave some for croquettes or other luncheon dish. And speaking of luncheon, you will notice that I have planned lunch for you alone, as your new husband will probably be downtown.

"For the muffins you will need a recipe using about one-half cup of cornmeal and one-half cup of flour, with other ingredients in proportion. And again, by the way, you will find just the recipes you need in 'Cooking for Two,' by Janet M. Hill (Little, Brown & Co.")

"You have given me something real to think about, dear Mrs. Fedwell, and I'll get that cook book right away," and, with a good hug, Evelyn was gone.

Diet and Health

By Lulu Hunt Peters, M.D.

Author of "Diet and Health, with Key to the Calories"

ANSWERS TO CORRESPONDENTS

My Dear Followers:

Mrs. F. J.—You say your baby weighs 13 1-2 pounds and is very thin and has not gained for the last three months. He is on a formula of 15 ounces of milk, one ounce malt sugar, 14 ounces of rice water and one and one-half ounces of lime water.

Your baby is simply not getting enough to eat, Mrs. F. J. That is why he is thin. A normal weight baby should have from one and one-half ounces to two ounces of milk per pound per day, and a thin baby could have even up to two and one-half ounces. You can see that your baby, even on the lowest count, is getting about four ounces less than he should.

You must gradually begin to increase the milk about one ounce every third day until he is getting up to perhaps 24 ounces of milk or more. You can increase the sugar, too, to one and one-half ounces. Dennett allows one and one-half ounces of sugar per day after the baby weighs 10 pounds.

This gives a mixture of 6 or 7 per cent sugar, the same as in breast milk. Four level tablespoons of malt sugar is one ounce, so he could have two level tablespoonsful more. But increase it very gradually—about one level teaspoonful every other day. If you have any difficulty you had better see a baby specialist.

We do not use lime water in milk now.

Mrs. S. P.—Fifty-two years of age is young, woman! Certainly you should not be encumbered with so much excess weight. And you will benefit by reducing undoubtedly. Our oldest follower, so far, is 83, and he is most enthusiastic. The chief thing to remember is to reduce slowly and to have a balanced diet while reducing. Send for our instructions if you haven't them.

Mrs. C. J.—If you will send the a. a. e. (stamped, addressed envelope) and repeat your request we will send you an article on how to prevent your baby from sucking his thumb. Until you receive our instructions and picture of a splint, wrap a piece of cardboard in a cloth or towel and pin it around his elbows securely so that he cannot get his thumb to his mouth. Keep it on night and day, constantly, until the habit is broken. It is a most pernicious habit and will result in the deformity of his thumb and mouth if he persists. Perhaps it has resulted in that already, but I hope not.

Mr. R.—Your "goneness" feeling in your stomach at 3 or 4 o'clock in the mornings is due to the fact that you are not sufficiently nourished and your stomach is sensible enough to protest. Drink a glass of milk at that time or warm cocoa or some other nourishing drink and gradually increase your calories during the day so that you will gain.

You say you walk continuously to keep from thinking and that sometimes you experience a feeling of being afraid to be alone. I predict that all will pass away when your nerves are better nourished. And send for instructions on gaining.

I will tell you or any of our other readers of a splendid book to read which will help you about your nerves, if you will write me and inclose the required a. a. e.

Miss E. W.—It is a most dangerous thing to take drugs to reduce unless you are under the careful supervision of a scientific physician at the same time. The patent medicines to reduce usually contain arsenic, thyroid, mercury, iodine or other powerful drugs, and they are dangerous. Why do you want to use drugs to reduce? They are not necessary 999 times out of 1000.

THUMBS DOWN ON WATER ACT

Friday Morning Club Convinced of Its Futility

King-Henry Debate Shows Up Iniquitous Project

California's Power Problems Ignored by King

BY MYRA NYE

In a brilliant debate between Judson King, speaking for the proposed $500,000,000 Water and Power Act and Leslie B. Henry against it at the Friday Morning Club yesterday in the Morosco Theater, Mr. Henry unexpectedly won the audience by the logic and force of his arguments. The swerving of this group of women, many of whom had formerly supported the bill, their names appearing in the literature in its behalf, was evidenced in the discussion from the floor that followed the formal debate and in the applause that Mr. Henry received.

I challenge Mr. King to offer one reason for cheaper water rates if this act should pass November 7," said Mr. Henry after Mr. King had been questioned from the floor by a member as to the time to expect lowered rates.

Not one dollar of the $500,000,000 provided for in the act goes into the State Treasury," said Mr. Henry. "It is handled by the five members of the uncontroled political board. They are not yet appointed and if they were they would not tell what they were going to do with that money."

DANGERS POINTED OUT

The speaker for the negative pointed out the danger of so large a sum which could be spent entirely out of the State. His stirring denunciation of the act which he said was covered with camouflage to deceive the voters awakened the women more and more as he proceeded.

He brought to the attention of his audience the fact that Mr. King in the whole time allotted to him had not dealt for a moment with California's water problems but with those of Canada and to the further fact that Mr. King had been in the State only forty-eight hours before he spoke yesterday and that as executive secretary of the National Government League of Washington he has lectured in many States on public ownerships of State and municipal utilities.

"The political sponsors of this iniquitous act are spending much time and money and energy to put it over because of the rider of $500,000,000 which can be spent on projects, which will never be submitted to the public to vote upon. They assert it is necessary for this act to pass to enable municipalities to enjoy the benefits of public ownership. That is an absolute fraud and they know it," Mr. Henry said vigorously.

"All of the municipalities can, under present laws enjoy all of the benefits of public ownership and have been enabled to do so since 1912 when legislation was passed providing for it," he added.

ON WRONG TRACK

Mr. Henry related how at the meeting of the Women's Bond and Tax Study League Wednesday night in Trinity Auditorium a well-known orator whom he did not name had been asked to speak against the bill. So little was he versed with California's problems, as was the case with the speaker yesterday, that when he thought he was offering arguments against the bill he was really substituting a plan for public ownership which, said Mr. Henry was far afield from the subject.

Mr. Henry dwelt with a remarkable marshalling of facts and logic upon the pernicious results of the credit of the State should the act pass. He made the unqualified statement than adoption of the Water and Power Act would so impair the credit of California that it would destroy the market for bonds required for essential public development. Bonds needed for schools, highways, harbors municipal and political districts could not be marketed, he said, because when credit is destroyed bonds are unsalable.

"In this $500,000,000 act we are face to face with a great problem—that of the credit of California. It faces every school district, every municipality and even every small property owner who in case of bankruptcy would be in honor bound to pay the debts of the State.

STARTLING FACTS

"Consider these startling facts: The debt of the forty-eight States in the Union today is $1,071,000,000. Should California vote these bonds the State debt would be $572,000,000 or more than one-half of the total bonded indebtedness of all the States in the Union. That in itself is enough to bring every security offered to the investing public by California under the microscope of investors.

"If this act were to be created as a public debt under the most intelligent form of government in a way that did not have the dangerous features of this act, investors even then would have a right to question its soundness," Mr. Henry declared and added emphatically that as it is, the thought of it is preposterous.

California leads the world in hydroelectric development and cheap rates and more than $1,000,000,000 has been invested in private development by experts in power and electricity and that even more is to be spent in the next decade if the act does not pass.

OTHER DAMAGES

In case it does, Mr. Henry declared that industry will become stagnant, for such a tremendous thing as this development could not be in the hands of five political appointees unskilled in the science of physics and electricity without menacing the whole State to an alarming extent.

One of the questioners from the floor in attacking Mr. King's plea that the passage of the act would bring cheaper rates asked naively:

"Is it not a fact Mr. King that in Ontario in the case you have cited of cheap rates, in July the twilights are very long and little light is used and since you say payments are made by meter would not the long twilights of Ontario explain the use of little light which might not be the case in California?"

In fact, "thumbs down" for the Water and Power Act" was the verdict with the decisions of the judges in the debate for the negative.

RECKLESS DRIVING IS CHARGED TO CONDON

SUSPENDED JAIL GUARD IS ACCUSED OF DRINKING WHILE MOTORING

Elmer Condon, ex-police officer, and jail guard recently suspended by Sheriff Traeger for asserted neglect of duty in connection with the sensational jail break made by Herbert Wilson, mail bandit, Guido Spignola, and Adam Ward, yesterday appeared in Police Judge Chesebro's court on a charge of reckless driving. His case was continued until 11 a.m. today, and bail of $250 was deposited.

Condon was arrested early yesterday morning by Police Sergt. MacCaleb. According to the Sergeant, Condon, while under the influence of intoxicating liquor, drove an automobile on to the sidewalk at Tenth street and Grand avenue in such a manner that lives and property were imperiled.

SLATON MUST ANSWER FOR MENDEZ KILLING

John L. Slaton was held to answer yesterday by Justice Hanby on a charge of killing Seferino Mendez September 9, when the latter questioned Slaton and Richard C. Francis, a co-defendant, about sitting in the deceased's automobile. Francis was discharged by the court.

NEPHEW IS SEARCHING FOR HUSTIN PITTMAN

George Pittman of Imalo is attempting to locate his uncle, Hustin Pittman, 48 years old, formerly of Elk City, Kan., but who is believed to have come to California twelve or fourteen years ago and purchased a ranch. Important matters await the result of this search, according to Mr. Pittman. He requests that anyone able to supply information communicate with him.

DRYS MAKE LAST DRIVE

Law Enforcement Committee Pledges Support to Wright Bill; Organizations Line Up

With the great Philharmonic Auditorium crowded to the upper balconies, the Women's Law Enforcement Committee of Ten Thousand yesterday afternoon made its last big stand in the campaign for the passage of the Wright bill, No. 2 on the ballot to be marked November 7. "Smash the Bootlegger; Vote Yes on No. 2" was their slogan blazoned from banners all over the Auditorium and worn in blue and white streamers across the dresses of the women.

Both men and women were present and in large numbers pledged themselves by their written word to unwavering crusade in behalf of the Eighteenth Amendment and law enforcement in California.

"We cannot convert anyone between now and election day. They have already made up their minds," said Hon. William Jennings Bryan, the speaker of the afternoon. "But this meeting is to stir you up. We are a 100 per cent crowd to vote 'Yes' for the Wright Bill. But we can see our friends, we can urge them to vote, we can prevent a stay-at-home crowd from allowing the liquor men to reap an easy victory. All that is necessary in this fight is that the good people have as much sense as the bad people.

URGES NO LET-UP

"I am mighty glad that I left my home in Florida at this time to help in this great cause. I know and you know that the Legislature will probably be dry in both its branches. But we can take no chance. California must stand back of the government. This great State must be in line with progress and not let the rest of the world go by. Now it is one of only two States to be classed in the wet ranks. Let us see to it that California steps up to the firing line, stays in the battle to the end and aids in the great victory.

"You women must lead," said Mr. Bryan. "See to it that the majority rolled up in the coming election is so overwhelming that never again in the State will the strong liquor interests dare even to begin another fight."

The meeting was presided over by Mrs. Chester Ashley, who in closing added her appeal to that of the speaker for the women to "carry on to fruition." She called upon Lieut.-Gov. Young, who was on the platform, to outline the history of the Wright Bill thus far in the State Legislature and before the people.

CLUBS REPRESENTED

Among other speakers who emphasized other phases of prohibition and the work of this campaign were: Mrs. Susan M. Dorsey, Superintendent of public schools; Mrs. Josiah Evans Cowles, honorary president of the General Federation of Women's Clubs, Mrs. Eva C. Wheeler, State president of the W. C. T. U., and Miss Rita Kissen, a social welfare worker and national lecturer. Miss Maud Fenlon Bollman, soprano, accompanied by Miss Ivy Mae Traevis at the piano, sang a group of songs.

Every organization of women in the city, Daughters of the American Revolution, Daughters of the Confederacy, Daughters of the British Empire, Native Daughters of the Golden West, federated clubs, lodges, churches, schools and Women's Christian Temperance Union were represented by their chief executives on the platform.

AN IDEAL FROCK FOR DRESS-UP

When warm weather defies and occasion demands a dress-up afternoon frock, you would do well to make one like this of crepe de Chine, taffeta or foulard. The very newest trimming, and by the way trimming is coming very much into vogue again, of cire ribbon rosettes to match adds much distinction to a straight one-piece dress like this. If you are at all clever at making your own clothes you could finish this dress in about three days. And all it would cost you would be about $10.00 figuring crepe de Chine @ $2.00 per yard with cire ribbon @ 15c per yard and edging at the same price.

The pattern No. 1486 cuts in sizes 16 years, 36, 38, 40 and 42 inches bust measure. Size 36 requires 3¼ yards 36-inch material with 11 yards ribbon and 3 yards edging. Price 15c, stamps or coin (coin preferred).

When you order your pattern, we think it would pay you to enclose 10 cents extra to receive a copy of our SUMMER FASHION MAGAZINE which shows about 400 styles, including several pages of embroidery designs, and contains a seven-lesson course in dressmaking.

All orders will be handled by the branch office in Chicago and in order to eliminate the delay in forwarding we have arranged to have order sent direct to the Chicago office. Unless otherwise specified all patterns are 15 cents each. No patterns are kept in the Los Angeles office of The Times. To get patterns send the price, in stamps or well-wrapped coins, and the number and size of the patterns desired to this address:

It is so important for a woman who rules over the destiny of a beloved family to keep her skin beautiful. Buy a jar of Wacil's famous Egyptian Clay. Enough for 15 facials costs but $3. At 523 Loew's State Bldg.

You have had sufficient proof ere this of the way White King washing machine soap in granule form whitens the white clothes and keeps the color in the colored clothes—but have you used it in the bathroom to clean the bowls; tub—white enamel or tile—or for the carpets and rugs? Even the mahogany furniture over which a blue film seems to form due to the gas in the winter, is made to look like new by washing off with soft, warm suds made by White King Washing Machine Soap—then rubbed dry with a soft cloth afterward. This you will find will restore the original finish.

Fruits, such as apples and lemons, should be laid separately on a shelf. If they are placed in a bowl or basket or touching one another the first to get overripe contaminates the others.

This is the time of the year when our whole system needs building up, and nothing better will accomplish this state of health than the drinking of greater quantities of L. A. Creamery Company's milk. Hot in the morning for breakfast, it stimulates, as well as satisfies. For luncheon, with a generous slice of pie, oh, but it is good, and at night before retiring it prevents sleepless hours and is ever so soothing. Let's increase the daily supply of Los Angeles Creamery milk beginning with tomorrow.

Have you ever heard of the thirst of the Red Sea, a thirst which is partially caused by the sandstorms (which sift through the very houses, gets through one's clothing, into the eyes and even one's mouth) together with the seemingly unending intense heat. If the people over there in those African towns could only have Arrowhead Springs water to drink, of a certainty their thirst would be alleviated, would entirely disappear, in fact, such is its quenching powers, along with its satisfying qualities, not forgetting to mention its beneficial properties. There certainly should not be a single family without a demijohn of Arrowhead. Call South 231 when ordering.

Fortunately our native State, Golden California, is more than its name implies, for it imposes no decided seasons upon us, but sends weather which assists us in enjoying such desserts as Hughes Ice Cream in its innumerable flavors the year around, and we never tire of it. It comes in heaps of flavors and quantities of combinations, but almost best of all is the orange flavor which this company renamed for the richness of their product. When detained downtown too late to make a dessert, stop at the nearest Hughes dealer. A quart will leave the family without complaint and relieve and otherwise awkward situation ofttimes. Corporation Counsel Says City Has Enough to Do

Acquisition by Force Would be Unfair, He Declares

Plan to Take Over Plant Being Considered

No public necessity exists today to justify the city of Los Angeles in purchasing the $7,000,000 electric plant and distributing system of the Los Angeles Gas and Electric Corporation, the City Council's public service committee was told yesterday by Paul Overton, general counsel for the corporation, at a hearing given on the recommendation of the city's Board of Public Service Commission urging that steps be taken to acquire the corporation's electric properties.

"Speaking as a taxpayer of Los Angeles as well as a representative of the Los Angeles Gas and Electric Corporation," said Mr Overton, "I can see no necessity for the city's taking over the company's electric properties and assuming the bonded indebtedness necessary to consummate the purchase. The city government has certain ordained duties which it must carry out and which no one else can perform, such as furnishing fire and police protection, providing sewers and other methods of protecting the public health, including cleaning the public streets.

PROTESTS PLAN

To give this service so as to meet the needs of this rapidly growing city is a task that will tax the city's facilities and resources to the limit, without the city's attempting to engage in business enterprises and ousting a corporation which is subject to strict regulation under the law, which is giving service to Los Angeles consumers and has been doing so far forty years. There is nothing in the city charter that requires the company to engage in these business enterprises, but the city is required to render health, police and sanitary service.

"The electric system of the Los Angeles Gas and Electric Corporation is not needed to supplement the Aqueduct power, as the city now has more consumers than it has power to supply them and is buying large quantities of power from the Edison company. We are told that in case the electric business of the Los Angeles Gas and Electric Corporation is purchased under condemnation proceedings, the interest and sinking fund charges on the bonds would be met out of revenues, but we know that these same pledges were made in the past and were not kept and that the taxpayers paid the interest and sinking fund charges on the bonds.

CALLS IT UNFAIR

"If the city takes away this electric business from the company which came here forty years ago as a pioneer when Los Angeles had a population of 12,000 people and has steadily rendered service as the city grew and has voluntarily reduced rates until today they are lower than in any other city where comparable operating conditions exist, then I say that this would not be fair to those who founded and who are carrying on the company in which they have their capital invested.

"We are told that combining the city's power system with that of the corporation will result in a saving of $1,000,000 a year, but no consideration is given to the fact that by this consolidation the State will be robbed of taxes which the company now pays, amounting to 7½ per cent of its gross earnings, or $207,000, in 1921. This loss in taxation must be made up by the State from some source, and it will come in increased telephone and transportation rates. The consumers will not be benefited, if the city takes over the corporation's business. It will simply be a change of ownership. The city has lagged behind in providing service for the growing population, and the city's hands are full in fulfilling its ordained duties without going into business enterprises."

REPORT DUE

Special Counsel Mathews, Engineer Gardett, and Business Agent Moody of the Board of Public Service Commission spoke in favor of the city's taking over the corporation's electric business, preferably by condemnation proceedings, as the company had announced that its business was not for sale, Mr. Mathews said. President Criswell and Councilman Wheeler, the members of the committee present yesterday, took the matter under advisement but as both are strong municipal ownership advocates, they are expected to make a report recommending the taking over of the corporation's electric plant and lines.

If the Council approves this report, it will be necessary to precede the action in the courts by an application to the State Railroad Commission for a physical valuation of the properties as a basis for a suit, and the company is expected to resist this action before the Railroad Commission, as being unjust, unfair, and not in the public interest or of public necessity.

COMBINATION TOO MUCH FOR REGAN; NO. 2 WINS HER DIVORCE

The first and second wives of George W. Regan were in Judge Summerfield's court, No. 1 testifying for No. 2, who wanted an annulment of her marriage to him. The decree was granted yesterday.

Margaret F. Regan married Regan March 6, 1917. They separated and Mr. Regan sued for divorce. He was granted an interlocutory decree and the final decree was entered January 11, last.

But—July 6, 1920, Regan married Beatrice G. Regan. They separated in April, 1921. Then the two wives became acquainted and No. 2 discovered that Regan married her illegally.

No. 1 identified pictures of Regan as her former husband, and in explaining them Attorney Harry Chamberlin told the court that Regan had been convicted of counterfeiting about a year ago.

INDICTED FOR BRIBERY

Business Man and Operative Face Charge of Paying Dry Officer to Quash Cases

The Federal grand jury yesterday returned indictments against Morris Orsatti, well-known business man of North Spring street, and J. R. Johnson, former operative of the W. J. Burns Detective Agency, on the charge of conspiring to bribe Harold H. Dolley, Federal agent in charge of Southern California prohibition enforcement. The report was made to U. S. District Judge Trippet.

Orsatti and Johnson were arrested on July 12, last, and the bail in each case fixed at $25,000. Bond was furnished by Orsatti, but Johnson was in the County Jail some time. Later on the bond in his case was reduced to $5000, and this was furnished in his behalf.

The indictment charges the payment by Orsatti and Johnson to Dolley of $1700 to "fix" pending prohibition cases.

It is asserted that on June 30, last, Johnson paid $200 to reduce the nuisance charge and sale allegation against F. Sappelli; that on July 6, Johnson paid $300 for agreeing to suppress a report made against F. and C. Cecalo; that on July 7, he paid $200 for "assisting" in the case against George Vissis; that on July 10, he paid $250 for making false representations to the office of the District Attorney in the case of Tom Guasti.

In room 507, Alhambra Hotel, on July 12, Morris Orsatti, is charged with paying Dolley $750 to take care of the liquor cases against John Adamolis, Joe Napoli and M. Romersa. On this occasion Johnson is believed to have been sent out of the city to Phoenix, Ariz., on a case, and it is stated that Orsatti appeared in his stead and paid the money to Dolley. Before going to the place of rendezvous, Dolley had communicated with U. S. Dist.-Atty. Burke and agents of the prohibition force. Officers of the Department of Justice were stationed so that the conversation between Dolley and Orsatti was plainly overheard by the watchers, it is asserted.

This case is looked upon as among the most important occurring in the recent history of Federal prohibition enforcement in Southern California. The indictment covers twenty-one counts.

It was stated last night at the office of U. S. Dist.-Atty. Burke that the calendar of the local court would be cleared for the immediate trial of the case against Orsatti and Johnson. Both defendants will be arraigned in the Federal court Monday morning.

KNOWING MEATS SAVES

Properly Informed Housewife Can Use More Common Cuts When She Understands Nomenclature

Shakespeare, to the contrary notwithstanding, there is a good deal in a name when one is buying meat! It is so easy to say, "Two pounds of porterhouse steak, please," when all the while more flavorsome cuts may be bought for at least a third less per pound.

The different cuts once learned and their possibilities once understood, the sensible housekeeper will serve the less tender cuts at least twice a week.

In preparing the cheaper cuts of meat, remember that as the fibers are larger and the meat consequently tougher in proportion, it must have long slow cooking to render it tender and palatable. For this slow cooking or braising select either chuck, flank, plate, neck, shin, shank, short ribs or round. Either the brisket or chuck makes a good pot roast.

Before cooking sear the surface by pressing each side of the meat down on a sizzling hot pan, turning quickly as soon as the surface of one side turns a whitey brown color. This sear process seals up the cut ends of the muscle fibers and keeps in the juices.

EASY TO DISTINGUISH

Adding vegetables and cooking the meat in a casserole gives a nourishing and very palatable dish that will furnish many of the food elements needed to balance the diet.

It is easy to distinguish the different grades. Thickness of lean meat and liberal depth of fat are general indications of quality. Choice beef has a smooth, uniform outside covering of clear white fat, and firm, fine textured flesh of light red color. It is finely marbled; that is, has a mixture of fat through the lean flesh. Good grade beef has a lean meat of a firm, even texture, and a light to medium red color. The fat is firm and usually a creamy white and distributed through the lean so as to produce a slightly marbled or mottled effect. The outer covering of fat is smooth, firm and evenly distributed. Common beef has a higher percentage of bone to meat than the better grades.

VEAL IS PINK

Veal is pink and somewhat less firm than beef. Pork is dark pink and the fat is less firm than that of either beef or mutton. Pork should cut easily and have a layer of pure white fat. Mutton is a dull brick color and lamb is a light pink or grayish red, according to the age of the animal.

Meat should be firm to the touch and elastic and it should smell fresh.

The cuts of good grade beef are more palatable than cuts of common grade. A series of tests made by the Department of Agriculture shows, moreover, that shrinkage in cooking is much greater when common meat is used.

When meat reaches the home it should be unwrapped, put on a plate, and placed in the ice box. Frequently it is put away with the wrapping paper on it. The paper not only absorbs valuable juices from the meat, but frequently sticks to it.

Whenever possible, the bone and the fat should be separated from the leftover meat as soon as the meat is finished, since this can be done easier and better while the food is still warm.

CURE FOR SALT

If, as sometimes happens, too much salt has been added to the meat, it may be corrected by sprinkling a small amount of brown sugar over it.

It sometimes happens that, owing to a change of plans, meat purchased for use today may be kept over for a day or two. If refrigeration is good, the delay probably will cause no harm. The use of a marinade, however, is a wise precaution, especially since both beef and mutton really are improved by it.

The marinade may be prepared by mixing a tablespoonful of vinegar or lemon juice with two or three tablespoonfuls of olive, corn, or peanut oil and adding a light seasoning of salt and pepper. A bit of bay leaf or onion may be added also, but if this is done, the meat should be covered tightly if placed afterward in a refrigerator.

HE MIXES CHIVALRY, BANDITRY

Laundry Girls Stuck Up by Modern "Robin Hood," Safe Rifled

A lone bandit with a Boston accent yesterday morning announced that he was the modern Robin Hood and, after apologizing profusely, held up a clerk, book-keeper and four other girls in the office of the Quality Laundry, 1518 Paloma street, and robbed the cash drawer of the safe of more than $500. Still pressing his forefinger on the trigger of a revolver in his right hand, the "gentleman bandit" then pocketed the money, backed smilingly out of the establishment and drove off in a small automobile.

Miss Irene Hindle of 222 North Fremont avenue, a clerk, was standing behind a long counter in the front office of the laundry when the bandit entered. Four other girls and Miss Irene Graham of 1125 West Seventh street, bookkeeper, were sitting at their work in an inner office.

Walking up to the counter the bandit doffed his cap to Miss Hindle and asked for the laundry of a Mr. Sproul of 3101 South Figueroa street. Miss Hindle said she was unable to find the package and informed the bandit that she would have the manager look it up.

"Never mind bothering the manager," the bandit suggested. "I've changed my mind." He paused a moment and then continued, speaking loud enough so that the book-keeper and the other girls could hear:

"Ladies, it grieves me to have to cause you any trouble or frighten you. I never like to discomfort the women. God bless 'em, so please do just as I say. I know of a certain person who needs money very badly and at once, so I am about to get it for him."

The modern Robin Hood then drew a revolver from his coat pocket and leveled it toward Miss Hindle and the other girls.

He rifled the safe and then backed out of the office, placed his cap on his head and walked swiftly to the door. There he turned around to the amazed girls and, bowing low, bid them "Adieu."

WILL STAGE FINAL FIGHT FOR SUCCESS

Chiropractors Are Recruiting Army in Behalf of Bill They Advocate

More than 10,000 workers in Southern California will start a final campaign for the chiropractic bill before the voters at the coming election. This announcement was made yesterday afternoon at campaign headquarters by Dr. Frank Pyott, field secretary.

Last night a meeting attended by more than 250 chiropractors was conducted at campaign headquarters in the Copp Building. Dr. William McFarland presided. Senator George A. Lynch and Dr. Charles Wood delivered brief addresses.

Senator Lynch expressed his approval of the chiropractic bill, while Dr. Wood read a telegram from Gov. Campbell of Arizona lauding the efforts of the chiropractors in their campaign. The Governor said the board is a success in Arizona.

Meetings will be conducted at San Bernardino, Santa Barbara, Bakersfield and Pasadena.

CONTINUE WOMAN'S NEW TRIAL MOTION

Upon the request of James Donovan, attorney for Mrs. Annette Flaherty, recently convicted of receiving $89,500 of the money stolen from a safety-deposit box of the Farmers' and Merchants' National Bank by a bank guard and a clerk, argument on a motion for a new trial was continued yesterday by Judge Shenk until the 30th inst. Time for arraignment for sentence was also continued until that date.

William E. McFee, aged guard at the bank, is serving a term in San Quentin for the theft, and Raymond C. Whitehill, young clerk, who admitted aiding in the theft, was granted probation of ten years.

PRACTICAL RECIPES

Helps for Epicures and All Who Appreciate Good Cooking

BY CHEF A. D. WYMAN, M. C. A.

During the next six weeks housewives all over the world will be making their Christmas plum pudding and one and all will tell you that they have the original receipe. The earliest recipe for plum pudding that we have been able to find was published in "The Whole Body of Cookery Dissected" by William Rabisha, printed in London in the year of 1730, and it differs very little from the plum pudding recipes of today.

Pierre Blot, professor of gastronomy, and founder of the New York Cooking Academy, gives practically the same recipe in his "Hand-Book of Practical Cookery for Ladies and Professional Cooks," published by D. Appleton & Co., in the year 1867. Pierre Blot's recipe is as follows:

"Break with the hands, in small pieces, about twelve ounces of the soft part of good and well-baked bread, not too fresh, but not stale, and grate it. Clean twelve ounces of raisins and currents, half of each. Cut in small dice four ounces of citron and four ounces of candied orange rind. Chop fine the rind of a lemon. Butter a towel slightly and dust it with flour, slightly also. Take twelve ounces of good fresh beef suet, remove the fiber and skin as well as possible, and chop it rather fine with four ounces of flour, and which put in a large bowl. Mix with it seven eggs and half a pound of sugar.

"It is believed by many that brown sugar is better than white, but it is only a belief, if not a prejudice. Add and mix again the bread, raisins, and currents, the citron, and orange rind. Having the whole thoroughly mixed, add half a gill of French brandy or Jamaica rum, a little salt, the lemon rind, half a gill of cream or a little milk, and a little grated cinnamon. Place the mixture on the towel, and tie it as fast as possible, giving it a round shape. Drop the towel in boiling water, and boil from four to five hours. Some boil plum pudding as long as seven hours. It may be boiled in a mould for that purpose, but it is easier in a towel and quite as good.

"When taken from the water, remove the towel, cut a little piece of the pudding off, to make it stand better on the dish. The place to cut off is generally where the towel was tied, being less smooth. Serve hot with a brandy-flavored sauce."

CALIFORNIA PLUM PUDDING

We have received a number of requests for our best plum pudding recipe, and as we expect to receive more we will give it now, so that all may have it in advance of the holidays. Toast to light brown, without burning, two cups of fresh breadcrumbs, and add to them half a cuff of strong black coffee and let stand until the crumbs are soft.

Beat to a cream one cup of butter and two cups of light brown sugar and when well creamed beat in the well-beaten yolks of six eggs. Combine the breadcrumbs with the butter mixture and beat smooth.

The night before the pudding is to be mixed place in a bowl one cup of seeded raisins, three-quarters of a cup of seedless raisins, half a cup of shredded candied citron, half a cup of shredded candied orange peel, half a cup of seeded and chopped dates, half a cup of blanched and chopped almonds, half a cup of chipped walnut meats, two-thirds of a cup of chopped figs, and over all pour half a cup of strained orange juice and one and a half cups of cider.

Add the fruit mixture to the first mixture, and stir in one teaspoon of cinnamon, one teaspoon of salt, one teaspoon of mace, one-third cup of chopped preserved ginger, one teaspoon of ground cloves and half a teaspoon of paprika. Mix well and stir in carefully the stiffly beaten whites of six eggs.

Butter and flour pudding molds, fill three-quarters full with the pudding mixture, cover tightly and boil in a kettle of boiling water for six hours. Do not let the molds touch the bottom of the kettle and do not let the water stop boiling.

Make the pudding a week or two before Christmas, and boil one hour before serving. Service with plum pudding sauce and hard sauce.

This pudding is easily digested, more so than the puddings made with suet, but as a writer from Santa Barbara asks for the modern English plum pudding recipe we will give that also.

ENGLISH PLUM PUDDING

Chop and place in a bowl half a pound of seeded raisins, add to them one cup of seedless raisins, one cup of seeded and chopped dates, one cup of chopped figs, two-thirds of a cup of chopped, candied lemon peel, two-thirds of a cup of candied, chopped orange peel, half a cup of chopped citron, one-half a cup of chopped walnut meats, half a cup of chopped, blanched almonds, one cup of brown sugar, one teaspoon of salt, half a pound of chopped beef suet, gristle removed, two cups of sifted flour, one teaspoon of cinnamon, one-half a teaspoon each of ginger, nutmeg and mace, one-quarter of a teaspoon of cloves and four cups of bread crumbs. Thoroughly mix all of these dry ingredients and then add to them the grated rind of one lemon, one teaspoon of lemon juice, four tablespoons of orange juice, half a cup of molasses, half a cup of cider and four well-beaten eggs. Stir well, let stand one hour and stir some more. Steam in buttered and floured pudding molds four hours and steam one hour before serving.

PLUM PUDDING SAUCE

A good sauce for fruit puddings is made by beating to a cream half a cup of butter and half a cup of sugar; beat into the creamed butter and sugar the well-beaten yolks of two eggs and beat until light. Beat into the stiffly beaten whites of two eggs half a cup of sugar, beat well and then beat into the first mixture and beat again. Place the mixture into a double boiler and stir over the fire until thick and smooth; do not let it boil. Place in a bowl four tablespoons of orange juice and four tablespoons of cider, pour into this the hot sauce and beat with a wire whip until light and foamy.

PUMPKIN PIE

J. D., Glendale, requests recipes for pumpkin pie, the filler cooked before pouring into the crust, and for a light corn bread.

For one pie rub enough steamed or baked pumpkin through a colander to make one and a half cups of pulp. Place in a bowl two eggs and beat, beat slightly and add to them the pumpkin pulp, four tablespoons of brown sugar, one tablespoon of melted butter, one teaspoon of salt, a dash each of cinnamon and ginger, a few grains of nutmeg and one-third of a cup of milk. Mix well, pour into a double boiler, stir until thick, do not boil, pour into a baked pie shell and set in the oven for ten minutes.

CORN BREAD

Sift one and a half cups of corn meal with one and a half cups of flour, two tablespoons of sugar, one teaspoon of salt and six level teaspoons of baking power; add to the sifted dry ingredients two well beaten eggs, one and a half cups of milk and two tablespoons of melted butter; mix well, pour into a buttered baking pan and bake in a hot oven twenty-five minutes.

RICE WITH SHRIMPS

B. M. W., Santa Cruz, was served with a special rice dish at one of the local cafes and asks that we furnish the recipe. As we have never tasted the dish served at this cafe we will give our recipe for shrimps and rice Italian and think that this will answer her request.

Place in a deep sauce pan six tablespoons of olive oil, heat and add half a cup of chopped ham, one chopped clove of garlic, one onion chopped fine, and one finely chopped green pepper. Simmer until the onion is soft, then stir in one cup of washed rice, one-third of a cup of Italian tomato paste and two cups of meat stock. Cover the pan and place in the oven until the rice is soft. Stir in two tablespoons of grated Parmesian cheese, and a little finely chopped parsley. Turn out on a hot platter and garnish the top and sides with cooked, shelled shrimps or pieces of cooked crab meat.

CANNING PIMENTOS

K. W., Pasadena, requests directions for canning pimentos. Select sound, uniform pimentos of medium size. Remove the seeds by cutting around the stems with a slender paring knife and with the knife carefully cut the white membranes and draw out with the seeds. To peel, place the peppers in a hot oven for ten minutes or until the skin blisters, be careful not to burn, and with a slender knive remove the skin. Flatten the peppers and pack in layers in pint glass jars. Do not add any water. Be sure that the jars are well filled. Put on the tops and process for twenty-five minutes in boiling water at 212 deg. Fahrenheit.

Handle bell peppers by the same method.

BANANA PIE

K. M. L., city, requests recipes for banana pie and green pepper relish. For the banana pie press through a sieve enough bananas to make two cups of pulp and add to the pulp half a cup of sugar, two rolled and sifted soda crackers, the grated rind and juice of one lemon, half a cup of milk, one tablespoon of molasses, a little cinnamon and two beaten eggs. Mix well and pour into a pastry-lined pie pan. Bake same as pumpkin pie.

GREEN TOMATO RELISH

To four quarts of sliced green tomatoes add six peeled and sliced onions and sprinkle with salt. Let stand over night and then place in a cloth and squeeze out all the juice. Place the strained tomatoes and onions in a preserving kettle and add one tablespoon of mustard seed, one tablespoon of black pepper, grated rind and juice of one lemon, one tablespoon of turmeric, one and three-quarters pounds of brown sugar, one tablespoon of ground mustard, two tablespoons of celery seed, half a cup of chopped chili peppers, three cups of cider vinegar, and half a teaspoon each of ground cloves and allspice. Let come to a boil and simmer until thick, stirring often to prevent burning. Pack in glass jars, seal and store in a cool, dark place.

BUTTERSCOTCH PIE

H. D., city, requests that we repeat the recipe for butterscotch pie that we gave a year ago. Beat well the yolks of two eggs and beat into them one scant cup of dark brown sugar, two tablespoons of flour, and one tablespoon of creamed butter. When well mixed beat in gradually one cup of whole milk and place in a double boiler. Cook until thick and smooth. Remove from the fire and when cool add one teaspoon of vanilla extract. Pour into a baked pie shell and cover with a meringue made with the whites of two eggs and six tablespoons of sugar. Brown in a slow oven.

CHIFFONADE SALAD

R. S. A., city, wants to know if we will give her recipes for chiffonade salad in which grapefruit is used and Italian salad made with fried green pepper. For the chiffonade salad remove the seeds and white inside from two bell peppers, dip them in boiling water to which a little soda has been added. Cool and cut in fine shreds, place in a bowl and add to them the pulp of one grapefruit, and two ripe tomatoes cut in dice. Mix with a lemon French dressing and serve on lettuce leaves.

ITALIAN SALAD

Fry one and a half cups of shredded green pepper in olive oil until tender, drain and cool. Add to the pepper one cup of diced cucumber, one cup of tomato cubes and half a cup of diced onion. Rub a bowl with a clove of garlic, line with tender lettuce leaves, add the salad that has been mixed with a French dressing made with red wine vinegar, and garnish with ripe olives, anchovie fillets and strips of pimento.

KEEPING CANDIED FRUIT

H. B. S., Hemet, asks how to keep her candied fruit. Be sure that the fruit is thoroughly dry, pack in dry jars, seal tight and keep in a cool, dry place. Wrap the jars with dark paper.

R.W.H., Van Nuys, wants to know how to prepare Swiss steak. Place in a sauce pan, half a cup of fat cut from the steak. Heat and when the fat is fried out lay in the pan a two-pound cut of top round steak that has been dredged in flour seasoned with salt and pepper. Add enough hot water to cover the bottom and place a cover on the pan and let cook until tender. Add one cup of tomato sauce, half an onion chopped fine and one clove of garlic mashed. Cover pan and let simmer slowly for thirty minutes. Remove steak to hot platter. Put a border of mashed potatoes around the edge of the platter and pour over all the gravy from the pan.

GRAPE TRIFLE

M.D.S., Anaheim, asks if I will give a recipe for grape trifle as made in England. Wash and stem four pounds of Isabella grapes and place in a enamelled saucepan with one cup of water. Let cook over a very slow fire until the grapes are soft. Put through a fine sieve and sweeten to taste. Line the bottom of a glass dish with slices of sponge cake, cover with the cold grape puree, cover the grapes with a good, thick custard, and cover the custard with whipped cream. Garnish with walnut halves and chopped, candied cherries.

GAMESTERS FOLD TENTS AND TABLES

Hasty Exodus of Tented Gamblers Follows Visit of County Officials

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

LONG BEACH, Oct. 27.—The canvas-covered Mecca of gamesters, snuggled just outside the city limits, collapsed this afternoon. Croupiers of the whirling roulette ceased spieling in the name of fickle Mammon. The wheel of fortune left its axis and the caged chuck-a-luck quit clicking its diced syncopation. Like stealthy Arabs the chancellors of chance folded their tents and gambolled to gamble elsewhere.

Sunday night was to have terminated the Tijuanesque fiesta held under the auspices of a local oil workers' union since Tuesday, but the hectic hegira began after whisperings of an imminent raid. Ministers had demanded that the authorities take action against the carnival and Chief of Police McLendon, unable to carry his enforcement beyond the city limits, appealed to the Sheriff's office.

Last night the District Attorney's office sent C. E. Sebastian and G. B. Dudley to investigate. This evening they returned reinforced by Albert Smith, A. O. Fisher, and a flock of Long Beach policemen marshaled by Chief McLendon.

But the exodus had been excellently executed. The signs of a secret stampede were plainly stamped upon the suburban steppes. Only a lean layout of candy wheels and dimunitive dice games remained where there had been rampant rollicking. Seven asserted regents of revelry were arrested on charges of operating gambling devices. Bail was set at $50 each.

SHOWS GROWTH OF INDUSTRIES

Survey Published by Board of Census

City Leads State in Number of Plants

Workers Doubled, With Wages Threefold

Los Angeles as a commercial and industrial center, and as an increasingly imprtant factor in the production of the necessities and luxuries of life among the large cities of the country, is described in the survey of manufactures of California just issued by the Bureau of the Census at Washington, D. C.

While this report is incomplete, in that it was made two years ago, it is the latest available detailed report relative to the position which Los Angeles occupies as a manufacturing center. The figures will be greatly augmented by the remarkable progress made by the city during the past two years, a period of unprecedented growth in point of new industrial establishments.

Four counties of the State, Alameda, Contra Costa, Los Angeles and San Francisco, represent 67.5 per cent of the total value of products manufactured in California. The total horsepower throughout the State, as reported in 1919, as compared with 1914, shows a gain of 56 per cent, an actual increase of 274,991 horsepower.

LOS ANGELES LEADS

Los Angeles county shows a heavy lead over all other counties of the State in the number of manufacturing plants, the number of people employed, and the amount paid in wages. The 1919 census shows a total of 3514 industrial plants, an average of 61,665 people employed, and the sum of $72,534,095 paid in wages during the year. San Francisco county, the nearest competitor, had a total of 2360 manufacturing establishments, an average of 48,850 employees and a total of $59,704,842 paid out in the form of wages.

Los Angeles city alone, in the five year period between 1914 and 1919, showed a tremendous gain as a manufacturing center. In this period the number of industrial plants increased from 1911 to 3540; the number of wage earners nearly doubled, with an increase from 23,744 in 1914 to 47,118 in 1919, and wages were trebled. In 1914, the sum of $18,277,000 was paid in wages, while in 1919 the payroll of manufacturing plants within the city was $55,111,000.

For the materials needed in the manufacture of the wide variety of products turned out by the factories of Los Angeles, local manufacturers paid out the sum of $58,941,000 in 1914, but in 1919 the raw materials cost them $159,819,000. The value of the manufactured products more than doubled in the five years covered by the report, Los Angeles-made products having a valuation of $103,468,000 in 1914, as against a value of $273,184,000 in 1919.

Los Angeles manufactures products are listed under more than five general classifications, ranging from artificial stone to wirework, rope and cable. More than 300 industries which do not fall under these classifications are listed under one general heading, these industries employing about 14,000 people.

CLOTHING BIG FACTOR

The manufacture of men's and women's clothing constitutes one of the greatest industries of the city. In 1919 there were more than 100 of these establishments in Los Angeles with an annual production running into $12,000,000, or more than $1,000,000 per month. Local clothing manufactures spent in excess of $7,000,000 during the year for their raw materials.

The canning and preserving industry, with sixty-three establishments listed employed 2165 people pall out $1,721,000 for wages, purchased raw materials to the value of $8,580,000, and put out manufactured products with a valuation in excess of $13,000,000.

Manufactured foodstuffs to the value of $2,235,000 were turned out by local factories; the furniture industry manufactured products to the value of more than $5,897,000; lumber and timber products exceeded $10,000,000 in value; flour mills products were valued at $13,792,000, and the output of the local foundrys and machine shops exceeded $24,000,000. The meat-packing industry also rated high among local activities, the output of this division reaching a total valuation of more than $25,000,000. A not inconsiderable item is the valuation of $9,799,000 placed on the output of local confectionery and ice cream plants.

ON SOUND BASIS

These industrial plants, employing thousands of people, and turning out millions of dollars worth of manufactured goods, and a combined capitalization of $158,454,008 in 1919 according to the census, these plants are almost doubling their plants capitalization in value of manufactured goods, a situation which reveals the sound basis upon which local industry is founded.

The report gives in great detail the industrial activities of all cities in the State with a population of 50,000 or more people.

BAIT NO CAUSE FOR DIVORCE

This Man May Use Liquor to Lure Fish so far as Court is Concerned

The hunting and fishing tripe of Stanley E. Burton seemed according to his wife, Hazel L. Burton, to afford him an opportunity to drink. Charging this as mental cruelty, she sought a divorce in Judge Summerfield's court yesterday.

"Because a man goes hunting and fishing and maybe takes 'bait,' that is no excuse for a divorce," opined the court, as he continued the case until November 14.

In every recipe it is possible to use Milcoa and equally impossible to detect any difference in the finished cake, while the cost is much less. The uncolored is best for white cakes. For other cakes and for pastry it may be colored if preferred.

You'll find its freshness a big help in every kind of baking.

Can You "Taste" the Shortening in Your Cakes

You know how common it is for the shortening in cakes to be too strong.

Everything you bake will be better blended and more delicately flavored if you use Milcoa—always sweet and mild.

Pastry comes out of the oven tender and sweet—due largely to the purity and freshness of Milcoa when it reaches you.

If you don't use Milcoa it's because your neighbors haven't spoken to you about it. In every neighborhood Milcoa users find that it carries its good flavor into the things they cook and bake. You will never change after you once try it.

Every good cook knows the importance of a mild and sweetly flavored shortening for pastry.

SEER CHARGED WITH ROBBERY

at liberty under $5000 bail on the felony charge filed against him by the 16-year-old girl-wife, Mrs. Hildreth.

Since news of the additional charge has leaked out the robbery warrant will be turned over to Sheriff Traeger today for service upon Newman. No additional bail will be asked, Dep. Dist.-Atty. Joos stated.

Judge Summerfield recently held him to answer on the charge of failing to provide for one of his children by one of his assertedly numerous marriages after a preliminary hearing in Department 3 of the Superior Court.

With his bride of three months the "Reverend" Newman resides at 901 Manhattan Place awaiting his preliminary hearing on the complaint filed by Mrs. Hildreth and a subsequent felony charge filed by two Los Angeles women which asserts Newman made them pose before him in the nude during "readings" he gave them.

The charge of robbery, which carries a penalty of from one year's imprisonment to life, will be the third upon which Newman is tried, Dep. Dist.-Atty Joos stated last night.

In the event Newman is found guilty of one or both of the charges upon which he is to be tried here, he will be haled into the Ohio courts on the robbery complaint after expiration of whatever sentence the court adjudges him.

If he is acquitted the Ohio police authorities will have him extradited at once, it is said.

Not one of the 150 women said to have paid him $5 a reading, nor a single one of the men said to have invested heavily in wildcat oil-stocks upon his advice, can be induced to file charges of fraud against him, the official asserted.

KANSAS CITY (Mo.) Oct. 27.—Preliminary hearing of James Dudley Majors on a highway robbery charge, scheduled here today, was continued until November 4.

ROOSEVELT SOCIETY IS ORGANIZED

Political Leaders Pay Tribute to Memory of Former President

A permanent Roosevelt Club of Southern California was organized last night when nearly 500 men and women gathered in the banquet hall of the Broadway Department Store, Fourth street and Broadway, to observe the anniversary of the birth of the former President of the United States.

A telegram from President Harding was referred to in which he declared that the fact that Roosevelt has so soon following his death become an almost legendary figure is proof that high ideals and sincere, unselfish service are unerringly recognized.

W. B. Mathews, chairman of the organization, read telegrams from Gov. Stephens, Congressman Osborne and Friend W. Richardson.

Mr. Richardson was acclaimed as "our next Governor."

In his telegram Gov. Stephens conveyed his regrets at not being able to attend the gathering and expressed his continued admiration for the character of the former President.

Roosevelt's unswerving honesty of purpose and his dynamic energy were praised in a telegram from Congressman Osborne.

Picturing Roosevelt as gripping the imaginations of his countrymen as had no man since Napoleon, Senator Johnson, the principal speaker of the evening, declared that the name of each was a name to conjure with.

"In the zenith of his power the shadow of the great Corsican rested upon all Europe like a pall. After a lapse of a century came the only thing in human affairs comparable to the Napoleonic shadow—the Roosevelt light," he declared.

ASSERTED SPEEDER APPEALS HIS CASE

The State Supreme Court yesterday granted a writ of habeas corpus to Fred F. McLain, who was arrested on a charge on speeding August 14, last. The officer making the arrest asserted that McLain was traveling twenty-eight miles an hour when he crossed the Colorado street bridge, in Eagle Rock City, whereas the sign board at either end of the bridge said plainly: Slow down to fifteen miles."

McLain pleaded not guilty when he came up for trial yesterday morning in the Recorder's Court, Eagle Rock, but the justice held the opposite view of the matter and pronounced a sentence of $15 or fifteen days in the County Jail. McLain's attorney immediately petitioned for the writ of habeas corpus and the high court, in granting it, set Monday next as the date of hearing the case. McLain was released on his own recognizance.

RARE MUSICAL WORKS AT GAMUT

BY EDWIN SCHALLERT

Those who weary of the conventional type of musical program may well find surcease for their ennui in such a concert as was presented by the Los Angeles Chamber Music Society last night at the Gamut Club. It was the first introduction of this new association of musicians, who are devoted to the cause of the beautiful in ensemble, and whose destiny, I believe, is sufficiently sponsored so that they may freely express their hopes and their ambitions.

The Chamber Music Society is really an outgrowth of the Philharmonic Quartet, the Ensemble Moderne and several other bodies musical, which have heretofore functioned separately. They have been brought together in one organization, so that they may fulfill their promise more securely, and bring to the public many chamber music compositions which are all too rarely heard.

I regret that I cannot set down that their premier effort was met with a ready response on the part of the public. However, I conceive that once the news of their success has spread, they will be favored by a larger following. Those who were present betokened their estimation of the new musical endeavor with the heartiest applause, and evidenced their anticipation of what this society has to bring.

The program was replete with novelty. Not that the works were to give are new, there was, in fact, a strong representation for the classics, but even the classics belong in the category of the rare, at least in the playing.

There was for example a Mozart Quintet scored for piano, oboe, clarinet, French horn and bassoon—an unusual combination of instruments to say the least. There was also a septet in E flat by Beethoven — violin, viola, violincello, contrabass, clarinet, bassoon and French horn. We have heard rumors of these works often, and some of us have actually heard the works themselves, but at that they are seldom rendered under such favorable auspices, outside of the musical centers abroad.

Of the modern school there were also two examples, the Nocturne, "Fairyland," by Josef Holbrooke, and the Rhapsody, "The Bagpipe," by Charles Martin Loeffler. These two were played by L'Ensemble Moderne, including Blanche Rogers-Lott, as pianist; Hendri de Busscher, oboist, and Emile Ferir, violist. They were a pleasant interlude of the present, very effectively rendered by the musicians composing the trio.

How different in mood were the classic productions. They carried one in spirit back to an older day in music. There is about these numbers an aristocracy of velvets and brocades. They singularly exhale the atmosphere of by-gone regal courts.

They were a delight in the hearing, for the intonation was in the main clear and the interpretations full of enthusiasm. The members of the ensemble seemed to enjoy their task and put to it their most earnest effort. Such men as Sylvain Noack, Emile Ferir, Ilya Bronson, Ernest Huber and the others may well merit our esteem for the feeling and sympathy which they gave to the Beethoven septet. Henri de Busscher, S. B. Bennett, Max Fuhrmann, Pierre Ferrier, and again Mrs. Lott are to be credited with a splendid endeavor in the Mozart Quintet. They have really given a significance in the present to these interesting compositions.

WELFARE OF SCHOOLS IS DISCUSSED

Protective League Names New Directors and Plans New Campaign

The Public School Protective League held an overflow meeting last night at the Alexandria, electing a board of directors and preparing for coming activities. Mrs. Dora Stearnes, the new president, presided, and a board of directors was elected as follows: Mrs. Stearnes, Mrs. T. P. McCrae, Henry Van Arsdal, F. A. Knight of Long Beach, H. S. Van Patten, Mab Copeland Lineman, H. T. Edwards and Marshall Stimson.

Rev. Reynold Blight spoke in support of the Shepherd-Towner bill. He gave figures on the number of illiterates in the United States and the consequent danger to American institutions, and said a national department of education with a secretary of education in the President's Cabinet would go far to remedy the evil.

Mr. Stimson gave the annual report of the league. He reviewed the history of the law abolishing compulsory vaccination in this State. He said the authorities when urged to do so by the league had given up attempts to take throat cultures of children whose parents had asked for exemption from physical examinations. The work of the league, the speaker said, has been carried on on a friendly basis with the school and health authorities.

The report of the membership committee showed a vigorous and active membership scattered over the State. The legislative committee reported itself ready to work in connection with any legislation that might come up before the new Legislature.

SISTER OF MARIE PREVOST WILL WED

Marjorie Prevost, sister of Marie Prevost, and herself a film actress who has appeared in various pictures, including the Charles Ray feature, "Smudge," which showed during the past week, will be married today to Lloyd Bergren, San Francisco broker. The wedding will take place at Riverside, and will be attended by the family and intimate friends. Marie Prevost will be bridesmaid and William Bergren, brother of the bridegroom will be the best man. There will be a wedding breakfast at the Mission Inn at Riverside, following the ceremony.

Rowland is Now Head of Film Circuit

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

NEW YORK, Oct. 27.—J. D. Williams, general manager of the Associated First National and one of the moving spirits in the company since its formation six years ago, has presented his resignation to the directors in session here, says Louella Parsons in the Morning Telegraph. His resignation has been accepted, and Richard A. Rowland, who has been associated with Harry O. Schwalbe for six months, has been appointed to the position left vacant by Mr. Williams, she continues.

While Mr. Williams's resignation is hardly a surprise, it having been rumored for the last week he would withdraw from the First National, now that the story is made public, it is the chief topic of conversation. Mr. Williams is very popular and he has so many friends that everyone is asking what he intends to do.

Although no one would talk and it was impossible to reach Mr. Williams himself, the gossip in film circles is is that he will take with him some of the First National franchise holders and employees and start an independent company. It is said, although not with any verification, that he has been paid two years' salary and that financially he has been well taken care of.

Richard Rowland, who steps into J. D.'s shoes, is also one of the most popular men in the industry. He made many friends while president of Metro and in addition to their confidence in him he has the respect of everyone in the industry who realizes that he knows his business. He has been particularly close to Mr. Schwalbe, who is called the "big boss" of First National.

Seldom has any change been effected that concerned two men so well thought of in the industry. J. D. Williams hasn't an enemy. If he does start a new company he will take with him the good wishes of many friends who believe any organization with which he is associated will prosper.

In the brief announcement sent out from First National it is said Mr. Williams will take a vacation before announcing his plans.

LOEW'S THEATER TO ENTERTAIN ORPHANS

More than 1400 motherless and fatherless kiddies of Los Angeles from every institution in this vicinity are to be guests of Loew's State Theater this morning to see "Forget Me Not," and Bull Montana in his latest comedy "A Punctured Prince." Afterwards they will be treated to Eskimo pies donated by the L. A. Creamery Company and candy from the Mathews Candy Company. Preceding the entertainment there will be a parade of the orphans led down Broadway by the police and firemen's band.

"FLAPPER" IN BOOK FORM

Within the next two weeks a special Dorothy Gish edition of "The Country Flapper," which is now playing at the Symphony Theater, will be off the press. "The Country Flapper" first appeared as a magazine story, but was so popular as a film that the producers have rushed through a special motion-picture edition. The book will be illustrated with scenes from the motion-picture version, and Joseph Farnham, whose screen subtitles have been such laugh getters, was secured to write the important parts of the dialogue in the novel.

MAYO IS TOLERANT

Frank Mayo belongs to the class of stars who don't care how much of an opportunity their vehicles give supporting players to "steal" the picture. "Wolf Law," the Hugh Poindexter story filmed by Universal and coming to the Superba Theater tomorrow, was prepared by Charles Sarver and directed by Stuart Paton with the star's wish in mind that every player in the cast be given an exceptional chance for an unusual portrayal. Sylvia Breamer, the leading woman, achieves something out of the ordinary, it is said, and Harry Carter and Nick De Ruiz portray rival characters with all the skill of many years' experience.

NAN COLLINS ENTERTAINS

Nan Collins, casting director of the United Studios, will entertain some friends with a dance and dinner Friday evening. Some well-known screen actors have received invitations to the formal affair. Among those invited are George Fisher, Gareth Hughes, Cullen Landis, Helene Chadwick and Rex Lease.

CAFE REVUE OPENS

Big-time vaudeville is to be brought to the dinner table at Brandstatter's Marcell Cafe tonight when June and Jack Laughlin, footlight favorites, open with their company of fifteen for an indefinite stay. "The Whirl of New York" is the title of the piece, and Miss Rose Perfect will be prima donna of the revue. Presentations begin at the dinner hour and end at 1 a.m.

DIVERTISSEMENT RUSSE

Slavic Club Will Present Relief Entertainment Tonight

The Russian Club, an organization composed of Americanized Russians, will present a program featuring ballet dancing and music at the Disabled Veterans' Hall, 246 South Hill street, tonight. The entertainment is being sponsored by the International Institute of the Y.W.C.A. and the proceeds therefrom are to be distributed by the Hoover Relief Administration in Russia.

An original Russian ballet will be interpreted by Anton Yarotzky and his talented partner, Anna Karenina, and Elza Cherniavsky and Manya Cherniavsky Schwartz, violinist and 'cellist, respectively, will supply the musical divertissements with Mme. Pittard, pianist, assisting.

A Vaudeville will also find its place on the program in a skit, entitled "A Little Mouse Did It," staged by Seda Boudagian and Nicholas S. Karr.

CLARA DYES TRESSES FOR SAKE OF CAREER

When Director Mal St. Clair began selecting his cast for the "Fighting Blood" series, Clara Horton stood out among all the other available actresses like a moon among the stars. Miss Horton had everything; vivacity, charm, looks and ability. Her only drawback was the fact that she possessed beautiful golden tresses whereas, St. Clair wanted a young woman for the part who had dark hair.

"You are ideal for the part," said St. Clair, "except for the color of your hair. The actress portraying the role of Judy should have dark hair."

"Well, then, I'll change the color of my hair," Miss Horton declared.

The result was that Miss Horton, who is known to film fans the world over as a blonde, now has very rich dark-brown hair. She dyed her tresses to the sake of the camera.

EILEEN PERCY WILL PLAY OPPOSITE HERB

Eileen Percy has been re-engaged by Universal. She will play opposite Herbert Rawlinson in his next vehicle.

A few weeks ago she completed the title role of "The Flirt," the Universal-Jewel version of Booth Tarkington's famous novel of "The Folks Next Door," which Hobart Henley directed. "The Flirt" is expected to eclipse the success of any previous production of the company.

The new Rawlinson vehicle is "Castle Craneycrow," George Barr McCutcheon's widely read novel of romance and adventure. Jack Conway, director of Rawlinson in such successful features as "Don't Shoot," and "Another Man's Shoes," will guide the McCutcheon transition.

HAS STRONG STORY

DOROTHY PHILLIPS'S NEXT TO BE SPELLBINDER

By Grace Kingsley

Unusually fortuitous are the circumstances surrounding the commencement of Dorothy Phillips's next starring vehicle, which will be produced by Allan Holubar and distributed through Associated First National Pictures. Monday is Miss Phillips's birthday anniversary, and this year that date (the 30th inst.) also marks the commencement of production on "The White Frontier," by Jimmy Deprend.

The company is to travel to Northwestern Canada for the out-door scenes of the story. Interesting is the announcement that publication of the novel will be held up until the date of the first release of the photodramatic version.

Bill Russell Buys Ranch

Though still devoted to his art, William Russell, Fox star, has just come a farmer. He has just purchased a ranch in the vicinity of Burbank, and spends his leisure there with his dogs and horses.

Emily Stevens With Morosco

Emily Stevens is to return to the Morosco fold and will play the leading role in Thompson Buchanan's "Sporting Thing to Do," when the play is produced in New York.

Enid Bennett played the role here, but refused to part with husband and baby even for the sake of gaining fame in New York. In private life Miss Bennett is Mrs. Fred Niblo.

DOUBLE BILL AT GRAUMAN'S

To usher in the regular winter theatrical season in fitting style, a pretentious program has been arranged for Grauman's Theater next week, presenting two motion-pictures of highest quality. "The Cowboy and the Lady," a swift-moving colorful story of life on a Wyoming ranch, which presents a new angle of the eternal triangle, and some innovations different from the usual run of photoplays, based on Clyde Fitch's famous play of the same name and featuring Mary Miles Monter and Hom Moore, is one, and Larry Semon's latest comedy, "Golf," which is full of Semon acrobatics and thrills in climbing and high jumping, and the characteristics which seem a part of this fun producer, is the other.

"FASHION PLATE" HERE

Having about finished celebrating its aniversary week, the Orpheum starts in a new generation Monday with a corking line-up for a good show. Karyl Norman, "the Creole fashion plate," with wondrous garb and inimitable manner, and Ivan Bankoff, the great dancer, with Beth Cannon, are featured headliners. Weaver brothers, hand-saw musicians, are another novelty, and Kennedy and Berle are a couple of juveniles who have a regular act. The bill throughout looks good.

CAMPAIGNING FROM HOSPITAL

Buron Fitts Recovers from Airplane Accident

Condition Not Critical, but Demands Long Rest

Mother Hurries to Bedside of Injured Man

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

SANTA BARBARA, Oct. 27. — "Tell them to vote for Propositions 1 and 2," said Buron Fitts, former head of the American Legion in California, lying on a cot in St. Francis Hospital, fighting his way to recovery from injuries sustained last night when the airplane in which he was speeding from San Francisco to Oxnard to speak for these propositions, was wrecked on Carpinteria Beach where a forced landing was being made by Lieut. John D. Patrick, Army airplane pilot.

Mr. Fitts's condition is greatly improved. Attending physicians say he escaped broken bones and internal injuries but suffered severe shock which, provided no unexpected developments set in, will confine him to his cot for some days and forbid further campaigning for his favorite measures.

During the day the injured man received a stream of telegrams of sympathy from over the country, practically all from members of the American Legion, and from men prominent in national affairs.

The machine was completely wrecked. There will be little salvage from it, says a Carpenteria report. Late today the attending doctors, after a thorough examination of the injured man, announced that his condition is not critical and no symptoms of an alarming nature have been detected, though it will probably be a considerable time before he can leave the hospital.

His mother rushed from Los Angeles to his bedside. She was much reassured after seeing her son and is stopping at the Arlington Hotel.

LIKE DAYS OF OLD

Redlands Man Plans to Spend Winter Trapping for Fur

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

REDLANDS, Oct. 27. — The days of trapping and hunting are not entirely a thing of the past in Southern California although the trappers have been forced far back into the mountains. This was shown here today when E. A. Bethurm started with 100 traps. He will run a trap line from the East side of Grayback down into San Diego county and will have two assistants in following the line during the winter months.

Trapping for furs is a lucrative business at that for there are still plenty of good furs to be found in the mountains. Bethurm plans to use an automobile in running his trap line during the winter months and will be able to cover the entire line once a week.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

UPLAND, Oct. 27. — Mayor Frank C. Buffington was suffering tonight at his ranch home in Euclid avenue from a painfully injured back, sustained in a fall on some jagged rocks in Cucamonga Canyon, while directing the selection of some fancy building stones.

It was at first thought the Mayor had sustained serious injury to his spine but X-ray photographs failed to show displacement or broken bones and attending physicians have ordered a rest for a week or ten days.

Major Operation Necessary After Motor Smash Near Ontario

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

ONTARIO, Oct. 27.—Fred Fuller, a salesman, aged 31 years, residing on South Ardmore avenue, Los Angeles, was obliged to submit to a major operation this morning at the San Antonio Hospital as the result of internal injuries caused by a motor-car accident. Mr. Fuller was riding with Clarence Place and Newell Ralphs, both of San Bernardino, when their car turned turtle on South Euclid avenue. The spill occurred shortly before midnight, while the machine was traveling at an asserted high rate of speed, after a rear-end collision with a machine driven by Clyde Roberts of Campus avenue and Riverside Drive.

Besides internal injuries, Mr. Fuller suffered a deep cut on his right temple, and his right hand was badly mangled. Four surgeons and a corps of nurses worked with the man all morning. It was stated this evening that his recovery is expected. His wife was notified and is with him at the hospital.

Mr. Place, who was driving the car south on Euclid avenue at the time of the accident, was badly cut about the left hand and Mr. Ralphs, the third member of the party, received a deep cut over the right eye. The latter was able to leave the hospital this afternoon.

After striking the Roberts machine, which was said to have been traveling slowly and well to the right of the road, the car driven by Place turned over several times and was badly wrecked. Mr. Roberts, who is the son of J. C. Roberts, well-known rancher, was accompanied by his sister, Miss Beulah Roberts, and Andrew Crevolin, none of whom were injured. The rear of the Roberts car was damaged.

NERVY FRUIT THIEVES ROB ONTARIO RANCH

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

ONTARIO, Oct. 27.—Police of Ontario and Southern California were tonight endeavoring to capture three nervy fruit thieves who early today loaded 200 boxes of fine Zinfandel grapes on a truck at Benton Ballou's Vineyard-avenue ranch, to the southeast of Ontario, and made their escape. The grapes were valued at $360.

According to F. W. Eichorn, ranch superintendent, who reported the theft to the police, the thieves did their work within two blocks of the ranch house and evidently afraid to drive their heavy truck into the sandy vineyard, carried many of the boxes, which had been left standing in tiers, for a distance of 300 feet to their conveyance.

ROADS PLACE LARGE EQUIPMENT ORDERS

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

CHICAGO, Oct. 27.—Railroads of this country have placed orders for 122,953 new freight cars and 1793 locomotives from the first of the year to October 15, statistics compiled by the Railway Age show. The number of cars exceeds the average number ordered annually for the ten years ending with 1921, which was 106,469. The average number of locomotives ordered during the same period was 2118.

The number of cars loaded with freight in the four weeks ending October 14, 1922, was 2.9 per cent less than the number loaded in the corresponding weeks for 1920, the Railway Age reports.

THE SHOW GOES ON

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

ONTARIO, Oct. 27. — Although the first rain of the season somewhat spoiled the decoration of the first annual industrial exposition of the Ontario Business Men's Association now in progress here, it failed entirely to dampen the ardor of the crowds of merry-makers, who thronged the midway as soon as the showers were over.

Exhibitors promptly busied themselves freshening their booth displays following the rain and the exposition was the scene of much gayety tonight.

CHIEF FAVORS CITY PENSION

Police and Firemen Render Valuable Service

Protection in Return Just, Stevens Declares

Entertainment to be Given by Departments

"Amendment 8A is something the people of Los Angeles should force of the fire and police departments, instead of requiring the men of those departments to ask its approval."

Thus declared Jay W. Stevens, chief of the fire prevention bureau of the National Board of Fire Underwriters, in a statement yesterday indorsing the measure to make the fire and police pension system a permanent part of the city charter.

CITIES HAVE PENSION

"Virtually every American municipality of the first class has already adopted a pension system for its fire and police departments," said Chief Stevens, "and these systems are based on two primary considerations, the removal of the departments from the influence of municipal politics and the adequate protection of dependents."

Chief Stevens, who was formerly head of the Portland, Or., Fire Department, is in Los Angeles making a survey of fire conditions with a view to advising Chief Scott and the local authorities as to needed improvements and extensions of fire apparatus.

ORGANIZE SHOW

The traveling show organized by the fire and police departments to work in the campaign for pension charter amendment 8A and the fire bonds will make ten appearances in various parts of Los Angeles between now and election day, according to the announcement of Capt. R. Lee Heath, in charge of arrangements.

The schedule of bookings includes the Van Nuys High School, Saturday, October 28; San Pedro High School, Monday, October 30; Jefferson High School and Kinema Theater Tuesday, October 31; Elks' Club, Wednesday, November 1; Lincoln High School, Thursday, November 2; Knights of Columbus Hall, Friday, November 3; Estaria-street School, Saturday, November 4.

WORKERS GIVE SHOW

This show, which is being used to supplement regular speaking engagements in favor of the fire and police pension amendment and the city fire bonds, has proven unusually popular at neighborhood gatherings, because of the excellence of the program.

The program includes a concert by the fire and police bands; selections by the police quartette; humorous and pathetic stories and vocal music. According to Capt. Heath this traveling show, recruited from the ranks of the fire and police departments, has proved "the hit of the campaign."

Coachella, Cal., is on the map with six receiving sets, which by the way, does not seem to be unusual to the casual reader, unless it be remembered where Coachella is located. Coachella is only a few miles northwest of the Salton Sea, and is seventy-six feet below sea level. H. M. Clark, one of the six who depend on the air to supply them with a great deal of entertainment, writes that he has heard thirty-six broadcast stations in ten States; three in Oregon, one in Nevada, two in Utah, two in Colorado, one in Iowa, four in Texas, one in New Mexico, one in Arizona, and twenty-one in California. Mr. Clark says, Los Angeles stations, as a rule, do not come in as good as Bay City stations, and some even at more distant points.

As yet no fire alarms have been received by radio at the San Pedro fire department, but the department while waiting for alarms to be sounded in the usual way, employs its radio receiver for listening in to concerts from broadcast stations all over the West, writes Carl R. Bauer. In behalf of himself and the "rest of the boys," Mr. Bauer, declares that KHJ was as good as the best broadcast station they ever heard. The new Times station will be on the air very shortly, and the record made by the old, undoubtedly will be upheld.

When V. M. Bitz, 5153 South Van Ness avenue, is on the job during the relay hours late at night, he has the ear of hundreds of listeners throughout the West and even farther on many occasions, as cards he receives attest. Lately 6JD has received cards from the following, stating that he is being heard: 6ZAC, Cliff Dow, Wailuki, Hawaii; 2BBB, George Engle, Ridgewood, N. J.; 9BED, George Kinsey, St. Louis; 9D8D, P. [LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

REDLANDS, Oct. 27.—The Rev. J. J. Woodson of Talbot is the new pastor of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, in Redlands, succeeding the Rev. W. O. Waggener, who has been the minister for several years. Rev. Waggener has been given a year's leave of absence from regular pastorate work because of ill health. He will remain in Redlands durinig the year and may take up his work in the local church at the end of that time.

The conference in San Francisco sends the new pastor to Redlands. He is a young man who has been particularly successful in his pastorate work, and especially so among the young people of the churches he has held. He will be here to take charge of the services Sunday.

INVESTIGATE ACCIDENT

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

SANTA BARBARA, Oct. 27.—An Army airplane with Lieut. W. A. Maxwell and Sergt. Steiniy arrived in Carpinteria today from San Francisco to investigate the cause of the Fitts accident last night. They made the trip in three and one-half hours because of detours around air pockets and storm clouds.

They thought that Lieut. Patrick was forced to land in spite of fog because of gasoline shortage. A truck carried the ruined airplane from the water and the wreck was shipped to San Francisco. It is considered a total loss.

WINS DIVORCE PLEA

John Lee Waller, former naval sailor, was granted a divorce from Stefina Waller by Judge Willis yesterday. He charged that his wife, who married him in August, 1914, left him two years later because she would not live on a homestead he had taken up in Montana.

Couple Warned They Failed to Prove Charges

Intimating that he did not believe either side had produced sufficient testimony on which a divorce might be granted, Judge J. Wood yesterday continued the trial of Mrs. Grace Coe Goucher against Samuel Grant Goucher until Monday. This was the second time during the bitter fight between the two that the court had warned them that they had not yet proved their charges.

After Judge Wood had expressed himself on the action, however, Mrs. Goucher's attorney produced testimony to explain why the wife had technically deserted Mr. Goucher. An incident that occurred in 1906 was brought in to show that because of the fact the Goucher believed her husband associating with another she was justified in refusing to live with him.

ROJANS BATTLE WITH GOLDEN BEARS AT PASADENA THIS AFTERNOON

SOUTHERN FRESHMEN GIVEN EDGE

California Frosh Badly Crippled for Game Today With Trojan Babes

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

BERKELEY, Oct. 27.—Whatever may be the result of the game at Pasadena between the Bear and Trojan varsities, "Old Man Dope" gives the U.S.C. freshmen a tremendous advantage over the Blue and Gold first-year team when they tangle at Berkeley field tomorrow.

Only three men on the first-string team here are not incapacitated, Dixon, Schaffnitt and Angier. Dixon has starred right through the season, but every other man has something the matter with him, the majority with more or less serious injuries. Due to the crippled condition of the team, Coaches Barnes and Toomey have been forced to discontinue almost all scrimmages this week.

Davis Farm, the California "Aggies," have been beaten twice by the Babes, once 14 to 0, and last Saturday 21 to 0, and so far this season the California freshmen have won every game. But a team of cripples is admittedly inadequate to cope with what is said to be the best freshman team which has ever represented U.S.C.

It hasn't detracted from the gloomy outlook as to the result of the game for the faculty to announce that Carey, star center, has been disqualified on account of scholastic standing. Blewett, who was expected to star against his home-town team, Wear, Higness, Dodson, McEanany, D. Carey, Saundby, Mell and Cook are all in such poor condition it is doubtful if any of them will be able to start tomorrow's game.

Two large magnavoxes have been established at each end of the field, with telephonic connection with Pasadena, and results of the game in the south will be transmitted, play by play. So, in spite of the dark outlook for the California freshmen, the field will be well filled by those anxious to hear the details of the expected varsity victory.

FRANKLIN WALKS ON PIONEERS

Coach Dougherty's Eleven Hands Defeat to L. A. High Gridiron Battlers

Coach Dougherty's hard-hitting bunch of Franklin High School footballers stepped all over the Los Angeles team yesterday afternoon in a heart breaking game that was played on the Pioneers' field and which ended 13-6 for the Kitefiyers.

Los Angeles, after gaining the ball on Franklin's half-yard line in the first quarter, was unable to get it over in four downs.

Bob Lee was the whole team for the Franklin boys. His punting during the entire game was better than that of the pioneers by an average of fifteen yards.

Toward the end of the second quarter the gains which Franklin made on the long kicks of Lee, took the ball well into the Los Angeles territory, and after a couple of bucks that made long distances, and a long pass to Teachout from Lee, the ball was bucked over by Lee, who failed to make the goal, however, and the quarter ended, 6-0.

In the third quarter Franklin bucked to the 5-yard line, from where Lee again went over. This time Bob managed to put it between the posts, and the quarter ended, 13-0.

Opening up with a series of forward passes in the final period the Pioneers walked down the field for a touchdown in the last five minutes of play. The play which took the ball over was a fake buck that turned into a fast end run, and Thompson sailed over the line for the only score of the Gophers.

The line-up:

Redlands and Chaffey Union Battle a Tie

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

REDLANDS, Oct. 27.—Redlands High and Chaffey High battled to a 6-to-6 tie here this afternoon in a Citrus Belt League game. Last year Redlands and Chaffey played a tie game, but in the play-off Chaffey won. Redlands has already played one tie game in the league schedule this year with Pomona High School.

Chaffey outplayed Redlands in the first five minutes of the game and scored. The Tigers took the ball down the field on straight football and one short forward. Riley plunged over the line with the ball after Redlands had held for three downs. Baxter tried to kick, but failed. Redlands scored in the second quarter when MacCubbin snagged a Chaffey forward and raced seventy-five yards for a touchdown. Sturtevant tried to place kick for the winning point, but the pass was poor and the kick was blocked. The line-up:

Chaffey (6.)		Redlands (6.)
Dinger	L.E.	Hinz
Springer	L.T.	Hunt
Higley	L.G.	Smith
Drew	C.	Draper
Dizzi	R.G.	Davis
Ingalls	R.T.	Spratt
Cline	R.E.	Cotter
Slatter	Q.	Stutzman
Oliver	L.H.	Brook
Guthrie	L.H.	Brook
Bailey	F.	MacCubbin

Substitutes for Redlands—Babbitt for Hinz, Smith for Hunt, Hirsch for Smith, Moore for Cotton. Chaffey—Van Fleet for Higley.

Stockton, referee; Fischer, umpire; Bill Yount, head linesman.

WHITTIER WINS FROM FULLERTON

Yesterday afternoon the Whittier High defeated Fullerton High by the score of 9 to 0. The playing was most sensational, many freak plays keeping the spectators on their toes.

The touchdown was made by Landreth, fighting fullback, when he blocked a kick, recovered the ball and ran thirty yards to the Fullerton 1-yard line where he bucked the ball across. The goal was not converted. Landreth also accounted for the field goal kicking from the 20-yard line.

Jackrabbits Check Maurice Before He Gets Fairly Started

TIGERS CLAW POETS

Oxy Bengals Crown Whittier; Pomona Eleven Romps All Over Redlands Crew

BY JOE PUNT

Occidental without Gary and Ridderhoff proved to be considerably better than Whittier without Suggett yesterday and the battling Tigers crowned the 1921 conference champions by the juicy score of 27 to 6. The game was played in Patterson Lake, a beautiful body of water nestling in the foothills of Eagle Rock.

The Tigers' mud soaked march to victory once and for all establishes them as real contenders for the conference championship for which Pomona is favorite. Pipal's men, minus their two backfield "aces," fought furiously at all times, on one occasion holding Whittier for four consecutive plunges on the 1-yard line, and thoroughly deserved their victory.

The game started with a punting exchange in which Shoaf of Occidental had all the honors. On Whittier's next attempt at a boot Johnny Spangler blocked it and recovered and Capt. Jean Cory promptly scored a place kick from the 20-yard line. A few minutes later after similar preliminaries Prisaulx blocked a punt and Corey picked it up and rolled across the Whittier line, later kicking goal.

At the start of the second quarter Whittier came to life and Thompson, Rohrbaugh and Ferguson plunged through the line to a first down one yard from the Tiger goal line. Four furious plunges into the center of the Tiger forwards were absolutely fruitless and Shoaf punted to the Tiger 40-yard line.

MEEKER CROSSES GOAL

Here the Quakers attempted a forward pass which, because of the slippery condition of the pill, became a goofy pop-up into the ozone and Meeker, Occidental's galloping right tackle, tucked it under his wing and ambled some sixty yards to a score, greatly aided by some first class interference run by Westgate. Corey again kicked goal, making the score Occidental 17, Whittier 0.

In the third quarter the field was getting worse and worse and nobody was making many yards, but finally the Tigers managed to get into Whittier territory and Corey booted his second field goal from the 35-yard line, giving the Tigers a margin of twenty points.

Here Pipal began hurling substitutes into the fray and right off the bat the Quakers began to make yards, chiefly by means of split bucks. The Quakers walked right down from midfield to a touchdown, Ferguson taking the ball across, the kick for goal failing. Occidental, 20; Whittier, 6.

SPLENDID DODGING

Occidental came back to life with a terrible rush and had slammed across a touchdown within two minutes after the kickoff, a handsome forward pass to Walker, on which that young man made a splendid dodging dash down the sidelines for a score. Corey again kicked goal, making the score: Occidental 27; Whittier 6, and the whistle blew immediately after the kick-off.

Westgate	L.G.	Woodward

Score by quarters:

Occidental	7	7	6	7—27
Whittier	0	0	0	6—6

Scoring—For Occidental, touchdowns, Corey, Meeker, Walker; goals after touchdowns, Corey, 3; goals from the field, Corey, 2. For Whittier, touchdown, Ferguson. Substitutions—Too numerous to mention.

Pomona College continued merrily on its way toward the championship of the Southern California conference here yesterday by trimming Redlands, 33 to 0, in a game that was featured by the brilliant aerial attack of the winners. Although the game was played in the rain and the ball was slippery, the Sagehens pulled off a lot of daring overhead stuff. Much of which went over the heads of the Bulldogs.

The Redlands squad had a fairly good defense, but its offensive power was lacking. Redlands made but two first downs. A pass, Doughty to Dyer, gave the Sagehens their first score in the opening period. A pass by the same combination brought the ball to the 4-yard line in the second quarter, from where Clark went over. Wilson went over for a touchdown at the start of the third quarter. Doughty kicked goal. Daggs scored a touchdown in the

SEASIDERS TRIM POLY

Long Beach Wins Gruelling Battle From Fighting Mechanics by Score of 7 to 0

Coach Ed Keinholtz's powerful Long Beach eleven continued its winning streak yesterday at Washington Park by defeating Polytechnic, 7 to 0, after one of the hardest-fought grid battles that has taken place before City League fans for a long span of years. Although the Jackrabbits won, they knew they had been in a terrible battle and came as close to being defeated as could and still win.

A 65-yard run by Don Hill, Seasider left half, brought about the only points, early in the initial quarter. With the ball on the Green and Gold 35-yard line, Don Hill took the pigskin and went off right tackle, quickly reversed his field, while his team-mates cut down the Poly backfield, and galloped the 65 yards that won the battle. Drury drop-kicked for the seventh point.

This, instead of causing the Mechanics to lose heart, only caused them to fight harder, and they did. From then on it was eleven Blue and Gold men, covered with mud, battling, sliding, squirming—but always fighting against the heavier Jackrabbits. Four times the Mechanics plowed their way within the Long Beach 20-yard only to lose the ball. Barlet, Stahl and Maurice proved enigmas to the Long Beach line, all three of them clicking off large gains through the Seasider forwards. Barlet practically carried the eval 40 yards on bucks in the final period. With 4 yards to go to make first down on the Long Beach 10-yard line, Barlet again took the ball and crashed into the heap of humans. By a great effort he was stopped by the Jackrabbits one scant yard from his mark.

Long Beach then got the ball and Drury punted. The Mechanics once more started their drive. With but a minute to go, a pass, Maurice to Aides, gave the Mechanics revived hope. Another pass was tried, but Al Hill intercepted it and started on what looked like a sure field to a touchdown. "Bunny" Maurice, the smallest man on the field, was the only man between Hill and the goal posts. Three Long Beach men were charging at Maurice, but the doughty Poly halfback dived and caught Hill's flying feet and prevented the Jackrabbits from scoring another touchdown.

In the third quarter when the Seasiders had carried the ball to the Poly 20-yard line on end runs and off-tackle bucks, Herman Stahl, after just being revived from an injury, dived through the Jackrabbit line and stopped the Long Beach man with the ball for a loss. Once more on the next play Stahl downed the Jackrabbits for a big loss. On the two plays, Stahl caused the Jackrabbits to lose 25 yards.

Long Beach showed most of its power in the third quarter when they carried the ball to the Poly 15-yard line on end runs and off-tackle bucks from the same formation. Here, however, the Mechanics held and Twitchell punted to midfield. The Jackrabbits rushed down the field again, but this was the time Stahl stopped them. In the last quarter it was all Poly, as in the first half. Long Beach really had the advantage in only the third period.

The Mechanics' best chance to score came in the second quarter. Drury was attempting to punt on the Long Beach 30-yard line and Wilson broke through and blocked the ball, which rolled outside on the Jackrabbit 5-yard line. Wilson made a dive for the ball, but it skidded out of his clutches and a Long Beach man fell on it. Drury then punted to midfield.

The stars of the game were Drury, Don Hill, White and Wallace for the Jackrabbits, while Stahl, Maurice, Barlet, Carlisle, Souples and Cox played wonderful games for the Mechanics. The line-ups:

Long Beach (7.)		Poly (0.)

Association Forms Three Semipro Leagues

BUSHERS START PROGRAM SOON

Loops Divided According to District Plan

Sixteen Contests Scheduled for Tomorrow

Expect Record Attendance at Triple-A Games

BY JOE BUSH

Three leagues were formed at a meeting of the Greater Southern California Baseball Association at Spalding's Sporting Goods Store, and everything has been made ready for them to start their schedules within two weeks.

The leagues have been arranged so as to put most of the teams in the same sections together. Downey, Norwalk, Lynwood, Hynes, Palomar, Hollywood Merchants, Hollywood Studios and the Cimarrons were put in the first league organized. Four of these clubs have home grounds and all of the teams are fairly evenly matched, so the race in this league should be hotly contested.

In the next league, Glendale, Pomona, Glendora, Cleary Athletic Club, Amalgamated Oil Company, White Kings and Watts Eagles were included. One more team will be injected into it soon to give it an even number of clubs. All of the squads in the league play a fast brand of ball so this loop should also be a success.

The third league formed is composed of the L. A. Japanese, Salt Lake Playgrounds team, Fraternal Brotherhood, L. A. Chinese, Latin Cubs, Harper Reynolds, Southgate and the New Method Sewing Machine Company. These teams are all rivals and should put up a tight battle for the league pennant.

Aside from these three leagues, a circuit of six teams, capable of playing major league ball, has been formed. The teams in this circuit are: San Diego, Murphy Coyotes, Colored All-Stars, Major League All-Stars, Minor League All-Stars and Chet Chadbourne's Tigers. The managers of these six clubs will meet at Spalding's at 7:30 Monday night to discuss the rules and by-laws to be adopted by the circuit.

Doc Crandall, Angel twirler, is managing the Murphy Coyotes and has a strong squad lined up. The club's home grounds will be at La Habra. Back in 1916 and '17 the Murphy Coyotes were the strongest of any semi-pro squad in the State, and Doc promises to have just as strong a team there this winter. Several members of the Los Angeles Coast League club are playing with Crandall's squad.

Doc Anderson's Colored All-Stars telegraphed yesterday that they would not arrive in Los Angeles for two weeks more as they have several more exhibition games to play in the East. As the colored stars will not arrive to play the Association Stars, there will be no game today, but the Association Stars will play a picked Southern California colored team at the White Sox Park tomorrow. Ed Stuart will manage the Association club. The members of the team follow: McDonald, Troutwein and Harris, pitchers; E. Gomes and King, catchers; Anheir, first base; McDowell, second base; Kingdon, shortstop; Carmona, third base; G. Gomes, left field; Bender, centerfield; Ligier, right field; Morales, utility.

Following is the schedule of the Greater Southern California Baseball Association for tomorrow:

Association All-Stars vs. Southern California Colored Club, at Sox Park.
Chadbourne's Tigers vs. San Diego, at San Diego.
Hollywood Studios vs. Norwalk, at Norwalk.

The Vernon Edison Club meets the Edison Transportation squad at the Garden City Athletic Club Park today. Manager Mahoney has strengthened his Vernon squad with the addition of three new men. Guy Wilkinson, the fastest outfielder in the Edison League, will play left for his squad and Campbell and Cole, two chuckers formerly with the Buick Autos, will pitch for his team.

Record breaking attendances at the various ball parks in the Triple A division are anticipated by the club owners. Six contests appear on the calendar for tomorrow.

What is expected to develop into one of the bitterest baseball struggles ever witnessed in the semi-pro ranks is the Santa Barbara vs. Ventura Elks contest on the latter's field. Milton Ramelli's antlered herd has been going great guns of late, but it is freely predicted that they will be considerably slowed tomorrow by the Channel City gang.

Carl Sawyer's Sawtelle nine will clash with the San Pedro Lumberjacks in another feature tilt of the day at Sawtelle. The other games lined up follow: El Segundo vs. Shell Oil at Signal Hill; Hammond Lumber vs. Huntington Beach at Maier Park, Vernon; Rose Room Dancers vs. Huntington Beach Merchants at Huntington Beach; Cox-Haas vs. Santa Fe A. C. at San Bernardino.

Coach Stagg put the Maroons through a light drill today to polish up the new plays held in reserve to use against the Tigers.

On the eve of battle the "old man" announced the selection of Otto Strohmeier, one of the best players in Chicago in years, pilot for tomorrow's game. Strohmeier has been shifted from end to quarterback for the Princeton struggle.

AIR BABES SUBMERGED

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

SAN DIEGO, Oct. 27.—The Submarine Base eleven of Los Angeles Harbor defeated the Fleet Air Station team here today, 14 to 0, in a game in which fast, open playing was prevented by a drizzle that made the field slow and sloppy. All the scoring was done in the first half, Sub Base counting a touchdown in each quarter. In the final half, Fleet Air stiffened and played their opponents on even terms.

Both of the touchdowns were scored on flukes, although the visitors had much the better of the argument at the start. Weaver went over the line in the opening period after recovering a fumble, and in the second quarter Sub Base got the ball on a blocked kick and scored.

INTERCEPTS PASS

Fleet Air several times attempted to start an offensive by resorting to forward passing, and almost succeeded in scoring in the third quarter. Buckley intercepted a forward pass and after running 20 yards stumbled with an open field before him. The same player went around the end on the next play for 25 yards.

The Sub Base team then stiffened and the locals lost the ball on downs. The game was one of the features of Navy Day in San Diego. Several thousand bluejackets were given shore leave. This morning several detachments of sailors paraded the downtown streets. Line-ups and summary:

Either Squad Has a Chance to Win Game

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

CHICAGO, Oct. 27.—"It will be a great game with either team having a chance to win. Further than this I do not care to comment on the result."

This was the statement made today by Bill Roper, coach of the Princeton football team, which will meet Chicago tomorrow on Stagg Field in one of the greatest intersectional struggles in history.

The men from Junglestown arrived at the Chicago beach hotel shortly after noon. Their train was late and after a hasty luncheon, they repaired to Stagg Field, where Roper sent them through formation drills and permitted Cleaves and Von Gerbig to do some punting. Forward passers and the receivers came in for a deal of attention, but the most of the time was spent in getting acquainted with the surroundings and learning about the air currents which shoot through the many exits and channels around the field.

The Tigers showed the effects of the hard struggles engaged in this year. Some had discolored eyes and others wore patches on their noses. Some limped badly, but in general, it is a good-looking squad, evenly balanced in weight, although there are a few players over six feet tall. Although determined, the men were in a happy frame of mind, despite the delay of arrival.

CHAFFEY GRID SQUAD DEFEATS FULLERTON

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

ONTARIO, Oct. 27.—Chaffey Junior College started its football league season with flying colors this afternoon, when the local school defeated Fullerton J. C. by a score of 13 to 0. The game was played in Fullerton. Chaffey had the first kick-off and the first quarter was marked by much seesawing and no scores. Hare and Bailey for Chaffey did some good work in the second quarter and Fullerton did some clever short passing, but without results so far as scoring went.

In the third quarter, Chaffey made a good run following Fullerton's kick, and York made a spectacular tackle. Chaffey made her gains on downs and on the third down, Bailey put the oval across for the locals. Chaffey failed in the goal kick, but was given the point when a Fullerton man was off side and the score stood 7 to 0. In the fourth quarter, Goodwin for Chaffey made a wonderful run and scored the second touchdown, which, however, was not converted.

Sacco Defeats Joe Coffey in Legion Arena

BY GERALD PIDGE

Announcer Dan Tobey introduced the main event at the American Legion Hollywood arena last night as the "Sack o' Coffee bout." This was a bit too deep for Fred Thatcher, but he finally solved the pun. The way Jimmy Sacco and Joe Coffey started out it seemed that Dan might have termed it the "package o' postum affair." Sacco broke loose in the third round, however, with a volley of rights and lefts that found their mark on the Coffey face. He continued this mode of attack in the final round, and although Coffey loomed up at times, he was rightfully entitled to the verdict he received.

Jimmy Marcus busted his right fin in the third round of his bout with Spec Woods in the semi-windup and was unable to show anything from then on. Woods took advantage of Marcus's handicap and wore him down with a steady lacing to the mid-section. Decision to Woods.

Sailor Walters decisively whipped that game Filipino, Kid Moha, in every round of their mill. It was a tough scrap all the way. Racehorse Roberts carried off the honors over Leo Matlock in a slugging bee. "He aint tough, aint he?" inquired Jockey Levy of the ringsiders. Racehorse proved he "were."

Ray Lee, the Chinese banty put up a great scrap against Pete Herman, but the latter took the decision. These little fellows made it a two-man fight over every foot of the route. Jack Welch bested Billy Maxwell in a clumsy battle. Sailor Ebding's seconds tossed in the towel in the first round to save their man from Sailor Pegge.

TWO BIG CONTESTS IN CONFERENCE GRID

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

KANSAS CITY (Mo.) Oct. 27.—Tomorrow's football program in the Missouri Valley Conference offers two choice affairs for followers of the gridiron sport. The first is the Nebraska-Oklahoma clash at Norman, while the second is the Kansas-Kansas Aggie scrap at Manhattan.

The powerful Cornhuskers are conceded the edge over Oklahoma. The Sooners, however, are expected to fight every minute of the game. Their dogged persistence was shown in the game with K.S.A.C. last week, when they scored a touchdown in the last few minutes of play and thus tied the score.

JOE LYNCH BARRED FROM BOXING BOUTS

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW YORK, Oct. 27.—A situation unique in Gotham ring annals developed today when it became known that Joe Lynch, bantamweight champion, has been barred temporarily from boxing at Madison Square Garden by the New York State Athletic Commission, as a result of his recent poor showing there in a match with Joe Wolfe of Cleveland.

This became known when Promoter Tex Rickard sought sanction for a match between the bantam and Burman of Chicago on November 6, or Thanksgiving night, November 30. Chairman William M. Muldoon of the commission flatly refused sanction.

TO NAME O SCHEDULE

Point That Six Will Play

to Begin Season in January

Has Made Big Strides Since the War

[SPECIAL DISPATCH.]
SANTA ROSA, Cal., Oct. 27.—Members of the Pacific Coast subcommittee of the Polo Association will meet tonight at Del Monte to discuss and make up the circuit for next year's polo season. Indications are that five or six clubs will make applications to enter the tournaments and that one of the most interesting of polo seasons is assured.

Santa Rosa is going to apply for a place in the tournament the latter part of January and the first part of February, and the annual spring tournament in March and a summer tournament in August. It will be the biggest polo program considered at Del Monte.

[SPORTING NOTICES]

Fred Miller of Los Angeles, chairman of the committee, sent out notices to all members to be present. Those on the committee with Miller are S. F. B. Morse of Del Monte, Harry G. Patterson of Coronado, Francis Carolan of Riverside, Maj. C. G. Ross of Monterey.

Polo has made great strides in California since the war. The game and the players have been developing fast, horses and the players themselves have been collecting valuable ponies. The indications are that this coming winter will see a greatly improved class of polo exhibited. The champion Monterey team is again going to be organized under the guiding hand of Christian Burke. Hugh Tevis is picking up a number of ponies at Del Monte, and Willie Hollister is showing up interest at San Mateo. The Monterey Presidio is also taking a keen interest.

It is a possibility that a Canadian polo team will come to California this winter, and there is talk that Canada and the Pacific Coast section will be represented.

MILLER DEAD

ELEVENS CLASH RAIN OR SHINE

and recalling what happened in the W. and J. game last New Year's, they were inclined to be very dubious about an impressive victory over U.S.C. in the new football bowl at Pasadena today.

"Brick" Morse, than whom there is no whomer among California grads, is generally a most optimistic cuss. Last year he said nothing would satisfy California but a score of about 75 to 0 over the Trojans. The Bears rolled up over half that many points, but dividin "Brick's" 0 to 0 score if it rains, which was his prediction yesterday, you can figure out for yourself what the score will be today.

The game will be played rain or shine, and with the sky leaking it toward the former condition it may be a point in U.S.C.'s favor. Those versed with Andy Smith's system and his combination of plays figure that the Bears would have trampled all over W. and J. on a dry field last New Year's. With the field soggy and the ball wet there isn't much chance to heave forward passes around for any particular gain. The W. and J. boys made a monkey of Brick Muller, the ace of the Bears's hurling staff. However, that is no indication that U.S.C. can do the same, but they'll be out there fighting to do it, and they may be able to turn the trick.

Some of the California boys seem to think it will be a disgrace if they don't go home with at least thirty-five points in the bank, but any one who hazards a guess on the score one way or the other is as nutty as the next guy.

Football is football and any team that fights like U.S.C. did against California last year always has a chance. As Ed Hughes, one of the northern football scribbling experts said yesterday: "If U.S.C. fights like she did a year ago it will be a whale of a football game, regardless of the score."

Rain or shine, the game will be a record breaker as far as crowds are concerned. The new stadium will be dedicated by a capacity gathering, judging by the advance sale of tickets. Over 35,000 pasteboards had been disposed of by noon yesterday, according to Assistant Graduate Manager George Schiller of U.S.C., and with the sale at the gate, starting at 9 o'clock this morning, it is a cinch they will all go before the referee tosses the coin between the rival captains. Ten thousand tickets will be on sale at the gate.

Enthusiastic undergraduates from California claim the team this year is better than the famous aggregation that walloped Ohio State by a score of 35 to 0. They point out that Spalding outranks the famous Peaky Sprott, Nichols is better than Toomey, Nesbet is certainly better than he was three years ago and the same goes for Erb. Any of the quartet is a forward-passing demon, and there is Burgess to go in in case one of the halves is injured, not to mention Duke Morrison, whose improved line plunging makes him a bulwark on the offense.

The Bear line, the Blue and Gold enthusiasts admit, is not all that it might be on the left side where Witter and Fat Clark are holding forth at tackle and guard respectively, but Dean and Beam on the other side are there a million, it is said. Brick Muller is said to be performing more worthily than in his most palmy days, and Bob Berkey is toe well known to need any comment.

The whole question simmers down to just how good is U.S.C., and whether the Trojan eleven is stronger or weaker than in 1921. Nobody has seen the real U.S.C. eleven in action this year, and for that reason no one can prophesy what the Trojans can do.

Baker, Kincaid, Campbell and Dolley have not worked in a single game in the backfield together. Both the former were out of the Nevada game, and yet the Trojans unfurled a punch in the closing minutes of play that was a real punch. They took the ball from their 40-yard line over Nevada's goal line with a dash and a vim that was surprising when compared with the work that had gone before.

Coach Henderson's aim has been to keep his team's ability a deep, dark secret. In this he has been wholly successful. The public is certainly in the dark, and probably his own men are, too.

Andy Smith is a nut on forward passes. And Gloomy Henderson is just as crazy on the same subject. If the field is dry today, it's a cinch there will be a riot of aerial tosses. Andy has been working on his pet passes longer than Gloomy. It takes time to perfect this foxy stuff—and in this respect the lanky Bear tutor has the edge.

No last-minute changes were reported in the rival line-ups. Newman and Cummings are still in doubt at one tackle for U.S.C., and Phythian and Milton at one end. Baker and Kincaid, the demon line-plungers, will be in at the start, and there may be a deal of line-plugging before the open stuff starts.

U.S.C. game the players yesterday afternoon betook themselves to Brookside Park, where Andy put them through their stunts.

The feature of the practice was punting and passing, with a little field running to accustom the fast California backs to a slippery turf, upon which they will work today.

SMITH GLOOMS

In discussing the situation Smith spoke rather disparagingly of Southern California rain and said that his speedy backfield would be greatly handicapped. Recalling previous spectacles of Andy Smith's tactics on a wet field the fans that romp out to Pasadena may look forward to a great kicking duel. Smith, when on a wet field, has but one system to play, that is kick, and kick until a break occurs and then slip over a fast line play.

Of course, the backfield will be forced to slow up a little, but on the other hand, Andy Smith's hard-hitting line will have a chance to get in some good licks. Also if a punting duel is started, Nesbit and Morrison will have little trouble in outkicking the Trojan booters.

Came the showers and Gloomy Gus let out a wail as loud as Smith's. Henderson was planning a fast campaign against California with Campbell and Baker as the stars. Rain put this idea on the blink, so Henderson will have to try the kicking game. Henderson's forwards will have a hard battle to outplay the Bear line.

If both coaches are to hold out their backfields the game will settle into a battle of line against line and booter against booter.

ASK FOR PEACE

President Barrows of the University of California has requested that all Californians and others who are to root for the Bears be careful that no after fracas takes place. Due to the intense interest displayed by both universities and also to the U.C., Southern Branch, affair it has been asked that all Californians conduct themselves in as orderly a manner as possible in order to prevent a recurrence of some of the events which took place in the past week. California therefore will conduct themselves as per Dr. Barrows's request.

Lloyd George Fights With His Back to the Wall

Lloyd George is down but not out, seems to be the verdict of neutral observers on the resignation of Britain's Premier, whose Coalition Government has been in power through the long, stormy years since the war got under way. The London Outlook blames his decline on his handling of the Near East problem, saying: "There comes an hour in the career of many successful men when some fatal flaw of character, hidden in the years of struggle, and perhaps hardly suspected in the day of prosperity, exposes itself suddenly before the world at a moment of sudden crisis. The damage may be patched up, the idol survive some time longer in the temple of fame, and the multitude still flock to see it. But the crack is there for all who choose to look."

In defending the action of his government at the Straits where he claimed to be a peace-maker and not a war-monger, Lloyd Georges states "I am told we were right in our object of keeping the Turk out of Europe, preventing a massacre at Constantinople and insuring the freedom of the Straits—all that was right, but we ought not to have used force. We ought to have argued with them, ought to have persuaded them. He is a gentleman who is very amenable to persuasion. . . . General Harrington in his message attributed the fact that he had succeeded largely to the reinforcements we had sent him, if you have any doubt about it will you hark back to the speech he delivered to the Turks. General Harrington was doubtful whether they were going to sign, and this was his last appeal. He told the Turks that conciliation had been carried to the utmost limit, and warned Ismet Pasha that Great Britain had on the spot a very large, powerful fleeet, large numbers of airplanes and guns, and by no means a negligible force of infantry—in fact, that Great Britain would be a very awkward enemy, but a very valuable friend."

One of the most interesting articles in THE LITERARY DIGEST this week, October 28th, presents journalistic opinion upon Lloyd George's resignation quoted from the English and French press. The article is illustrated with cartoons from the foremost European papers.

Flower of the North

by James Oliver Curwood

SYNOPSIS OF PREVIOUS INSTALLMENTS

Philip Whittemore, adventurer, conceives a plan to commercialize the vast fishing resources of a Canadian wilderness when he learns of the construction of a railroad which will cut the heart of a rich country filled with lakes and rivers. Brokaw, Whittemore's deceased father's business partner, obtains a provisional license to operate the industry and Whittemore goes north to take charge. In his absence, Brokaw organizes the Great Northern Fish and Development Company and sells a million and a quarter in stock. Whittemore returns and is amazed to find that his legitimate undertaking has been turned into a wholesale stock-jobbing scheme. Still hopeful that the business may prove profitable to its stockholders, he evolves a plan for further development, and Brokaw backs him with the company's funds. Whittemore returns north. Brokaw warns him by letter that rival factions are planning to wreck the enterprise. Shortly after two warehouses are burned. Tom Gregson, Whittemore's artist friend, joins him in the fight. Later Brokaw and his daughter Eileen arrive in the north. On a certain night, Pierre Couchee and his sister Jeanne, friends of Whittemore, en route to meet him at their forest rendezvous, are attacked by unknown assailants. In the fight that ensues, Pierre is wounded and Jeanne abducted. Whittemore rescues her and together they start for Fort o' God. Recalling the manner in which the name Lord Fitzhugh Lee, his mysterious enemy, had startled Pierre, Whittemore seeks to learn his identity through Jeanne, but she denies any knowledge of the man.

Philip shoved the canoe more firmly upon the shore and stepped over the side.

"This Fort o' God must be a wonderful place," he said, as he bent over to help her. "You have aroused something in me I never thought I possessed before—a tremendous curiosity."

"It is a wonderful place, M'sieur Phillip," replied the girl, holding up her hands to him. "But why should you guess it?"

"Because of you," laughed Philip. "I am half convinced that you take a wicked delight in bewildering me."

He found Jeanne a comfortable spot on the bank, brought her one of the bearskins, and began collecting a pile of dry reeds and wood.

"I am sure of it," he went on. He struck a match, and the reeds flared into flame, lighting up his face.

Jeanne gave a startled cry.

"You are hurt!" she exclaimed. "Your face is red with blood."

Philip jumped back.

"I had forgotten that. I'll wash my face."

He waded into the edge of the water and began scrubbing himself. When he returned, Jeanne loked at him closely. The fire illumined her pale face. She had gathered her beautiful hair in a thick braid, which fell over her shoulder. She appeared lovelier to him now than when he had first seen her in the night-glow on the cliff. She was dressed the same. He observed that the filmy bit of lace about her slender throat was torn, and that one side of her short buckskin skirt was covered with half-dried splashes of mud. His blood rose at these signs of the rough treatment of those who had attacked her. It reached fever heat when, coming nearer, he saw a livid bruise on her forehead close up under her hair.

"They struck you!" he demanded.

He stood with his hands clenched. She smiled up at him.

"It was my fault," she explained. "I'm afraid I gave them a good deal of trouble on the cliff."

She laughed outright at the fierceness in Philip's face, and so sweet was the sound of it to him that his hands relaxed and he laughed with her.

"So help me, you're a brick!" he cried.

"There are pots and kettles and coffee, and things to eat in the pack, M'sieur Philip," reminded Jeanne, softly, as he still remained staring down upon her.

Philip turned to the canoe, with a laugh that was like a boy's. He threw the pack at Jeanne's feet and unstrapped it. Together they sorted out the things they wanted, and Philip cut crotched sticks on which he suspended two pots of water over the fire. He found himself whistling as he gathered an armful of wood along the shore. When he came back Jeanne had opened a bottle of olives and was nibbling at one, while she held out another to him on the end of a fork.

"I love olives," she said. "Won't you have one?"

He accepted the thing, and ate it joyously, though he hated olives.

"Where did you acquire the taste?" he asked. "I thought it took a course at college to make one like 'em."

"I've been to college," answered Jeanne, quietly. There was a glow in her cheeks now, a swift flash of tantalizing fun in her eyes, as she fished after another olive. "I have been a student—a teneris annis," she added, and he stood stupefied.

"That's Latin!" he gasped.

"Oui, M'sieur. Wollen sie noch eine Olive haben?"

Laughter rippled her throat. She held out another olive to him, her face aglow. Firelight danced in her hair, flooding its darker shadows with lights of red and gold.

"I was sure of it," he exclaimed, convinced.

"That's post-graduate Latin and senior German, or I'm as mad as a March hare! Where—where did you go to school?"

"At Fort o'God, Quick, M'sieur Philip, the water is boiling over!"

Philip sprang to the fire. Jeanne handed him coffee, and set out cold meat and bread. For the first time that night he pulled out his pipe and filled it with tobacco.

"You don't mind if I smoke, do you, Miss Jeanne?" he groaned. "Under some circumstances tobacco is the only thing that will hold me up. Do you know that you are shaking my confidence in you?"

"I have told you nothing but the truth," retorted Jeanne innocently. She was still busying herself over the pack, but Philip caught the slightest gleam of her laughing teeth.

"You are making fun of me," he remonstrated. "Tell me—where is this Fort o' God, and what is it?"

"It is far up the Churchill, M'sieur Philip. It is a log chateau, built hundreds and hundreds of years ago, I guess. My father, Pierre, and I, with one other, live there alone among the savages. I have never been so far away from home before."

"I suppose," said Philip, "that the savages up your way converse in Latin, Greek and German—"

"Latin, French and German," corrected Jeanne. "We haven't added a Greek course yet."

"I know of a girl," mused Philip, as though speaking to himself, "who spent five years in a girls' college, and she can talk nothing but light English. Her name is Eileen Brokaw."

Jeanne looked up, but only to point to the coffee.

"It is done," she advised, "unless you like it bitter."

CHAPTER XIII

Philip knew that Jeanne was watching him as he lifted the coffee from the fire and placed the pot on the ground to cool. His mind was in a hopeless tangle—a riot of things he would like to say, throbbing with a hundred questions he would like to ask, one after another. And yet Jeanne seemed bewitchingly unconscious of his uneasiness. Not one of his references to names and events so vital to himself had in any way produced a change in her. Was she, after all, innocent of all knowledge in the things he wished to know? Was it possible that she was entirely ignorant as to the identity of the men who had attacked Pierre and herself on the cliff? Was it true that she did not know Eileen Brokaw, that she had never heard of Lord Fitzhugh Lee, and that she had always lived among the wild people of the north? By what miracle performed here in the heart of a savage world could this girl talk to him in German and Latin? Was she making fun of him?

He turned to look at her and found her dark, clear eyes upon him. She smiled at him in a tired little way, and he saw nothing but sweetness and truth in her face. In an instant every suspicion was swept away. He felt like a criminal for having doubted her; and for a moment he was on the point of confessing to her what had been in his thoughts. He restrained himself, and went to the river to wash the pot-black from his hands. Jeanne was a mystery to him, a mystery that delighted him and filled him each moment with a deeper love. He saw the life and freedom of the forests in her every movement—in the gesture of her hands, the bird-like poise of her pretty head, the lithe grace of her slender body. She breathed the forests. It glowed in her eyes, in the rich red of her lips, and revealed its beauty and strength in the unconfined wealth of her gold-brown hair. In a dozen ways he could see her primitiveness, her kinship to the wilderness. She had told him the truth. Her eyes smiled truth at him as he came up the bank. No other woman's eyes had ever looked at him like hers; none had he seen so beautiful. And yet in them he saw nothing that she would not have expressed in words—companionship, trust, thankfulness that he was there to care for her. Such eyes as those belonged only to the wilderness, brimming with the flawless beauty of an undefiled nature. He had seen them, but not so beautiful, in Cree women. He thought of Eileen Brokaw's eyes as he looked at Jeanne's. They were very beautiful, but they were different. Jeanne's could not lie.

On a white napkin Jeanne had spread out cold meat, bread, pickles and cheese, and Philip brought her the coffee. He noticed that she was resting a little of her weight upon her injured ankle.

"Better?" he asked, indicating the bandaged ankle with a nod of his head.

"Much," replied Jeanne, assertively. "I'm going to try standing upon it in a few minutes. But not now. I'm starved."

She gave him his coffee and began eating with a relish that made him want to sit back and watch her. Instead, he joined her; and they ate like two hungry children. It was when she turned him out a second cup of coffee that Philip noticed her hand tremble a little.

"If Pierre was here we would be quite happy, M'sieur Philip," she said, uneasily. "I can't understand why he asked you to run away with me to Fort o' God. If he is not badly hurt, as you have told me, why do we not hide and wait for him? He would overtake us tomorrow."

"There—there was no time to talk over plans," answered Philip, inwardly embarrassed for a moment by the unexpectedness of Jeanne's question. A vision of Pierre, bleeding and unconscious on the cliff, leaped into his mind, and the thought that he had lied to Jeanne and must still make her believe what was half false sickened him. There was, after all, a chance that Pierre would never again come up the Churchill. "Perhaps Pierre thought we would be hotly pursued," he went on, seeing no escape from the demand in the girl's eyes. "In that event it would be best for me to get you to Fort o' God as quickly as possible. You must remember that Pierre was thinking of you. He can care for himself. It may take him two or three days to get back the strength of—of his arm," he finished, blindly.

"He was wounded in the arm?"

"And on the head," said Philip. "It was only a scalp wound, however—nothing at all, except that it dazed him a little at the time."

Jeanne pointed to the reflection of the fire on the river.

"If we should be pursued?" she suggested.

BEANS IS PINCHED; ATHLETES REJOICE

An umpire, in the baseball season, autocrat of all he surveys, is just an ordinary flivver owner in the winter.

He is no more than an ordinary honk in the lanes of traffic. So discovered Beans Reardon, Coast League arbiter. Beans went out and bought himself an automobile the other day, and in this way he discovered that there is a higher power than umpires.

Mr. Reardon was pinched for speeding before he had traveled his first five blocks. Baseball players are said to be getting up a petition asking that he be fined as much in one lump as he fined them all season. Also, they would spill no tears should the judge order Beans into a dungeon for a few days.

TROJAN-BEAR GAME ON THEATER SCREEN

While the 45,000 football enthusiasts are yelling for their favorites at the Pasadena Stadium this afternoon, when the Bears and Trojans meet for their annual battle, thousands of others will be unable to get there, and Fred Miller, managing director of the California Theater, has sent a corps of camermen over to cover the game, and the high spots of the big contest will be flashed on the California screen, starting at the first performance Sunday.

Folks able to hold a job rarely have to look for one.

"What-might-have-been" keeps a lot of folks from cashing in on "what-is."

The chicken business supplies more experience to the gallon than anything else I know.

Our virtues would make a better showing if we devoted a little more time to developing them.

There is no better medicine than letting a laugh or a cry come to the surface as often as possible.

We can get along without genius, but civilization would curl up and die without a reasonable amount of common sense.

"Ability ain't no good if you ain't got sense enough to use it."
